Representative Burton breaks the news to Senator Willis that Ohio is for Hoover. Mr. Burton is perhaps best known for his Magnus Opus, The Anatomy of Melancholy.

* * * *

The Ohio Republican State Central Committee, in coming out for Willis, however, rather seems to indicate a preference for a candidate with a peach orchard voice and a known record as a vote getter to one gifted with rather modest vocal chords and a penchant up to date for appointive offices.

* * * *

Congress has not always come off second best in its efforts to punish contempt by a jail sentence, but that doesn't deter the Senate in ordering the arrest of a recalcitrant witness, nor is Mr. Stewart the first to get a taste of "durance vile" in the Willard, although in the other case that comes to mind it was the old Willard that served this temporary purpose. What philosopher was it, anyhow, who said that silence is golden? He didn't know Walsh.

* * * *

To the great fires of Salem, Boston, Lynn and Chelsea New England now adds Fall River, and for once the "gerry-builder" and the three-decker appear to be absolved. Here is a stout-hearted old town that will rise from her ashes like Baltimore, Jacksonville and San Francisco.

A fire at the historic Caraway mansion marks the first time that anything ever succeeded in smoking Hiram Johnson out.

Porto Rico, we're with you, and if we can ever shake off the reformers we'll try to extend a little of the freedom to you, but don't raise your hopes too high.

* * * *

Mussolini recognizes Chicago as the "ultra-American" city, which it is, and we know of no town that needs a Minister more.

* * * *

Times have changed since the first home of the present National Press Club was dedicated with a bungstarter in a little back room on F street. The first thing bought was the bar, and what was left over went into a few chairs and a round table, for in those good old days people looked after the necessities of life first and let the luxuries take care of themselves; and when reporters opened a club their wives didn't learn about it until about 5 o'clock the next morning. We move forward!

* * * *

And when the boys moved out of the old club into the old Bank of the Metropolis building at Fifteenth and F it was a mighty simple process—each fellow took along a chair or something and we well recall that one venerable gentleman, now a leading dry, carried his highball along with him in his hand.

"With stern judicial frame of mind—
From bias free of every kind,
This trial must be tried!"

The defense rests in the Hickman case, and either he is crazy or a bunch of alienists are just one jump ahead of the net.

* * * *

We are gradually beginning to lose interest in the attempts of Chamberlin and the Lowden boom to demonstrate how long they can remain aloft without coming down for more gas.

* * * *

With the Ohio State Chairman coming out for Gen. Dawes as the residuary legatee Representative Burton seems to have lost his pep as a key-noter.

* * * *

Virginia ladies succeed in killing a bill proposing equal rights for men and women—why should the women surrender anything?

* * * *

According to the brand of gloom being spread around by Admiral Jones we've got to wait until 1936 for somebody to bust up the dismemberment agreement.

* * * *

That American institution for keeping voters away from the polls, the State-wide primary, is held to be constitutional in Illinois, and Mr. Lowden has a chance to show just whose favorite son he is, which is as far as he'll get.

* * * *

It looks as though the only way Kentucky will be able to see Al Smith will be from the back platform of a Pullman along about next August.

Montana promises 8 votes for Al. "Every little bit added to what you've got, makes just a little bit more."

It is understood that when Hiram Johnson delivered the inevitable speech thanking the fire-fighters for saving Mr. Caraway's home he said, "boys, I have never before seen a boulder dam lot."

OHIO COMMITTEE BACKS WILLIS, 19-1; BURTON FOR HOOVER

State Chairman Warner Says Second Choice Is Dawes.

DENIES SECRETARY HAS ANY STRENGTH

REPRESENTATIVE BEGINS FIGHT FOR CALIFORNIAN

Invasion of Curtis' State, and Others, Seen; Headquarters Opened in Capital.

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Battle lines between friends of Senator Frank B. Willis, who was given the Republican State committee's indorsement for President today, and supporters of Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, were being formulated tonight in anticipation of Hoover entering the Ohio primary in April.

The senator's friends pointed to the committee's indorsement by a 19 to 1 vote as answer to a statement made in Washington this afternoon by Representative Theodore E. Burton, of Cleveland, that sentiment in Ohio is for Hoover. State Chairman Fred W. Warner declared that any Hoover sentiment existing in this State is "manufactured."

Dawes Held Second Choice.

"Senator Willis is the choice of Ohio," Warner asserted. "Aside from that, the real sentiment for any outside candidate is for Vice President Charles G. Dawes."

Republican leaders anticipated the mentioning of Hoover as an indication that the Commerce Secretary will contest with Willis in the presidential primary for Ohio's 51 delegates to the Republican National Convention.

The one vote against Willis at the State central committee meeting today was cast by a Cincinnati representative, while another from the same district refused to vote. They said they acted in the interests of "party harmony," believing that the committee should withhold indorsement of any candidate in view of the possibility that Willis may be opposed for Ohio's delegates.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The breach between the Hoover and Willis forces was widened yesterday, presaging a bitter fight in Ohio. A statement was issued by Representative Burton, of Ohio, designed definitely to pave the way for Hoover's entrance into his State, an action that the Commerce Secretary will take, unless the subsequent statement by Senator Willis, and other unfavorable developments, turn him from such a course. And if he goes into that State political observers believe that it means a declaration of war on other favorite son candidates.

Mr. Burton in his statement said that the "dominant sentiment" of his State is for the Commerce Secretary, and that while he had been perfectly willing to let Senator Willis have the delegation as a matter of State pride, the senator's insistence on holding the delegation was working against Ohio's influence in the general equation. As a result, if the Commerce Secretary's "friends wish that he should seek the support of the Republican voters, and if Mr. Hoover is willing to respond to that wish, it is my opinion that his name should be entered in the primary contest."

The senator promptly accepted the challenge, declaring that "it should be understood by those undertaking to violate the decencies of politics by coming into the State and causing a development of political factions which will have serious effect upon our State ticket for years to come, that this contest will be no kid-glove or powder-puff affair."

Pressing Hoover to Fight.

Of course, on the face of things, Mr. Burton's statement is but an expression of opinion as to what he thinks Mr. Hoover should do. It so happens, however, that the statement was unquestionably made with the Commerce Secretary's knowledge, and other circumstances give it the appearance of being but the first move in a plan already agreed upon, to go into Ohio. The Hoover Ohio leaders have been trying to get an agreement with Senator Willis for several weeks whereby Hoover would at some time have a chance of getting at least a large part of the delegation.

Failing in that, they have been pressing the Commerce Secretary to make a fight in the State. The Burton statement came, therefore, with a view to placing him in the light of being drafted.

"I have labored most earnestly for weeks to secure agreement in the selection of delegates to the national Republican convention," the statement read,

REPRESENTATIVE THEORDORE E. BURTON.

ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS PRIMARY LAW

INJUNCTION IS HELD GONE

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Illinois still has an April primary law.

The State Supreme Court today upheld the constitutionality of the 1927 primary act calling for the April election and virtually cleared the path for a State-wide primary on April 7 after a special session of the State Legislature had put in three futile weeks trying to seek a way out of the election maze.

The ruling was announced late today after the court had been called into special session of its own to consider the 1927 primary act, previously declared unconstitutional by a Cook County (Chicago) judge.

The action apparently swept aside all but one obstacle in the way of the April primary and cleared the slate for the filing of the first primary petitions tomorrow. The one impediment still looms in the form of an injunction issued in Cook County barring the secretary of state from receiving petitions. Although Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom is of the opinion that the action of the Supreme Court automatically dissolves the injunction, he will ask the Supreme Court, in regular session next Tuesday, to dissolve the order.

The special session of the legislators was called by Gov. Len Small three weeks ago after the Supreme Court had adjourned its December session without ruling on the case, which had been appealed from the lower court by Attorney General Carlstrom.

Subsequent to the upholding of the 1927 act, Clarence Buck, manager of the presidential campaign in behalf of former Gov. Frank O. Lowden, said the Lowden backers intended to file his

Greek Cabinet Quits; Revolt Talk Heard

Athens, Greece, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—On the resignation of the Greek government today wild rumors were current, including the familiar stories of military disaffection. The garrison was kept in barracks, but this may be merely precautionary, and not necessarily indicative of trouble. The royalist newspaper published an alarmist supplement.

In the meantime the political leaders are conferring over the cabinet crisis, which, it is stated, was brought on by a disagreement over a contract for the construction of roads.

RIOTING BREAKS OUT IN INDIA AS BRITISH COMMISSION LANDS

Simon's Reform Group Requires Protection From Police.

1 KILLED, 17 INJURED ON "MOURNING" DAY

Crowds Stone Shops; Attack Europeans' Cars; Fired On by Officers.

Bombay, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—India's determination to boycott the Simon commission on Indian affairs as a protest against the British government's omission to appoint Indian representatives to the body took active form today from the moment of arrival of the commission in this city. Heavily armed police guards had to be employed at the docks to protect the body's members from the unwelcome attentions of demonstrators.

Viceroy Lord Irwin, addressing both houses of the Indian legislature at Delhi yesterday, earnestly appealed to those concerned in the boycott movement to refrain from a course which, he said, could have only negative results and which might entail unfortunate consequences.

This appeal, however, failed to avert serious demonstrations in Bombay, Madras and Calcutta today when the "hartal," or morning closure, was clamped down with all its force in all three places. The strike, for such the "hartal" amounted to, brought with it rioting in Calcutta and Madras, and in the latter city conflict with the police, in which one person was killed and as many as seventeen or more were wounded. Europeans returning to their homes there in automobiles were attacked and their cars smashed. There were no injuries reported among them, however.

Simon Conciliatory.

Sir John Simon, head of the commission, inaugurated his stay in India with an attempt to create an atmosphere of conciliation. Before leaving for Delhi he received delegations of Hindus and Moslems and expressed eagerness to hear every shade of opinion. He promised them that after settling at Delhi the commission would do its best to remove misunder standings and suspicions, and would take every opportunity to consult with Indian representatives who will be willing to meet with it.

At New Delhi the "hartal" was organized, too, but a heavy rain had dampened the spirits of the participants and the incident passed without disorders.

The protests at Bombay continued late this evening, when a mass meeting was being held. At a mass meeting of students earlier in the day effigies representing Ramsay MacDonald,

14-Year-Old Bandits Flee as Nerve Fails

Two bold bandits, each about 14 years old and still in short pants, last night attempted to hold up the sea food cafe of O. B. Wearley at 418 Twelfth street northwest, but their nerve failed them and they fled without using the two pistols they brandished.

The two boys entered the cafe shortly after 7 o'clock while several patrons were in the cafe. Unmasked, the boys walked to a counter where two men were shucking oysters and leveled pistols at them. Evidently becoming frightened over the number of persons in the cafe, the two youths took a hasty glance around the cafe and darted for the front door.

Flames Menace Historic Home of Senator Johnson

Wing of Calvert House at Riverdale Ignites When Fire Spreads From Garage—Californian Finds Door Open After Seeing It Locked Before Blaze.

Historic Calvert House, near Riverdale, occupied by Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, was menaced last night by flames which destroyed the old carriage house and spread through the west wing of the mansion.

The blaze was fought by volunteer companies from nearby towns, but they were greatly hampered by the scarcity of water hydrants and their distance from the house.

The flames were discovered about 10 o'clock. Senator Johnson and his family were in the living room of the main building watching a moving picture show when the persistent barking of a dog attracted their attention. They smelled smoke and rushing out saw the carriage house, now used as a garage, enveloped in flames which were spreading to the rooms in the upper story. Two automobiles, one of expensive make, were destroyed in the garage, as was a quantity of valuable antique furniture stored there.

Origin of the blaze has not been determined. Senator Johnson said when he went into the house he noticed that the window and door of the garage were locked. When he rushed out at the alarm, the door and window were both open, he asserts. He would not draw a conclusion from these facts.

An ironical twist was given the scarcity of hydrants by reason of the fact that an hour before the fire broke out the town council of Riverdale had voted to petition the Washington suburban sanitary commission for additional fire hydrants for the section.

The famous old mansion, one of the show places of nearby Maryland, was built in 1758, the Calverts importing from England the bricks that were used in its construction. Recently the mansion has been the subject of bitter debate between Senator Johnson and Senator Thaddeus Caraway. After Senator Johnson had leased the house, Senator Caraway bought it. He tried to get the Californian to move out, but Johnson has stood upon his lease, and he still retains possession, although

VIRGINIA'S RACING BILL IS REPORTED FAVORABLY

Only Two Votes Cast Against Measure, Which Faces Hard Fight in Senate.

EQUAL RIGHTS DEFEATED

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Richmond, Va., Feb. 3.—Proponents of a bill that would permit Virginia counties and cities to exercise local option to legalize the use of pari-mutuel machines in wagering on horse races in the State, won the first round today when a senate committee reported favorably the Barron-Doughty measure. It will meet fierce opposition, however, on the senate floor next week.

Bitter attacks were launched against the bill by two Richmond preachers, one of whom, the Rev. W. Ashbury recalled "that hell hole at St. Asaph" and termed the present proposed legislation "the most iniquitous piece of legislation introduced in Virginia in three decades."

The Rev. J. P. McConnell, Antisaloon League leader; Mrs. Howard M. Hoge, president of the State Women's Christian Temperance Union, and several others assailed the proposal as "vicious, degrading and iniquitous."

At the hearing James Corbett, of Suffolk, president of the Virginia State Bar Association, explained the working of the pari-mutuel system of wagering, and asked the committee to allow citi-

RESCUER OF PETAIN ORDERED TO PRISON

Wearer of D. S. C. and Croix de Guerre Impersonated U. S. Officer.

Chicago, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—William L. Cunningham, 48, tall, military-looking, but gray and aged beyond his years, wearer of a distinguished service cross and croix de guerre, was sent to prison today for three years for impersonating a Government officer.

Cunningham was excoriated by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley for failing to be a "good sportsman," for not living up to the "rules of the game of life," and for setting a horrible example for the younger generation.

The Illinois American Legion sent an attorney to plead for Cunningham and he presented a citation showing Cunningham had got the D. S. C. for bringing down a German airplane which was about to bomb a French village in which American troops were quartered. At that time Cunningham was an American pilot with the Royal Air corps.

Gen. Pershing credited Cunningham in the citation with having captured ten Germans single-handed while commanding a relief force.

Cunningham got the French decoration for saving the life of Gen. Petain. According to the citation he carried the defender of Verdun into a shell hole just before a bomb exploded and killed 60 French soldiers at the village of Boureville, October 14, 1918.

POLICE AUTO HITS CAR SPEEDING TO HOLDUP

Crashes Into Trolley, Then Skids Into Two Parked Machines.

Speeding to the scene of a hold-up in the 1700 block of New Hampshire avenue northwest yesterday afternoon, a large touring car, driven by Whitney Walter, a police department chauffeur, crashed into the rear of a Capital Traction street car and skidded, colliding with two other machines in front of 1515 Fourteenth street northwest. Detective Benjamin Kuehling, who was riding on the front seat of the police headquarters car, was thrown against the windshield but escaped serious injury.

The robbery, which they were speeding to investigate, was reported by Elmer Jenkins, colored, of 1345 Twenty-ninth street northwest, who was robbed of $50 by a light-skinned colored man who held a gun in his face. The police car, badly damaged, was towed to the District repair shop and the detectives proceeded in another machine, sent from headquarters.

HICKMAN REVEALS PLAN FOR FAKE FIT TO PROVE INSANITY

Writes Fellow Prisoner He Will "Take Crack" at Prosecutor.

ALIENISTS SAY YOUTH IS DEMENTIA VICTIM

Defense Rests After Doctors Say Slayer Believes He Has Divine Guidance.

Hall of Justice, Los Angeles, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—William Edward Hickman made his last gesture today in presenting his insanity defense for the confessed killing of 12-year-old Marian Parker.

Hardly had Jerome Walsh, youthful counsel for the confessed kidnaper, slayer and mutilator of the school girl, finished the words which put an end to the defense in the sanity trial, than the State set in motion the agencies it had chosen to attempt to establish that Hickman was sane at the time the crime was committed, and send him to the gallows.

The closing phase of Hickman's defense was centered in the testimony of alienists, one of whom underwent a withering cross-fire from the prosecution, but was unshaken in the opinion that the defendant is insane. The "dementia praecox" theory of Dr. R. O. Shelton, defense alienist, came in for a heavy battering from Prosecutor Asa Keyes.

A delusion of the prisoner that "Divine guidance" prompted his crimes was the text of Dr. Shelton's testimony, from which the alienist adduced abnormality amounting to insanity.

Handwriting Is Identified.

The first moves by District Attorney Keyes, when the last alienist summoned by the defense had left the stand, was more or less legal routine. He placed on the stand Clark Sellers, handwriting expert and adduced testimony from him to show that ransom letters written to Perry M. Parker demanding $1,500 for the return of his daughter were penned by Hickman. Sellers' testimony was to the effect that the handwriting on the ransom letters was the same as that in the confessions written by the defendant.

Walsh had already called witnesses whose testimony spread over the court records all the details of the crime and the State began what promised to be a long-drawn out effort to break down the expert medical testimony of defense alienists, two of whom declared it their belief that Hickman was insane.

A swirl of medical terms eddied about the court throughout the day as one

Poincare Refuses Stabilization Now

Paris, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Premier Poincare surpassed all his previous efforts at speechmaking before the Chamber of Deputies today and left the rostrum at the end of an eight-hour address with the cheers and plaudits of the majority of the body in his ears.

In his speech he definitely refused to be hurried into the legal stabilization of the franc before the conditions prerequisite to that action definitely exist. In it he refused, too, to give an indication of the rate at which the eventual stabilization will be effected. He explained in detail what had been done, and then laid down coldly his dual refusal—refusals that brought him an ovation from the majority of the French Parliament, but only increased and intensified the opposition to him and his policies represented by the socialists and communists of the body.

STEWART, OIL MAN, IS UNDER ARREST ON SENATE ORDER

ROBERT W. STEWART.

Will Be Arraigned This Noon Unless Court Intervenes.

PERSISTS IN REFUSING ANSWERS ON BONDS

Committee Quickly Acts and Senators, Stunned, Vote Issue of Warrant.

SERVED AT HIS HOTEL; GUARDED ALL NIGHT

Receives Many Telegrams From Business Men Who Commend His Stand.

(Associated Press.)

Robert W. Stewart, one of the foremost oil executives of the country, was under arrest by the Senate last night because of his persistent defiance of its Teapot Dome committee.

He was not taken to jail, but permitted to remain in his quarters at the Willard Hotel in the custody of a deputy sergeant-at-arms, who is to take him before the bar of the Senate at noon today unless he decides in the meantime to sue for a writ of habeas corpus.

While the chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana declined to make any statement, it was said by his close associates that he probably would appear in the Senate. In that event he would be directed to answer forthwith questions as to what, if anything, he knows about disposition of Liberty bonds by the Continental Trading Co. of Canada, which has figured so prominently in the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy trial.

Word came last night from the hotel suite of Mr. Stewart that scores of telegrams had been received from business men and others in nearly all sections of the country congratulating the Standard Oil official on the stand he has taken in refusing to answer certain questions before the Senate Teapot Dome committee. No other comment for publication was made.

Two Courses Before Senate.

Should Stewart again refuse to do so, the Senate would have open to it two courses—adoption of a resolution directing his imprisonment in a common jail or approval of one referring his case to the District of Columbia courts, as was done in the instance of Harry F. Sinclair, who is now under a three months' sentence.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, the Teapot Dome committee prosecutor, favors the first course and probably will insist upon it. The Chicago oil operator then might have recourse to a writ of habeas corpus and a court hearing to determine whether the Senate has the power to imprison for contempt.

The arrest of Stewart followed a day of dramatic events that swung from committee rooms to the floor of the Senate and then to the Willard Hotel. There was the anticlimax, however, for the Senate warrant, bearing the signature of Vice President Dawes, was served in the privacy of the oil man's apartment. Newspaper men and photographers were locked out.

Senate Is Startled.

Action by the Senate itself came with startling swiftness. As the shades of evening were enveloping the Capitol, Senator Walsh appeared suddenly after an absence all day, and within a few minutes was able to obtain recognition.

"I ask unanimous consent to submit a report from the committee on public lands," he said.

"Is there objection?" the Vice President inquired sharply. A dead silence was the answer.

"I send to the desk the report and ask the clerk to read," said Walsh, who was sitting near Chairman Nye of the committee, on the Republican side, far from his accustomed place.

The report was a four-page typewritten document, setting forth Stewart's refusal to answer questions before the committee yesterday and Thursday. As the clerk read, most of the senators gave close attention, though one here was reading a newspaper and another there signing correspondence.

Error Is Corrected.

Walsh held the floor. As the reading ended Senator Smoot, of Utah, was on his feet holding in his hand an amendment to the pending Interior Department appropriation bill. A page stood nearby.

The Montanan was unperturbed. He asked that a typographical correction be made at one place in the report and that was done with some delay.

"Now I send to the desk a resolution and ask that it be read."

Senator Smoot sat down as the clerk intoned the language of the measure

BANK RATE RAISE SENDS STOCKS DOWN $1 TO $8

Bull Rallies Cause Temporary Reaction, but Prices Again Drop.

SAN FRANCISCO FIGURE UP

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The stock market went into a nose dive today as a result of the unexpected increase in the Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate despite the strenuous efforts of speculators for the advance to send the general price level to a new high altitude. Final quotations showed net losses of $1 to $8 a share, with a resultant reduction of more than a billion dollars in the aggregate quoted value of nearly 900 stocks.

A heavy accumulation of over-night selling orders, placed in the belief that the higher bank rate was intended as a direct warning against a further expansion in speculative credit, sent opening prices toppling $1 to $6. A lowering of the renewal rate on day-to-day brokers' loans from 4½ to 4¼ per cent revived confidence on the part of speculators for the advance who staged a series of bullish demonstrations which cut down, or eliminated, many of the earlier losses and sent about a dozen issues $3 to nearly $9 above yesterday's final quotations to new high records.

Small traders and investors, who had become frightened at the opening break, were reluctant to follow the rally, with the result that "bear" traders launched a series of vicious selling attacks, which sent prices crashing again to the lowest levels of the day.

San Francisco, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The Federal Reserve Bank of San rancisco today established a rediscount rate of 4 per cent effective February 4. This will supersede the existing rate of 3½ per cent.

Premier Mussolini recognizes Chicago as "The ultra-American city of American cities," according to Commander Zuinini.

LE PARADIS OWNER DENIES EVER SEEING DRINKING AT RESORT

Meyer Davis, on Stand, Directly Contradicts Testimony of Policewoman.

DEFENSE ATTORNEYS FINISH THEIR CASE

Justice Hatfield's Decision on Nuisance Allegation May Take Two Months.

After testimony by fourteen waiters and Meyer Davis, defense attorneys yesterday just rested their case in equity division, No. 2, of the District Supreme Court, where the Government is seeking to have the fashionable Le Paradis Cafe adjudged a nuisance and to restrain the sale of ginger ale and cracked ice for mixture with intoxicants to patrons of the establishment.

Attorneys for both sides will now begin the preparation of their arguments on the law and facts involved in the case. These arguments will be heard by Justice Charles S. Hatfield within the next 30 days. Following the arguments the attorneys will submit briefs of the testimony to the judge. He will study this and then render his decision. A decision is not expected for at least two months.

All of the waiters yesterday testified that while they had seen patrons of the cafe pouring what appeared to be intoxicants they had in every case served warning that the use of intoxicants was not permitted in the cafe.

Davis Makes Flat Denial.

Robert Kehl, manager of the cafe, testified that on about a half dozen occasions he had to order tables cleared and request the patrons to leave the cafe because they insisted on mixing drinks. Every other time the patrons acceded to the requests made by the waiters, he said.

Meyer Davis, president of the National Cafes, Inc., which operates the Le Paradis, was the last witness heard in the case. He said that he could not recall ever having seen patrons of the cafe using intoxicants. He declared that he had instructed all of his employes not to allow any one to use intoxicants in the cafe.

Policewoman Hazel K. Mansfield, the Government's star witness, testified that she saw Davis on one occasion sitting at a table with two other men and that she saw a bottle labeled "gin" under the table and saw the two men with Davis pour the contents into glasses of ginger ale and ice. Davis denied that such a thing had ever happened.

If the Government is victor in the suit Assistant District Attorney Harold Orcutt, who has prosecuted the case, will ask for a permanent injunction forbidding the cafe management to sell ginger ale and cracked ice for use with intoxicants. If the Government loses defense attorneys will ask that a temporary restraining order against the cafe be dismissed.

Holds Cafe Exonerated

At the conclusion of the case yesterday Attorneys Morris Simon and Lawrence Koenigsberger, presenting Meyer Davis and the National Cafe, Inc., and Attorney Crandal Mackey, representing Howe Totten, owner of the building in which the Le Paradis is located, and Orcutt all thanked Justice Hatfield for the impartial and judicial manner in which he has handled the case.

Meyer Davis issued the following statement after his attorneys rested their case:

"I feel that the Le Paradis Cafe has been completely vindicated of the charges made against it by Harry Douthitt, revenue agents and policewomen. It has been plainly shown that the conditions which Government witnesses said have existed in the cafe are grossly exaggerated. The charges have been denied by some of the most respectable citizens of this city, who testified that the Le Paradis Cafe is one of the nicest places to dine and dance in this city."

Suit Against Ruffo By Gallo Dismissed

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The damage suit of Fortune Gallo, opera producer, against Tita Ruffo, Metropolitan Opera Company singer, was dismissed today when the court ruled out the last of three grounds upon which the action was based.

The other two grounds for the suit were dismissed by the court yesterday. The original action was for $26,090, but yesterday's dismissal left only $4,320 involved.

Gallo sought to collect for salary and expenses paid Ruffo as a member of an opera troupe he took to Havana in 1923. Ruffo, he charged, had called him a "piccolo impresario," and had misrepresented his drawing power in Havana.

All Furs to Be Stamped With the Correct Name

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Representatives of the fur industry today agreed to adopt a system of naming and marking furs under which the correct name of the animal from which the pelt was obtained will be stamped plainly on the skin.

This move was made at a meeting of the fur industry representatives and the trade practice conference department of the Federal Trade Commission. The plan will be forwarded to the commission at Washington, and provided it meets with approval, will be adopted as standard by the industry and enforced by the commission.

Coined trade names such as "Hudson seal," which is the skin of the muskrat dyed to the color of seal, and names designed to cover up the fact that rabbit fur is dyed to simulate other fur, are practices against which complaints have been made to the Federal Trade Commission.

WOMAN, POSING AS WIFE, CLAIMS FRENCH'S BODY

Wed to Once Wealthy New Yorker January 4, She Tells Santa Fe Authorities.

MOTHER ORDERS BURIAL

Santa Fe, N. Mex., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—A young woman identifying herself as the widow of W. Barton French, scion of a wealthy New York family, today claimed his body so that he would be buried "on the ranch he loved." The man was found shot to death in the home of a friend here last Wednesday and a coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide.

French, who recently had been living on his ranch near Bland, N. Mex., was known to have been married and divorced twice, but the revelation by the woman, who said they were married in Albuquerque on January 4 last, came as a surprise to his friends.

The woman related she met French in Asheville, N. C., and that the marriage ceremony was performed in Albuquerque by a Father Good, Catholic priest. Officials of the church could not recall a Father Good being in New Mexico. She declined to give further information about herself, saying that "with him gone" she was without relatives. Suicide as the verdict of the coroner's jury was attacked by the woman, who declared French was "too jolly, too happy to have shot himself."

Chief of Police Oliver Holmes started an investigation after a conference with the district attorney. Meanwhile the body was held pending advice from French's guardian, C. J. Slocum, Beacon, N. Y. Authorities had previously received a cablegram from Mrs. Barton French requesting the body of her son be buried at Richmond, Va. The woman claiming to be the widow opposed burial of the body in the East.

Guy Shannon, friend of French, at whose home the latter was found with a bullet wound in the head, said the New Yorker had told him he came West to "get away from the temptations of the city." French had been living at his ranch near Bland, some time after a court order in New York directed that all of his income except $125 a month be applied to liquidation of his debts. French was 35 and was the son of the late Seth Barton French, of New York.

SWAMI'S DEPARTURE FROM MIAMI ADVISED

Yogananda Refused Permit to Deliver His Lecture to Women.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Swami Yogananda, who claims to be an "East Indian mystic," has been advised to leave Miami by H. Leslie Quigg, chief of police, and W. G. Snow, city manager. The police chief said he took this action after separate delegations of men and women had called on him and charged that Yogananda had charged 200 Miami women $35 each for "lectures."

Denied permission to give his regular "lecture" last night, representatives of Yogananda conferred with the city manager today in an effort to get the police ban lifted, but the city manager renewed the suggestion to the police chief that Yogananda leave town.

About 250 persons, the majority women, were in the corridors of the city hall and made ineffectual efforts to get into the conference chamber.

Seizing $35,000 Farm Under Old Law Asked

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Seizure of a $35,000 farm near here by the Federal Government under provisions of an old revenue liquor tax law was asked today in a suit filed in United States District Court.

The suit charges that 1,500 gallons of alcohol were distilled on the farm, that no revenue was paid on the liquor and that the business was carried on with intent to defraud the Government of liquor taxes. Federal officials said the suit marked the first time the law, enacted before prohibition, has ever been invoked in this Federal district. The farm is owned by Cornelius J. Mulchay.

'OLD IRONSIDES' TRIP SCHEDULED, WOMEN'S CONFERENCE IS TOLD

Will Visit Ports After Its Restoration, Wilbur Informs Delegates.

PEOPLE SHOULD KNOW ABOUT S-4, HE ASSERTS

Two Cents a Day Per Capita Pays for Defense, Bullock Says.

"Old Ironsides," the U. S. S. Constitution, which now is in dry dock at Charleston, Mass, when rehabilitated will visit as many of the United States seaboard, gulf and lake ports as possible. This was the message of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur given at the final session of the Woman's Patriotic Conference on National Defense in Memorial Continental Hall yesterday. The Secretary pointed out that "Old Ironsides" was one of the six sister ships laid down in a naval program by George Washington.

Speaking of the S-4 disaster, Secretary Wilbur said:

"The reaction of the American people to the loss of the men of the S-4, particularly those in the torpedo room, was to demand, as they had a right to demand, whether or not the Navy Department was to blame in any particular for placing our young sailormen in that situation. If any one was to blame, then the American Nation wants some form of punishment for the blameworthy.

"Then what will the American Nation say to the present Secretary of the Navy and the Navy Department if they fail in their duty to give a square deal to the men who fight for us and not lay down a policy for ships needed to round out our Navy.

"Cruisers are not much better than pasteboard to resist steady gunfire," the Secretary asserted, "and are usually used to defend commerce, ships of the fleet against destroyers and submarines and for scouting."

1,000,000 Pictures Sold.

One million copies of the picture of "Old Ironsides" have been sold for the "Old Ironsides" rebuilding fund, the Secretary said, and school children throughout the country have contributed many thousands of dollars in pennies, nickels and dimes.

"The restoration will speak to the youth of the land in a language they can understand," the Secretary concluded, "and will be a monument to the past, an appeal to the patriotism of the young and a lesson of national defense."

At a meeting of the extension committee of the conference, Mrs. Robert Walbridge, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, was elected chairman; Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, president general of the D. A. R., first vice chairman; Mrs. Thomas Spence, president of the American War Mothers of America, second vice chairman, and Mrs. Mary Logan Tucker, Washington, secretary.

Strong resolutions in support of national defense were passed. The present naval program in Congress, including naval aviation plans, were indorsed, also the Army bills and the Army air service and chemical warfare, and the conference went on record as advocating a merchant marine.

Other resolutions were passed to bring out patriotic workers at the next elections; to continue the basic provisions of the immigration act of 1924; to the support of the Constitution in its entirety; to put Army hostesses on a permanent military status; for proper school text books on American history, and to require all teachers in public and private schools to take the oath of allegiance to the United States and the adoption of an official flag code of the United States. The conference also went on record as opposing recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States

2 Cents a Day for Defense

After an address by Miss Etta V. Leighton, civic secretary of the National Security League of New York City, in which she stated that a certain group had threatened to tear down statues to military heroes in this country, Mrs. Mary Logan Tucker, of Washington, daughter of the late Gen. John A. Logan, of Civil War fame, said she would prevent such desecration of her father's statues by force, if necessary.

That the cost of the Army and Navy is less than 2 cents a day per capita was shown by Lieut. Col. C. Seymour Bullock, U. S. A., who closed the program of set speeches.

At the morning session three representatives in Congress were heard. Representative Edith Nourse Rogers said preparedness should extend to a merchant marine, aviation, and the best men possible in the foreign service as well as the Army and Navy.

Representative Jeffers, of Alabama, attacked efforts of Communists to undermine national security, and Representative Royal C. Johnson, of South Dakota, outlined reasons for the universal draft.

The conference will meet again next February in Memorial Continental Hall. The members of the extension committee and the advisory board were guests of Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau at a luncheon at the Willard Hotel, at which plans for extension were made.

Mayor Thompson Cut When Car Hits Rut

New Orleans, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago was slightly cut about his face today when an automobile in which he was riding with Mayor Arthur J. O'Keefe of New Orleans struck a rut in the road and threw him against the top of the machine. Antiseptics were applied to the cuts which were about one inch long on his nose and on his lips. Mayor Thompson said the injuries were of no consequence. He and his party continued to the Fair Grounds race track to attend the running of the New Orleans Handicap. Others in the car were not injured.

Mayor Thompson stopped at the home of Mrs. Thomas J. Hill, wife of the secretary of the Chicago Flood Control Conference, and the antiseptics were applied there by a nurse attending Mrs. Hill.

ARMY MAN ONCE ON DUTY HERE, HONORED AS HERO

Maj. Tinker Awarded Soldier's Medal for Rescue From Flaming Plane.

TWO OTHERS DECORATED

Awards of the Soldier's Medal for heroism not in conflict to Maj. Clarence L. Tinker, Air Corps, formerly of Washington; First Lieut. Thomas A. Dukes, Thirty-first Infantry, and Private Charles R. Middaugh, Seventeenth Infantry, were announced yesterday at the War Department.

Maj. Tinker, formerly of the office of chief of Air Corps, and now at Kelly Field, Tex., received the decoration for rescuing Commander Robert A. Burg, U. S. N., from a burning plane near Kenley Airdrome, London, September 21, 1926.

Maj. Tinker was Assistant Military Attache for Aviation at London at the time of the accident. Injured and semi-dazed, due to the crash, he was able to get clear of the plane, but realizing that Commander Burg was still in the cockpit, rushed back into the flames in an attempt to rescue him.

He was driven back by the heat, but returned to the other side of the plane and, after repeated efforts and being badly burned, extricated Commander Burg and dragged him away unconscious. Commander Burg afterward died from his injuries.

Lieut. Dukes, now stationed at Manila, receives the medal for rescuing Private James U. Fairbanks, of his regiment, from drowning in the Porac River, at Pio, Pampagna, Philippine Islands, January 14, 1927.

Private Middaugh is awarded the medal for entering a building at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., September 5, 1926, and seizing and disarming an enlisted man who was firing his rifle indiscriminately in all directions, endangering life in the reservation. Private Middaugh, whose home is in St. Joseph, Mo., was injured by the butt of the man's rifle.

EARL HAIG'S DIARY SEALED UNTIL 1940

Story of War Years Contains Sensational Comment, It Is Understood.

London, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The book which the late Field Marshal Earl Haig is reported to have left, the Daily Express says, is a diary of the war years, which he deposited with the trustees of the British Museum, under seal, with directions that it shall remain unopened until 1940.

The paper understands that the diary contains frank revelations and fearless criticisms of war chiefs, statesmen, politicians and others and is likely to involve sensational disclosures.

Edinburgh, Scotland, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—A large crowd, mostly women, gathered this evening to await the arrival of Field Marshal Haig's body, which will lie in state here for three days before interment in Dryburgh Abbey. A detachment of the London Scottish Regiment escorted the body from London, and the escort at the station consisted of two squadrons of Royal Scots Greys.

The coffin was placed on a gun carriage, and the military cortege with pipers playing a lament proceeded to St. Giles Cathedral, where it was received by the clergy and placed on a catafalque guarded by sentries.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—F. C. Coppicus, former manager of Marian Talley, Kansas City opera singer, announced tonight in a letter to the Kansas City Star that the singer's earnings since her concert career began in 1926 totaled $334,892.17.

That amount was above all expenses for management, advertising, assisting artists, &c., Mr. Coppicus said, and was exclusive of the singer's income from her Metropolitan Opera engagements and her royalties from phonograph records.

Miss Talley has made no statement in reference to her summer plans except that she will sing no concerts after the close of her season with Metropolitan Opera.

OPPOSE ADVERTISING SIGNS ON HIGHWAYS

Speakers at Lexington, Va., Urge Merging Funds for Road-Building.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., Feb. 3.—Unification of the county highway building system in Virginia, eliminating all markings along the highways excepting those indicating locations of county roads, and means of maintenance of highway systems were discussed today at the opening here of the third annual State highway conferences.

Declaring the building of roads by magisterial districts in the counties was proving too great a delay in the highways' progress, Chairman H. G. Shirley, of the State Highway Commission; H. G. Whittle, of Martinsville; William P. Rudasill, of Culpeper; Seth Burnley, of Albemarle, and others advocated union of the county funds for road building, and prohibiting placing of advertising signs along the highways.

T. B. Glasscock, of Fauquier, declared the proper marking of county highways was of as much importance as the building of those highways in directing travel.

Discussion of the "Maintenance of a Highway System," by John D. Waldrop, of the North Carolina Highway Commission, provided an interesting and informative insight into the methods used by his State in its excellent program of road building and maintenance.

The conference, which was called for the purpose of increasing cooperation between county and State officials and road engineers and superintendents will be featured tomorrow by an address by Gov. Byrd, who recently ordered five regional meetings held throughout the State to further highway improvements. The governor will give a general summary of the results of these meetings.

BRITONS ARE GREETED BY RIOTING IN INDIA

Disorders at Calcutta.

Calcutta, India, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Rioting by the students of the Presidency College today became so serious that the military was summoned to disperse them. Several students were injured and removed to a hospital. Sir Charles Pagard, commissioner of police, was slightly injured on the arm. Many of the students were arrested.

Madras, India, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Police fired on persons staging a demonstration in connection with the arrival of the royal commission on Indian reforms in India today.

One person was killed and five seriously injured.

The trouble arose when the crowd attacked a shop which had remained open despite the hartal—day of mourning—proclaimed in connection with the arrival of the commission headed by Sir John Simon.

The crowd stoned the shop and broke its windows. Empty bottles were thrown at the crowd, which replied with a fusillade of stones.

Armed police soon arrived on the scene but the stone throwing continued. Some constables were injured.

Situation Not Controlled

Police firing occurred again after the dispersal of a mob which assembled around the jail where the two who were arrested had been taken, the mob reassembled around the high court and set fire to an automobile. The police were stoned again and retaliated with four more arrests. This failed to stop the stoning and finally the patrolmen opened fire, killing one and injuring five.

Later troops proceeded to the spot where a monster meeting was being held, the mob having reassembled again opposite the high court, members attacking Europeans returning home in automobiles.

A car belonging to the secretary of the Imperial Bank was smashed in the mixup.

Casualties in the morning's disorders numbered one dead and seventeen injured. The situation was not yet under control at noon.

Transatlantic Radio Beam Rate War Foreshadowed

Marconi Plans Competing System and Hints Charge Will Be $15, or Even Less—Others Are Ready To Meet Any Cut.

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

London, Feb. 3.—An approaching rate war in the transatlantic telephone service is foreshadowed by an announcement today by Guglielmo Marconi that he hopes within a few months to inaugurate a beam system of wireless telephone between Great Britain and the United States at rates far lower than those in force. Simultaneously, it is understood, although without official confirmation, that the present combination now working the transatlantic telephone—the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., and the British postoffice—is prepared to meet any price reductions the Marconi Co. may make and perhaps even go it one better.

The present rate is $75 for a three-minute conversation between London and New York. In an interview this afternoon Signor Marconi answered a suggestion that the charge over the beam service might be $15, by the reply, "It might be even less."

He told the interviewer that he was devoting much attention to the superimposition of telephony upon telegraphy signals now sent by wireless, adding that the results were so satisfactory that "before long we shall be able to take advantage commercially of this important development."

He said further that telephony under these conditions would provide a financial return that might be regarded as a bonus upon the beam telegraphic service and forecast its extension not only to the United States, but throughout the British empire.

GLOTH ASSERTS ARREST IN RAID WAS FRAME-UP

Blames Enemies for His and Woman's Seizure on a Statutory Charge.

DEMANDS TRIAL BY JURY

William C. Gloth, Commonwealth's attorney for Arlington, Va., and Miss Edith Scudder, 36 years old, 1636 Kenyon street northwest, charged with statutory offenses, pleaded not guilty in Police Court before Judge Robert Mattingly yesterday and demanded jury trials. The pair were arrested in Miss Scudder's apartment early yesterday morning at the instance of Gloth's estranged wife.

Gloth and Miss Scudder said yesterday that they had been visiting friends and that they had arrived at the apartment only fifteen minutes before the raiding squad arrived.

Mrs. Gloth procured a warrant several days ago alleging improper relations between Gloth and Miss Scudder. She called police of the Tenth Precinct Thursday night and told Lieut. J. A. Sullivan that Gloth was in the apartment and that the time was ripe for a raid. Sullivan, Mrs. Gloth, a detail of District policemen and policemen from Arlington County, Va., participated in the raid.

They declared that Gloth refused to open the door of the apartment and that they had to break in the door. The couple were taken to the Tenth Precinct and required to deposit $50 collateral.

When the accused pair arrived in court yesterday morning with their attorney, Bertrand Emerson, jr., they demanded an immediate trial. Assistant District Attorney Given asked that the case be continued in order that he might inquire further into the circumstances. Given declared that he believed he had prima facie evidence, but that he was not entirely satisfied with the statements of some of the Government witnesses.

When Judge Mattingly granted a continuance the defendants demanded a jury trial. Their collateral of $50 each was continued.

Gloth declared that the entire case is the result of a political frame-up by his enemies. Last spring he was defendant in an impeachment suit filed by Thomas D. Baillie, editor of the Clarendon Chronicle, charging him with drinking in public. A jury acquitted Gloth after twelve minutes' deliberation. Mrs. Gloth obtained a limited divorce about two years ago. Gloth says he has been paying alimony since.

the owner wants the mansion for his own home.

Hundreds of residents of the vicinity gathered to watch the efforts of the fire companies to subdue the stubborn fire, which, although under control, was still burning early this morning. Servants, under orders from Mrs. Johnson, prepared large quantities of food and coffee for the fire fighters.

Senator Johnson was much affected by the prompt response of all engine companies in that section of Maryland to the alarm. Addressing groups of the firemen, he declared: "In all my experience, I have never encountered a more kindly hearted community, or seen people more willing to toil for a neighbor in distress. Please convey my sincere appreciation to your fellow firemen."

Coed Is Taking Up Agricultural Course

Orono, Maine, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—If the men at the University of Maine reversed coed tactics, courses in home economics and domestic art would enroll husky fullbacks and hammer tossers, for the college register shows that woman are including agriculture and chemical engineering among their studies.

Miss Elizabeth Livingstone, of Winchester, Mass., is pursuing a four-year course in the college of agriculture, while Miss Katherine Jackson, of Houlton, Maine, has entered upon a four-year course in chemical engineering.

Husband's Suicide Attempt Held Cruel

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—A husband's attempt to kill himself was cited by his wife in court as proof of his cruelty to her. Justice Levy, while granting the wife, Mrs. Netti Venni, $15 a week and $50 for her lawyer instead of the $50 temporary alimony and $500 counsel fees she asked, remarked: "It would seem that the husband suffered more at her hands than she at his." Anyway Anthony Venni insisted he attempted suicide only once instead of three times as his wife had charged.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUYS TWO NEW FIRE ENGINES

Cherrydale and Jefferson District Departments to Get Combination Pieces.

POTOMAC OFFICER FINED

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The supervisors, at a special meeting held at the courthouse last night, awarded a contract to the American LaFrance Fire Engine Co. for two combination chemical and pumping engines, at a total cost of $13,000. One of the engines will be delivered to the Cherrydale department and the other to the Jefferson district fire department.

In addition to the engines, the board awarded a contract for 2,000 feet of hose to the Lindsey Nicholson Co., of Alexandria, at a cost of $2,250. Each of the above mentioned departments will receive 1,000 feet of hose.

The two engines will be delivered within the next 30 days.

The new equipment will be paid for out of money allotted to the two districts from a special levy for fire protection.

Another matter that the board discussed was the scavenger service now carried on by the county. It being shown by the budget that it was a most expensive proposition, the board considered letting it out by contract. After much discussion it was decided that the county health department will make a report and recommendations to the board at the meeting next Friday, at which time the matter will be settled.

Edward Duncan, chairman of the board from Jefferson district, favors the plan as a means of big saving to the county. He declared that unless expenses are curtailed taxes will have to be increased.

George W. Embrey, special officer for the town of Potomac, was again before the Police Court of Arlington County yesterday. This time he was fined by Judge Harry R. Thomas $10 and costs, otaling $19.25, on a charge of using abusive language, the warrant having been sworn out by Walter U. Fritz, a member of the county road department.

According to Fritz, the offense was committed when members of the road force were using a scraper to clear the snow from the roads in the town of Potomac. It is alleged that snow was pushed against Embrey's automobile, which was parked along the road at the time.

Petitions are being circulated among the taxpayers of Fairfax County asking State Senator Frank L. Ball, and delegate H. Earlton Hanes to submit a bill providing for an increase in the salary of the members of the board of supervisors to $600 a year. At present the board is limited by law to $6 a day with a maximum of not more than 25 days in any one year. An additional $100 a year is allowed each member in his capacity on the district road board. The board at its meeting on Thursday indorsed the request being made by the citizens.

Executioner Holds Women Are "Pest"

Berlin, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Memoirs of Lorenz Schwietz, last "royal Prussian chief executioner," who died in Breslau by his own hand a few years ago, have been published posthumously, describing the 123 executions which he conducted.

Criminals are still beheaded with the ax in Prussia, but much more rarely than in years gone by.

The memoirs contain much complaining about women who were always pestering him, he said, to be admitted to executions. He had a collection of letters, some of them from titled or society women, suggesting that the writers would don male clothing or pose as assistants to him if he would permit them to view beheadings

CHAMBERLIN IS TO BEGIN FLIGHT AT DAWN TODAY

Must Remain Aloft Until Noon Monday to Break Endurance Record.

RADIO TO CONVEY NEWS

Richmond, Va., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Expressing confidence that he would break the world's endurance flight record, Clarence D. Chamberlin, New York to Germany flier, arrived in Richmond today to personally supervise the final load tests with the big silver and gold Bellanca monoplane in which he expects to take off at daybreak tomorrow.

With him Chamberlin brought a new propeller to be fitted on the big plane. Radio equipment was given a satisfactory test yesterday under the direction of Roger Q. Williams, copilot.

The monoplane will be fueled and placed on the runways at Richard Evelyn Byrd Field at 3 o'clock tomorrow morning so that the airmen may take off as soon as dawn appears. Stored aboard will be gasoline, oil, water and food sufficient for a flight of 60 hours. The fliers will be able to communicate the news of the flight by radio which will be picked up and broadcast by station WRVA.

If the fliers break the record of 52 hours 23 minutes and 7 seconds now held in Germany, they will bring their plane down Monday, probably around noon. If they break the record they will receive a prize of $5,000 and will get another $1,000 for each hour in the air after the record is broken. The flight must continue one hour longer than the present record to make a new official record.

While the plane is expected to remain in the vicinity of Richmond, it may cruise over other cities and even into other States during the day to break the monotony of the long grind.

PAN-AMERICA UNION CONVENTION NEARS COMPLETED FORM

Committee Speeds Up Work After Much Wrangling at Havana.

MUCH GREATER LIBERTY IN EXECUTION OF DUTIES

Spirited Discussion Expected on Article Providing for Leaving Organization.

Havana, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The new convention of the Pan-American Union, destined to fix clearly the aims and attributions of the institution, took definite form today in the session of committee on the Union's Congress

Two hours of wrangling over procedure were ended finally when the committee buckled to and approved in rapid succession five articles of the convention. With the four already approved, and the preamble which a subcommittee now is elaborating, there are only two articles left to be drafted.

One of these remaining articles was referred today to a subcommittee for consideration, while the last article of the convention, which will set out under just what conditions member states may abandon the union, will arise Monday from what promises to be a spirited discussion

New Changes Proposed.

Few are the changes introduced in the present Pan-American Union organization by the articles approved today. The functions of the union, for instance, remain virtually the same, although the new convention will allow it much greater liberty in the actual execution of duties which the old convention specified only in general terms. These functions are:

Compilation and distribution of pamphlets regarding all activities of the American States.

Compilation of references regarding treaty engagements between states and their execution.

Fostering of cooperation to deliver commercial, industrial, agricultural, social, cultural, and labor relations among the American states.

To strive to obtain ratification by American states of treaties and conventions already concluded between them.

To promote technical conferences.

And finally to execute all decisions of the governing board in accordance with the powers granted it by the convention.

Social Report Approved.

The Sixth Pan-American Conference in plenary session today voted a blanket approval of the final report of the committee on social problems and approved in part recommendations of the committees on intellectual cooperation and economic problems.

Readoption of the Pan-American sanitary code, recommendations for cooperation of American States in extending the principles of eugenics and homoculture, and a recommendation that the American governments be urged to continue to cooperate in the establishment and development of the Red Cross throughout the American continent were approved without dissension. Approval of the report of the first Pan-American Congress of Journalists and recommendations for future congresses was voted.

Speaking for the cooperation of governments with the Red Cross, Charles Evans Hughes, chief of the United States delegation, gave eloquent expression to his admiration for the humanitarian work of the Red Cross.

Ministering Angels of Peace.

"The Red Cross societies," declared Mr. Hughes, "are the ministering angels of peace. They deserve our support, but they can not have that support merely by passing resolutions and indorsements of their work. To have effective support an appeal must be made to our governments, so that they may lend all necessary aid. We must address ourselves in our respective communities to public opinion, so that the voluntary support of all our peoples may be obtained.

"We have in the United States many different opinions; we have partisan activities; we have to a large extent differences in regard to particular goals to which our efforts should be directed; but to the Red Cross goes the unanimous sentiment of 120,000,000 people. I bespeak the same sentiment in all the 21 republics of this hemisphere."

The report on the recommendations of the first Pan-American Congress of Journalists, held at Washington last April, was submitted by Dr. Juan Vicente Ramirez, of Paraguay. This was accompanied by a proposition introduced by Dr. Julio Garcia, Mexico.

Outstanding among the conclusions was a recommendation by the Mexican delegation prohibiting the communication and publication of false, misleading or exaggerated reports tending to prejudice the good name or interests of any American country by the creation of a wrong impression of its institutions by the rest of the world.

6-Horn Goat Produced By Genetics Students

Madison, Wis., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—A goat with six horns, produced by the genetics department of the University of Wisconsin, has given his all for the advancement of science, an announcement by Dean H. L. Russell, director of the university experiment station, says.

The experiment, covering a three-year period, was carried on by W. F. Dove, formerly of the University of Wisconsin, but now of the Maine experiment station, to determine what factors enter into the production of horns.

The unusual animal died recently and now only the skull, with its sextet of projections, remains as evidence of the extraordinary experiment.

Research conducted in the experiment revealed that the horns of cattle and goats have their beginning in the skin rather than the frontal bone of the head.

MORE REBELS' GRAVES ARE FOUND BY MARINES

PLANES COVER REGION

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Fresh graves along the trails of northern Nicaragua today indicated that an indeterminate number of rebels had been slain in recent encounters with an American marine patrol.

The patrol reported to headquarters that seven rebels were known to have been killed and four wounded in five engagements, but that the marines were unable to determine the exact number of casualties since the rebels carried off their wounded. A wounded pack animal was the only casualty to the patrol.

The patrol, under Capt. Rober W. Peard, consisted of 80 men and left San Albino Mine, once the headquarters of Gen. Augustino Sandino, rebel leader, on January 20, going south to Buena Vista. The patrol returned to San Albino two days later after five engagements with rebels. Marines believed that the rebels encountered were sniping expeditions.

Scouting airplanes flew over the region of the fighting yesterday after belated reports of it were received at marine headquarters. There was no evidence of rebel activity.

In one attack a rebel approached an advance squad of marines shouting, "Amigo" (friend). He was shot down in his tracks by Lieut. W. S. Brown.

Rebels attacked the patrol just as it was preparing to leave camp on the morning of its first day out from its base. The marines had not packed their machine guns upon the mules. These were immediately turned on the rebels, who were concealed in the jungles.

Three other brushes between the rebels and Capt. Peard's patrol took place en route to Buena Vista and the other as the marines were making their way back to San Albino.

Along the trails on the way back the marines noticed many fresh graves, indicating that the rebel dead had mounted beyond the seven they had counted.

The house of deputies is still deadlocked on the electoral law. Feeling between the opposing parties is growing worse daily; each side accuses the other of obstructing peace and harmony, and some of the newspapers are extremely bitter.

A prominent conservative remarked today that the only solution of the situation was the appointment of an American governor, since the parties could not get together and it would be difficult to hold presidential elections even if supervised by the United States

Marine Flier to Take Off For Managua Before Dawn

Miami, Fla., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Lieut. George H. Towner depends on a brilliant moon in the early hours of tomorrow morning to give him an early start on his projected nonstop flight to Managua, Nicaragua.

After a trial hop today he pronounced the trimotored Fokker transport plane ready for the 1,000-mile flight south to join the United States Marine forces in Central America. He planned a take-off between 4 and 5 o'clock, in order to complete the fourney before the early dusk of the tropics.

PLEA FOR FREEDOM SENT BY LINDBERGH FROM PORTO RICANS

Legislature Presents Message at Special Session; Air Hero Is Praised.

HOP TO SANTO DOMINGO ON HIS SCHEDULE TODAY

Haiti Will Be Visited Monday and Havana Wednesday; Then Back to U. S.

San Juan, P. R., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The Porto Rican Legislature, paying a glowing tribute to the brilliant achievements of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, today took the opportunity to intrust to him "a message from the people of Porto Rico to the people of the United States," making a plea for "freedom."

The message was intrusted to the American air hero at a special session of the legislature, which bestowed a medal of honor upon him.

The colonel thanked the legislature for its cordial welcome, but made no reference to the message. Instead he made an address on commercial aviation, saying that it would be easy to link the island of Porto Rico and the United States by air and that figuratively it would be done tomorrow.

Message Praises Flier.

The first part of the Porto Rican message was filled with tributes to the brilliant exploits of the American airman, saying that he had truly been a messenger of progress and good will of the American continent to the Old World, answering the message of Columbus who once set foot on soil of Porto Rico.

Declaring that the flier on his epoch-making trip to France had been guided to watch spirits of those Americans who died upon the battle fields in the World War, the message said:

"Welcome to our island, Col. Lindbergh! Welcome to the only place under the shadow of Old Glory where the discoverer ever set foot! Welcome, worthy son of the American Eagle. Welcome, Lone Eagle.

"The good wishes of Porto Rico will go with you to the land of the brave and the free, and to your country and to your people and will convey a message of Porto Rico not far different from the cry of Patrick Henry—'Liberty or death.' It is the same in substance with but a difference imposed by the change of times and conditions.

"The message of Porto Rico to your people is, grant us the freedom that you enjoy, for which you struggled, which you worship, which we deserve and which you promised us. We ask the right to a place in the sun of this land of ours, brightened by the stars of your glorious flag."

To Santo Domingo Today.

Somewhat weary after last night's reception which kept him up late, Col. Lindbergh slept late this morning and it was not until 10 o'clock that he began a tour of the city before his visit to the legislature. Among the places which the colonel visited were Fort San Cristobal, the new capitol building, the School of Tropical Medicine, the high school and the university. Everywhere he was greeted with enthusiasm.

Tomorrow the American good-will flier again will take up his tour which is steadily carrying him closer to the Pan-American Conference at Havana Tomorrow's hop will be to Santo Domingo, just 250 miles across the Mona passage to the Dominican Republic. Here he will remain until February 6, when he will fly to Haiti and then on February 8 to Havana.

FIRST WRIGHT PLANE SHIPPED TO ENGLAND

Machine That Flew at Kitty Hawk to Be Shown in British Museum.

Dayton, Ohio, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The original Wright biplane, in which the first successful flight was made at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903, has been shipped to the British National Museum at London, where it will be placed on exhibition for an indefinite period. The plane left Orville Wright Laboratory here secretly Wednesday, it became known today, and is en route to England. Details regarding its shipment were not made known by Mr. Wright, who refused to discuss the matter, further than to confirm shipment of the plane.

The craft will remain in England for at least a year, the contract for its housing in the museum originally being written so that it would remain abroad for six years.

Orville Wright about two years ago had planned to present the original plane to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington for permanent exhibition. A controversy arose with the museum officials relative to the proper designation of the plane. Mr. Wright objected to a tag being placed on the first Langley plane now in the museum which classes it as the "first plane to make a successful flight."

Because museum officials declined to change such designation, Mr. Wright shortly afterward contracted with the British museum for the housing of the plane.

While Mr. Wright declined to discuss the matter, close friends stated they believed that at the expiration of the six-year contract period the plane will be returned to the United States.

Bank Runner Robbed; Police Regain Loot

Philadelphia, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Frank Ross, 64, bank runner for a branch of the Colonial Trust Co., was held up by four men today, hit on the head with the butt of a pistol and robbed of $5,200 pay roll.

Police later captured three of the holdup men after a fight and recovered all of the loot. The fourth man escaped.

The holdup occurred at Germantown avenue and Venango street and was witnessed by a dozen persons waiting for a trolley car.

Woman Sheriff Quits After Account Audit

Rice Lake, Wis., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Mrs. Mary Jacobson, sheriff of Barron County, has resigned following an audit of the accounts of her office by the county board of commissioners.

Although no criminal irregularities were found, it was alleged that she had permitted several overcharges in transportation of prisoners and other routine matters. These overcharges, however, were repaid by the officials.

LAGUARDIA DENOUNCES MINE AREA CONDITIONS

Visits Scene Where Bullets Are Said to Have Been Fired Into Homes.

WILL TAKE IT TO HOUSE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The schoolhouse in the mining town of Broughton was closed today and school officials announced it would remain idle until the authorities gave assurance that they would maintain order and prevent a repetition of the shotgun shooting there yesterday.

They charged that nonunion miners had entered the town, fired shots through schoolhouse windows and terrorized union miners and their families who are living in barracks. They further alleged that the gunmen ran amuck under the protection of coal and iron police employed by the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation.

Ralph Holzhauser, president of the school board, telegraphed Gov. John S. Fisher, advising him of the situation and stating that the school would not be reopened until the safety of the pupils was assured.

According to J. M. O'Rourke, justice of the peace, he obtained a confession from a negro nonunion miner that he and another negro had been paid $25 by an unnamed person to fire a shotgun near the barracks occupied by the union men. O'Rourke said he telegraphed this confession to Gov. Fisher and to Senator Hiram Johnson, who is pressing in the Senate for an investigation of the mine situation.

Denial that the coal and iron police were implicated in any way in the shooting was made by G. F. Osler, president of the Terminal Corporation.

After visiting several mining towns in this region today, including Broughton, scene of a shooting yesterday, Representative LaGuardia, of New York, said he found conditions "unbelievable" and that "asbestos will not hold the statements I shall make on the floor of the House."

Accompanied by United Mine Workers officials, LaGuardia visited barracks in which union miners and their families are housed.

At Broughton, he said, a miner's wife showed him where a bullet, alleged to have been fired by a nonunion negro miner, passed through the window in her house and lodged in a wall. The representative said all peace officers of the district should unite in the mining districts "to bring order out of the existing chaos."

State Rests Case Against Harry Hill

Ottawa, Ill., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The State rested its case today in the trial of Harry Hill, charged with the murder of his mother, Mrs. Eliza A. Hill.

More than 50 witnesses were produced by the prosecution over a period of two weeks.

It was expected that the defense would ask for an adjournment of two days before presenting its case.

J. Hamilton Lewis Ill in Vienna.

Vienna, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—J. Hamilton Lewis, of Chicago, former United States Senator, who has been visiting here, is in a local sanitarium recovering from a slight attack of congestion of the lungs. A report that he was seriously ill at a sanitarium at Auersberg, Jugoslavia, proved erroneous.

PRESIDENT OFFERS AID AFTER FALL RIVER FIRE

Large Part of Business Area in Ruins; 2,000 Persons Out of Employment.

HOME DISTRICTS ESCAPE

(Associated Press.)

President Coolidge has sent a telegram to the Mayor of Fall River, Mass., telling him that any Army and Navy facilities near there may be used to bring relief from the fire which raged in that city Thursday night and early yesterday.

Fall River, Mass., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—For the second time in twelve years a large part of the business center of this city tonight was a waste of smoking ruins, the result of a disastrous fire which swept the area surrounding city hall last night and early this morning. Taking toll of the losses before the embers were yet cool, residents estimated the property damage variously from $7,000,000 to more than $15,000,000. Insurance investigators placed the loss even higher, in some cases at $25,000,000.

The damage was even greater than that caused by the conflagration of February 16, 1916, which ravaged a similar section of the city. Items in the loss were:

Twenty or more buildings destroyed and as many more damaged.

Approximately 60 stores and similar business establishments wiped out or so badly damaged that it may be some time before they will operate at normal.

Several thousand persons out of employment.

Offers of assistance in the work of rehabilitation reached the city today from many sources, including the Red Cross. Due to the fact that the residential district was unscathed, there was little need for other than temporary aid to help in restoring business activities, and this came in the form of funds to enable the banks, whose buildings were destroyed, to resume operations

No one was able tonight to predict what the effect might be upon the industries and business activities of the community, although all admitted that there would be many concerns which probably would be unable to resume and others which would be seriously crippled. Approximately 2,000 persons were thrown out of work, it was estimated, and as many of them were stenographers, clerks and office employes, there was prospect of a considerable period of idleness for them.

FOURTEEN HUNDRED AND NINE H STREET

NAVY PACT FAILURE BY 1936 EXPECTED BY ADMIRAL JONES

Tells House Committee Certain Signatory Nations Plan Then to Withdraw.

REFUSES TO IDENTIFY POWERS IN MOVEMENT

Former Officer Holds Development Shows Need of Strong Naval Auxiliary.

(Associated Press.)

A possible move by "certain signatory nations" to withdraw from the Washington naval arms pact in 1936 was referred to yesterday by Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, retired, in advocating before the House naval committee the building up of a large merchant fleet as an adjunct to national defense.

The admiral, a member of the American delegation to the unsuccessful Geneva Naval Conference, said that he had returned from a preliminary gathering in Switzerland in 1926 with the "general impression" that several nations might initiate a move in 1934 looking to their withdrawal from the Washington pact two years later.

Asked by Representative Britten (Republican), Illinois, whether France and Italy were the nations contemplating withdrawal, Jones would not give a positive answer, referring only to "certain signatory powers." He added that no developments took place at the recent Geneva parley to strengthen his belief.

Stresses Fleet Need.

The admiral dwelt at length upon what he said was the need for an American merchant fleet. He said he was "convinced" that if Lloyds, the British shipping firm, so desired, it could remove American flag ships from the sea as a result of its powers over the classification and insurance of vessels.

He urged that the Federal Government provide for classification and insurance of American ships, citing an instance of an American ship being forced to return from South America in ballast because Lloyds did not recognize electric welding as a satisfactory method of repairing a boiler.

Jones described how the recoil and the necessity for mechanical loading precluded the equipment of large merchant liners with 8-inch guns, but said that 6-inch guns could be mounted quickly on practically all large merchant ships. He then referred to the preponderance of British merchant tonnage over that of the United States.

SENATORS IN HOT CLASH OVER RETAINER ETHICS

Wheeler Questions Propriety of $7,000 "Gratuity" Acceptance by Appointee.

COUZENS DEFENDS ACT

(Associated Press.)

A sharp clash between Senators Couzens (Republican) Michigan, and Wheeler (Democrat) Montana, marked the hearing yesterday by the Senate interstate commerce committee on the nomination of O. H. Caldwell, of New York, as a member of the Federal Radio Commission.

Senator Wheeler questioned the acceptance by Mr. Caldwell of $7,000 annually while a member of the commission from the McGraw-Hill publishers, with whom he was formerly employed at $17,000 a year. The radio post pays $10,000 annually. Caldwell said the $7,000 was paid with the understanding he would return to the McGraw-Hill company when he left the commission.

Senator Couzens compared this payment to Caldwell with retainer fees paid members of the Senate as lawyers by some clients. Senator Wheeler denied that he received any such fee and contended that the senators rendered some service, whereas Caldwell's money from McGraw-Hill was a "mere gratuity."

When Senator Couzens described retainer fees as "buying off," Senator Wheeler heatedly declared "That is not true," and the Michigan senator replied, "You might as well be frank about it."

"When you were with the Ford Motor Co. and employed lawyers," Wheeler questioned, "you didn't think you were buying them off, did you?"

Senator Couzens said that in "effect" he so considered such transaction.

"I deny this on behalf of the legal profession," answered Wheeler.

"Why set your profession on the pedestal and condemn every other?" countered Couzens.

Free-Energy Inventor Asks U. S. Protection

(Associated Press.)

Repeating his long standing claim to have discovered a method for harnessing free energy which would transform modern civilization, Carabed T. K. Giragossian, of Boston, Mass., yesterday asked the House patents committee to recommend legislation which would in effect proclaim him the original inventor of the process which he says is kept locked in his mind.

For eleven years Giragossian has been visiting the Capitol offering to reveal his idea for utilizing free energy to the Government, if steps were taken to protect his claim. Such a bill was made law in 1918. But the aged inventor refused to deal with the scientific commission then created because of a section which he contended would open his claim to litigation.

'GOD'S ANSWER,' SUBJECT OF CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST

William D. Kilpatrick, of Detroit, Lectures Here Before Big Audiences.

THOUGHT HELD DOMINANT

William D. Kilpatrick, C. S. B., of Detroit, Mich., delivered a lecture yesterday in Keith's Theater and another in First Church of Christ, Scientist, last evening on "Christian Science: God's Answer to Humanity's Cry for Freedom," to large audiences. Mr. Kilpatrick is a member of the board of lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. He was introduced by William G. Biederman, first reader of First Church of this city, under whose auspices the lectures were given. The lecturer said in part:

"In our material existence we live in a world of carnal consciousness, instead of a self-created world of matter, and we see, feel, taste, smell and hear materially just what we believe. We live in consciousness rather than in matter, and we establish out own experiences of so-called material existence in proportion as our thinking is humanly right or wrong; that is, we rise or fall in our scale of human living in the proportion we believe in good or bad. Thus, if we are believing in matter as real or a creation of God; if we are believing that sin is a pleasure and indulging sin; if we are believing that sickness is God-ordained or a condition of matter instead of a condition of mind; if we hate, if we worry, if we are fearful, selfish, revengeful, and so on, we are then on the mental level of existence where hate, worry, fear, poverty, sickness and sin abound and we suffer not only from our own wrong beliefs but we are more or less susceptible to the beliefs of those who believe as we do.

"By entertaining erroneous beliefs we unite ourselves with the mortal mind beliefs of others, and consequently become more easily receptive of the sick, sinful, hateful, poverty-stricken, and miserable beliefs of the world; because, according to our scientific professor, everything we see, feel, taste, smell, or hear is the manifestation of human thinking, be it a broken bone, a cancer, a disease germ, a tornado, or a bank failure.

"By the same token we hold our bodies in our thoughts. The human body is the manifestation of mortal thought, and we outline on that body what we hold in thought, be it good or bad. In fact, the mortal body is the outward manifestation of mortal consciousness, and as our bodies are the delineations of our false reasoning, that likewise, which affects the body, be it sickness, deformity, weakness, weariness, broken bones, accident, or what not are outlines of mortal beliefs—my mortal beliefs, your mortal beliefs, the world's mortal beliefs for ages."

BURTON OPENS WIDE BREACH BETWEEN HOOVER AND WILLIS

explaining that Burton had been willing to support Senator Willis in the "first instance" and even for a longer time in case he should have such support outside the State as to make his nomination probable."

But the senator and his friends insisted, Burton said, that the delegation stay with him "in the hope that there may be a deadlock and the choice will be made in the same manner as that of Mr. Harding in 1920."

Doubts Any Deadlock.

Burton said he did not anticipate "such a deadlock" this time, "although it is evident that a movement is underway having for its object a situation in which a candidate might be selected, who has no general support."

"The fact that a State has a candidate of its own should not preclude the people from expressing their choice among the candidates from other States," Burton said. "If this were not so, by the simple expedient of placing a local candidate in the field, selecting a delegation, each member of which must be approved by him, and exacting pledges to support him to the end, a State might be deprived of any participation in the selection of a presidential nominee."

In his reply, Senator Willis recalled that Burton was a presidential candidate, Ohio's favorite son in 1916, and declared that at that time Burton insisted that the Ohio delegation stick with him. He indignantly rejected Burton's suggestion that he was a candidate in the "first instance" and declared that as the campaign progressed Burton would learn the error of his statement that Ohio sentiment was dominant for Hoover.

Could Not Accept Offer.

Referring to Burton's statement that he had labored for weeks to secure an agreement, Willis declared that the conditions offered to him by the Hoover supporters were such "that no honorable man could accept."

"It has been insisted at times that the Ohio delegation should be so made up," Willis said, "that after casting a ballot or two for me, it was to be delivered to Mr. Hoover. Certainly no self-respecting man would agree to such conditions. He might do this if he were a 'first instance' candidate, but such a candidacy does not interest me." Challenging the Commerce Secretary to come on into the State Willis declared:

"Things will be called by their right names, provided we are able to think of the word. Candidates will have the opportunity to declare their position upon many public questions about which the people of the country have long been in doubt. In perfect good nature, the issues will be submitted to the Republicans of Ohio and they will be given the opportunity to say whether they believe in the policy of giving an Ohio candidate a fair chance or whether they will take the view that Ohio's political prestige shall be put into the hands of those uninterested in the welfare of Ohio Republicans."

Invasion Reluctant.

So, unless the Commerce Secretary backs out, a merry fight is looked for, beginning about February 24, by which time he must make what will be tantamount to a declaration of his candidacy.

Personally, the Commerce Secretary has been represented during the negotiations with the Willis forces the past several weeks as being decidedly reluctant against invading the senator's State.

In the first place he does not want to be put in the light of seeking the nomination, and secondly, a fight such as that to come in Ohio is naturally distasteful to him. His advisers, however, particularly Walter F. Brown, Ohio leader, and Assistant Secretary of Commerce, see dire possibilities in his letting the State go by without a fight.

In the past favorite sons have held out with large State delegations, preventing the nomination of those men who had for several months been far out in front, or, bluntly, occupying just such a position as Mr. Hoover occupies now.

The selection of dark horses has followed so often because of these outstanding favorite son blocs that the preconvention contenders have come not to be seriously considered among astute politicians any more.

This being the case, Mr. Hoover's managers are insisting that he break up some of these blocs, at least that in Ohio. Fifty-two delegates are involved there.

It so happens, too, that the Hoover campaign has come to that inevitable sag characteristic of booms that get too far out in front. Ohio is needed badly to revive it and to give it convention effectiveness when it is revived.

It remains to be seen whether other favorite son territories will be invaded, of course, but the same reasoning that is being applied to Ohio by the Hoover managers would apply to States like Kansas.

But the intention of going into Ohio may well mean that the balliwick of Senator Charles Curtis may come next to be followed by Indiana, Nebraska and others. Of course, the Hoover sentiment is not so dominant in these latter States as it is in Kansas, admittedly a secondary Hoover State, and Ohio.

Harding Contest Recalled.

As to how near accurate Mr. Burton has appraised the Hoover sentiment in that State, there is a wide range of opinion. The late Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood went into the State in 1920 against Harding and corralled nine of the 52 votes. Hoover admittedly can get as many, probably fourteen in fact, the six in Cleveland, four in Cincinnati and four in Toledo. The Cincinnati organization gave notice some time ago that, regardless of any agreement the Hoover-Willis forces might reach, they would not support Willis. Toledo is Brown's domain, so he ought to be able to get those four for his chief.

Hoover's managers readily claim 21 or so of the delegates, and Brown is so optimistic as "not to be surprised if the Secretary of Commerce gets the entire delegation." This is believed to be out of the question. There is even a challenge of the Secretary of Commerce's popular hold on the State. There are those who say that were Willis entirely out of it, Dawes would hold the upper hand in popular sentiment. One of the grievances the Hooverites have against Willis, in fact, is that after himself, he loved the Lowden-Dawes cause best.

Incidentally, friends of the Secretary of Commerce have taken a suite of rooms at the Willard Hotel from which Hoover activities will be conducted.

George Lockwood, a former secretary of the national committee, has charge, and John T. Adams, a former chairman of the committee, has been prominently in appearance. It was said that there is no direct association between the Secretary of Commerce and the headquarters, but it is looked upon as sort of an ante room to the general scheme of things.

Cabinet Crisis in Serbia.

Belgrade, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Democratic ministers of the Serbian cabinet have resigned, bringing about a ministerial crisis. Although Premier Vukichevitch has not yet presented the cabinet's resignation with an eye to rearranging the ministerial posts it is considered doubtful whether the crisis will be surmounted without dissolution and general elections.

SINCLAIR CONTEMPT DECISION DEMANDED ON LAW BASIS ALONE

Prosecutor Attacks Contention of Defense That Court Weigh Evidence.

GOVERNMENT ADMITS TWO CASES ARE WEAK

O'Leary Asserts He Does Not Expect Clark and Vietsch to Be Convicted.

By NORMAN W. BAXTER.

The Government's demand that Harry F. Sinclair, Henry Mason Day, W J. Burns and W. Sherman Burns be found guilty and sent to the penitentiary was linked yesterday by James J O'Leary, assistant United States district attorney, in his argument against the motion to dismiss, with the virtual admission that the prosecution does not expect the charge of contempt to be substantiated against Sheldon Clark and Charles L. Vietsch, the two other respondents on trial before Justice Frederick L. Siddons on contempt charges growing out of the mistrial of the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy case.

This, however, was only one phase of the prosecution's answer to the two days of argument, citations and authorities which counsel for the respondents had marshaled in support of their motion to discharge the rule and dismiss the petition. Charles A. Douglas, of counsel for the Burns Agency; Judge Daniel Thew Wright, of counsel for Henry Mason Day, and E. C. Brandenburg, of counsel for Sheldon Clark, consumed most of yesterday's session in placing before the court their reasons for asking that their clients be set free on the basis of the Government's failure to make a case.

The Government's presentation was not more than opened yesterday and will be continued next week upon the resumption of the hearing. The extent and range of the discussion to be expected on behalf of the Government may be gauged by the fact that 65 volumes appeared on the counsel table of the prosecution from which references and authorities in substantiation of its position were to be drawn.

Contempt Held Proved.

It was the initial contention of Mr O'Leary that the Court could not on the existing motion do anything but consider the law in the case and not as counsel for the respondents had urged weigh the evidence. The Government's position was that the allegations of the petition had been established and that there were three phases in which criminal contempt had been made clear in the present case, namely:

That shadowing as it was put into effect in this instance is criminal contempt.

That the purpose of the shadowing as had been put into effect in this case was criminal contempt.

That the acts committed in putting into effect this form of shadowing constituted criminal contempt.

"We are not here concerned with the guilt of these respondents beyond a reasonable doubt," said Mr. O'Leary. "We are not concerned with the weight of McMullin's testimony. Confusion has been caused here by the introduction of questions of fact with questions of law. The legal sufficiency of the Government's evidence has been challenged, but the Court is not now called upon to reach a finding of guilt or innocence. A finding upon the evidence is not permissible until a later stage. We must now consider only the law.

Pins Guilt on Sinclair.

"Counsel for the respondents have appealed to the law of God and man to justify their position, but neither logic nor truth will support the monstrous position that has been taken here, that jury espionage as demonstrated in this case is not contempt of court."

Mr. O'Leary insisted that unless the Court decided to throw the law of agency out of the window there was no escaping the fact that what the Burns operatives did was in effect done by Mr. Sinclair and that, therefore, it followed that in the eyes of the law Mr. Sinclair went to the Kidwell home, rode on street cars with the jurors, looked up encumbrances on the property of jurors and committed all of the other acts of the Burns operatives, "and then they say," said Mr. O'Leary, "that this is just a case of lawful shadowing."

"How can a millionaire defendant, charged with defrauding his own government, arrogate to himself the power to set up this espionage system. This millionaire had no right to hold this jury in the hollow of his hand and exercise the whip hand over it by the knowledge he obtained by so holding its members. Suppose, for instance, that in this surveillance the Burns operatives had detected one of the jurors in an act which he would have gone to an extreme to prevent becoming public. Would the mind of such a juror have been free?"

Judge Wright in his argument in support of the motion to dismiss insisted that the court could not assume that there was an obstruction to the administration of justice when it was not actually there.

Contentions of Defense.

"Day," argued Judge Wright, "did no more than the special counsel for the Government, who approved and acquiesced in this shadowing of the jury during the time that they knew of it. Can any one doubt that if they had entertained the slightest suspicion that mere shadowing without contact was an illegal act that they would not have hastened to your honor? It was not until contact was made by others than these respondents that they hurried here to exhibit that to the court. If the receiving of the reports was violation of the law where does it lead. How untenable is this position for it makes not only Sinclair, Day and Clark responsible but brings Senator Pomerene and Mr. Roberts into the same position.

"The district attorney is asking your honor to convict on a penal status without giving these respondents the right of trial by jury. This reduces this case to an absolute absurdity. Your honor could have no greater privilege as a member of the bench than at this moment to announce, maintain and adhere to the law."

Mr. Brandenburg in summing up for the respondents insisted they had done nothing but shadow the jury, according to the Government's proof, and insisted that unless and until a statute to the contrary was enacted shadowing itself could not be made a crime.

STEWART FACES SENATE BAR . TODAY

directing the immediate arrest of Stewart.

"Now I ask unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the resolution," the Montanan said.

"Is there objection?" again demanded Vice President Dawes.

Again silence.

"With t objection the resolution is agreed to," Mr. Dawes announced.

Was Flashed to Country.

The Senate sat as though stunned. There was a sudden rush of reporters from the press gallery to telephones and wires. That alone broke the silence, and at its height one senator looked up and smilingly called for "order."

A prepared copy of the warrant was handed up to the Vice President who signed it. Then a clerk handed it to David S. Barry, sergeant at arms, who immediately left the chamber, and in the company of a deputy, John McGrain, left at once for the Willard Hotel.

A group of newspaper men followed to the eighth floor and swarmed outside Stewart's suite. Barry and McGrain knocked and entered, one of them turning the key in the lock behind them.

A few minutes later, Barry emerged and announced that the Chicago oil operator had been "nice and agreeable" and had said that he would place himself in the sergeant-at-arms' hands and "make no trouble."

"Col. Stewart was calm and cool when we served the warrant," Barry added.

Flares at Committee Hearing.

The Standard Oil Magnate also was rather calm and cool during his second day on the witness stand, but at times he showed flares of temper and time and again told the several senators who questioned him that he did not intend to "argue" with them.

At one point when Walsh asked him why he hesitated in answering a question, the oil operator bluntly told the senator it was "none of your business, nor is it any business of the Senate." At another juncture when he had been asked the meaning of the language in a letter written to him, he said:

"That's good English, Senator. You can interpret that as well as I can."

Later on he told Senator Bratton, of New Mexico, that a question put to him was "irrelevant."

Turning to the $8,000,000 profits the Continental stood to make out of the purchase of oil and its resale to companies controlled by the Standard of Indiana and the Sinclair Consolidated, Stewart said he didn't care about that. What he was interested in was getting crude oil that he needed.

"Not that I have lost my respect for $8,000,000, senator," he added, with a chuckle.

"An Insult," He Shouted.

The real dramatic moment of the hearing came while the Standard officer was under questioning by Senator Cutting (Republican), New Mexico, who took the witness into the realm of assumption, saying that it might be assumed that he was the greatest of business men.

"Let's leave that out," Stewart said.

"Then again we might assume that you are an imbecile, which none of us does assume," Cutting pursued.

"All right," the witness returned.

"Then we might asume that you are committing perjury——"

"I say that's an insult," the bulky oil operator shouted and it seemed for a split second that he would spring from his chair toward the New Mexican. "I shall leave this room instantly if that is to go on. The Senate of the United States has not authorized you to insult me."

Remark Is Withdrawn.

Senator Walsh smoothed the waters by suggesting that the matter be withdrawn from the record, to which Senator Cutting readily agreed.

Later on the subject was adverted to again and Senator Cutting explained that Stewart had cut him off in the middle of his statement; that he had intended to add, "but the committee does not believe that."

"Oh, it's all right," Stewart said. "I have no feelings about it now."

At intervals during the hearings, committeemen put to the oil operator questions which he had refused to answer the day before and he persisted in his refusal to answer those and some others. All of them had to do either with whether he had knowledge of the disposition of Liberty bonds by the Continental or had discussed that subject with Sinclair.

The witness put his refusal on the same grounds as before; that the issues were in the courts in the Fall-Sinclair case and that he should give his testimony to a jury and judge.

Told to Remain in Capital.

After an hour on the stand, Stewart was excused from the witness chair, but directed to remain in Washington "at least until tomorrow."

Then the committee heard Beman G Dawes, chairman of the board of the Pure Oil Co., and brother of Vice President Dawes, and other oil men, none of whom could shed any light on the Continental transaction.

Meeting later in the day in executive session the committee lost little time in deciding to recommend to the Senate the immediate arrest of Stewart.

Senator Walsh, Chairman Nye and several others repaired to the prosecutor's office in the Senate office building, where the report resolution and warrant were prepared for presentation to the Senate.

The warrant was directed to the sergeant-at-arms, who was commanded "forthwith to take into custody the body of Robert W. Stewart wherever found and to bring the said Robert W Stewart before the bar of the Senate * * * and to keep the said Robert W. Stewart in custody to await the further order of the Senate."

Upheld by Supreme Court.

This was the second time in recent years that the Senate had issued a warrant of arrest and it had been served. The previous time was in the case of Mally S. Daugherty, a Washington Courthouse, Ohio, banker, who in 1924 refused to respond to a subpena to appear before the special committee investigating the administration of the Department of Justice by his brother, Harry M. Daugherty.

McGrain arrested Daugherty at his home and started back to Washington with him, but was intercepted by a Federal court order to deliver his prisoner to that court, which freed him. The United States Supreme Court overruled the lower court, but the Senate never has pressed the case against Daugherty.

In the case of Sinclair, the Senate lands committee decided against recommending an arrest by the Senate, but proposed instead that his case be referred to the District of Columbia courts, where it was tried last spring with the resultant conviction of the oil operator.

Thomas on the Stand.

Former Senator Charles Thomas, of Colorado, who was counsel for the late A. E. Humphreys in the sale of oil to the Continental for $1.50 a barrel, was called before the committee yesterday morning, and the Democratic prosecutor read Stewart's testimony yesterday about the New York conference at which the Continental deal was put through. In this deal Stewart and Sinclair guaranteed the contract of the Continental. Later the same oil was sold back to Stewart and Sinclair's company for $1.75 a barrel.

In an effort to impeach the testimony of Stewart the committee got from Thomas a denial that he had knowledge of a conversation as to the Continental deal which Stewart said Thursday had taken place at the conference.

Thomas told the committee that no figure of $1.75 a barrel for the oil was mentioned in his presence. Stewart had testified that Blackmer had told him that if he wanted the oil he would have to pay that price.

"I was out of the room quite a good bit of the time," Thomas said.

Dawes' Brother a Witness.

Then Beman G. Dawes, president of the Pure Oil Co., and brother of Vice President Dawes, testified that he heard no mention of a $1.75 price during the New York conference.

"When did your first hear of such price?" Walsh asked.

"After the Senate investigation here," Dawes replied.

Similar testimony was given by A. E Humphreys, jr., who was present at the conference.

"No such converation took place in my presence," Humphreys said.

"Were you present all of the time?" inquired Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington.

"To the best of my recollection I was."

Recalled to the witness stand facing citation for contempt, Stewart stubbornly resisted the attempts of Senator Walsh to testify on a question which he said should be placed first before a judge and jury.

After preliminary sparring between Walsh and the witness when Stewart was recalled, the prosecutor finally asked:

"Did you know anything about the purchase of Liberty bonds by the Continental?"

Stewart Again Refuses.

"Repeating what I have said before," the witness replied, "I don't think I should answer."

"Were you ever consulted about the purchase of these bonds?"

"I reiterate what I said before."

"Were you ever consulted about the disposition of the bonds?"

Stewart hesitated.

"Why did you hesitate?"

"That is none of your business, Senator, nor is it any of the business of the committee. I say that with all deference."

Then the Standard official again declined to answer.

Walsh propounded a series of questions as to what Stewart knew about the disposition of the bonds and he declined to answer again on the grounds given yesterday—that the case was in the courts.

Senator Bratton (Democrat), New Mexico, then took Stewart over some of the ground covered yesterday.

"I am not here to argue these matters with you, Senator Bratton," Stewart said at one point.

Calls Question Irrelevant.

At another point he said questions put to him were "irrelevant."

Asked about the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve, which was leased to Harry F Sinclair and later recovered by the Government, Stewart said he never "even knew there was a Teapot Dome until after it was leased."

Bratton went back to the $8,000,000 the Continental might have made on the contract for the oil bought from the Humphries interests and resold to the Sinclair and Standard subsidiaries.

"I was interested in the $16,000,000 profit my stockholders stood to make," Stewart said.

"We were paying 25 cents a barrel more than the Continental, but was not interested; I was interested in getting the oil."

The Standard Oil official leaned back with a chuckle and said:

"I've never lost my respect for $8,000,000. That's a large sum, but this $8,000,000 didn't cut any figure with me. I was looking at the great big proposition."

Wanted Oil Badly.

"The problem was to get crude, which had been up to $3 a barrel. We wanted this crude badly and we had a chance to get it for 25 cents less than in the open market. What did I care about somebody getting a commission?"

"Our stockholders have profited tremendously by the making of these contracts," Stewart went on. "We bought it at a time when we could not get crude."

At another part Stewart told Bratton again that the "senator was just trying to argue" with him. That the New Mexican denied.

Replying to Chairman Nye, Stewart said that when the Continental Trading took place in 1921, the Standard Oil of Indiana did not own the Midwest Co., of which H. M. Blackmer, a missing witness in the oil cases, was president.

Stewart testified that if Blackmer made a brokerage fee out of the deal it would have been proper. He said Blackmer, who was a party to the Continental deal, "had a perfect right to make a commission."

The witness disclosed that when the Indiana Standard got control of the Midwest, Blackmer offered to resign and permit the Indiana company to put in new officers and directors.

Asked About Commission.

Walsh asked if Stewart thought Blackmer had committed a "grave offense" in holding out 25 cents commission on the Humphreys Oil.

"Oh, I don't think so, senator," the witness replied.

"Well, if some one had written me the letters that Blackmer wrote you and then held out a commission of 25 cents a barrel on me" Walsh returned, "our relations would not have been so cordial thereafter."

Chairman Nye repeated his question of yesterday.

"Do you know of any one who received these Liberty Loan bonds of the Continental Trading Co.?"

"For reasons I have given, I must respectfully decline to answer."

"Very well," said Nye "I repeat another question. Have you had any conversation with Harry F. Sinclair about these bonds?"

"I respectfully decline to answer."

"Have you ever talked to Mr. Blackmer about these bonds?"

"Not that I recall."

Has Not Seen O'Neil Lately

"Have you ever talked to Mr. O'Neil about these bond transactions?"

"I have not seen him in a number of years."

"Do you know anything about any of these bonds going to a political party?"

"No, sir."

Stewart was then excused from the witness stand by the committee but was told to remain in Washington for at least another day.

Before Stewart was excused from the stand, Chairman Nye told him he must understand that the committee must reach the conclusion that it was possible that he and his associates knew the purposes of the Continental before it was organized. The company, whose good faith was guaranteed by Stewart and Sinclair, bought 33,000,000 barrels of oil for $1.50 a barrel and sold it back to Stewart and Sinclair companies for $1.75.

"Have you any statement to make?" Nye asked.

Stewart was silent.

One of the final questions asked the witness dealt with the angle of the case involving whether any of the profits went to a political fund.

"Do you know anything about any of these bonds going to a political party?" Stewart was asked.

"No, sir." He replied.

Dawes Again Testifies.

Dawes was recalled after Stewart left the stand and testified that his company in the summer of 1921 purchased oil from A. E. Humphreys at $1 a barrel, delivered in tank cars. Humphreys oil also figured in the Continental deal

The witness said that when the Continental contract was made it was the understanding that the Pure Oil was to get one-half of the Humphreys output. It had a stock ownership of 30 per cent in the Humphreys companies.

"Were you to pay the same price as the Sinclair Crude and Prairie?" Walsh asked.

"Yes, it was about $1.50 a barrel."

"Did you participate in the conferences in New York?"

"Not except that I was present when the final negotiations were made."

"Tell us what happened at the New York conference."

Previous Agreement Mentioned.

"These gentlemen had agreed at a previous conference that the Sinclair Crude and the Prairie were to take half of the oil.

"I was there to see that no hardships were to be worked on the Humphreys oil companies."

"When did you learn about the Continental Trading Co.?"

"At that conference; I think right at the end. It was suggested by Mr. Blackmer. (H. M. Blackmer, of the Midwest Refining Co.) I think that took Senator Thomas by surprise, as he said, 'Well, this introduces a new element.' Thomas was acting as an attorney in the case.

"Do you know anything about the Continental Trading Co.?"

"Nothing whatever."

"And about these bonds?" interposed Nye.

"Not a thing."

Dawes was then excused.

H. L. Phillips, president of the Sinclair Crude, and George H. Taber, jr., of Tulsa, Okla., were called, but failed to answer

Sinclair's Engineer Heard.

Thomas W. White, an engineer for the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Co., took the stand, but said he knew nothing of the Continental transactions, and E. J. Bullock, of Chicago, Standard Oil of Indiana director on the board of the Sinclair Crude, corroborated Stewart's testimony that the Standard official presented the Continental contracts to the Standard Oil board and said the price was the best that could be obtained.

Bullock said some one had remarked that some company was making 25 cents a barrel on the oil.

Walsh wanted to know if no one even "joked" Stewart about being beaten on the contracts, but Bullock said he could not recall all the details of the conversation.

Simmons Urges U. S. Bonds for Flood Aid

(Associated Press.)

Issuances of bonds for payment of the entire cost of flood control of the Mississippi River and its tributaries by the Federal Government was advocated yesterday by Senator Simmons, Democrat, North Carolina, ranking minority member of the Senate finance committee.

"I think we should follow the policy adopted in construction of the Panama Canal," Senator Simons said. In commenting on flood relief legislation, "and pay for the work by the issuance of long-time bonds. If flood control is to be made as permanent and complete as possible, there is no reason why the whole burden should be thrown on taxpayers of the next few years. Future generations will derive benefit from the work to be done now, and they should bear a share of the cost."

CALIFORNIA GROUPS JOIN IN HOOVER PLEA

Backers of Hiram Johnson Are Among the Signers of Statement.

San Francisco, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Leaders representing all factions in the Republican party in California have set aside their differences of past years to unite in an appeal to citizens to support Herbert Hoover for the Republican nomination for president.

The appeal was headed by William H Crocker, Reublican national committeeman from California, and carried the names of numerous members of the progressive wing of the party, which was started in this State by the then Gov. Hiram W. Johnson, now United States senator. Gov. C. C Young, a member of the Johnson political group, has signed the appeal

"The Republican party will be honoring itself in presenting Herbert Hoover as its candidate for President, and we call upon the citizens of California to join with us in assuring a delegation to the Republican national convention which will unanimously and wholeheartedly support Herbert Hoover for the Republican nomination for President of the United States," said the signed statement.

JUSTICE STAFFORD'S VERSE WINS AWARD

Lindbergh Sonnet Scored Second by Poetry Society of Great Britain.

A sonnet entitled "Lindbergh," by Justice Wendell Phillips Stafford, of the District Supreme Court, has been awarded second prize in the fourteenth poetry contest conducted under the auspices of the American section of the Poetry Society of Great Britain, Justice Stafford was advised yesterday.

Edwin Markham's poem, "The Leader," won first prize. More than 600 poems were submitted. Justice Stafford's sonnet follows:

"Lone eagle of the wild Atlantic plain.
Tall, laughing boy, with sun-glints in your eyes,
Playfellow of the lightning and the rain,
Co-sentry with old watchers in the skies,
Light-hearted prologue to the epic muse,
Glad reuniter of long-riven parts,
Bright Hermes of the nations, bringing news
Of love still flaming in all human hearts!
'Do I deserve all this?' Oh, more, far more,
More than the grateful world can ever pay.
A fouler fog than hides Newfoundland's shore
Your little bark's propeller whirled away,
Fly on, above the mist of sordid things:
Rise, like the sun, with healing in your wings!"

Montana to Give 8 Votes To Smith, Kremer Holds

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Feb. 3.—Montana's eight delegates in the 1928 Democratic national convention will be for Gov Alfred E. Smith for President, according to J. Bruce Kremer, Democratic national committeeman from Montana

Mr. Kremer opened the national convention in San Francisco in 1920, and in the 1924 convention he was a leading supporter of William G. McAdoo.

With undiminished regard for Senator Thomas J. Walsh as Montana's favorite son, Mr. Kremer seems to have joined the leaders of the drive recently organized in Montana to elect delegates favorable to the New York governor rather than delegates who would support Senator Walsh as a favorite son in a finish fight.

Senator Walsh is one of the leading drys and Catholics in the Democratic party and the McAdoo men in 1924 were willing to agree on him as a compromise candidate to break the deadlock over McAdoo and Smith.

MERGER CONFEREES CLEAR AWAY SOME MINOR OBSTACLES

Ham Announces Readiness to Go Before Board of Directors With Results.

REFUSES TO DISCUSS AGREEMENT REACHED

Matters Disposed Of, However, Believed to Have Been Pending Legal Questions.

Most of the internal questions involved in the proposed street car merger, intercompany problems such as equitable distribution of advantages between the merging corporations, were ironed out, it is reported, at a meeting yesterday of a subcommittee of the big merger committee of traction officials Some minor points of difference remain, but these are not important, and it is expected they will be disposed of in conferences of small groups. William F. Ham, president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., is ready to go before his board of directors with the results of the conferences up to date and a complete agreement is looked for next week.

The usual policy of secretiveness concerning the details of the plan that is in the making again was observed at the end of yesterday's meeting, which was participated in by Ham, S. R. Bowen, vice president and general counsel for the same company; John H. Hanna, president, and G. Thomas Dunlop, general counsel of the Capital Traction Co.; Harley P. Wilson, representing the Washington Rapid Transit Co. and the North American Co., and William G. McAdoo and Brice Clagett, representing Wilson.

Ham acted as spokesman for the conference when the meeting adjourned. He said that the subcommittee had disposed of all the business pending before it and was ready to report to the general merger committee.

Will Report to Bell.

He added that no date had been fixed for the full committee to meet, but that he today would report to Charles J. Bell, chairman of his board of directors and of the large committee on merger, stating that the subcommittee was ready to report and that the time of meeting for the full committee would then be fixed.

"Or it may be," said Ham, "that, so far as this company is concerned, we will go to our board of directors for approval of the progress thus far before the full committee meets. Five members of our board are also members of the committee, but we will report to the other members."

When Thursday's meeting of the larger committee adjourned, George E. Hamilton, chairman of the board of directors of the Capital Traction Co., said that certain legal questions had been referred to the lawyers of the companies for special report. From this it was deduced that the topics of yesterday's subcommittee meeting were these legal questions

Ham Maintains Silence

Ham refused to amplify his statement or say anything about the questions that had been discussed. He even refused to answer yes or no to questions as to policies disposed of, or even canvassed.

"I do not like to talk about pending negotiations until a project has been completely planned," he said, and added: "but I thoroughly appreciate the lively interest of the public in these proceedings and I do not deprecate it I am anxious for early disclosure of plans.

"Are you optimistic?" Ham was asked in a final effort to learn something definite.

"I do not want to say anything further," Ham replied, with a smile.

He had been asked if there were a minority of the conferees opposed to any merger. Neither would he answer that question. It has been presumed that there is no person in the traction situation who does not desire a merger

"Are merger negotiations being carried on anywhere except in the conferences of your committee?" Ham was asked.

"I would not answer that question under any circumstances I could think of," he concluded.

Emery Pupils Give Anniversary Pageant

Parents and teachers of the Emery-Eckington Association yesterday celecelebrated the thirty-first birthday anniversary of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers with an entertainment and pageant at the Emery School. Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter, District president of the congress, addressed the association.

Some score of pupils of the Emery School, dressed in costumes of yellow and blue, the parent-teacher colors, lit candles on a huge birthday cake as each was questioned on cardinal principles of the association, by Mrs. James M. Moffett. Mrs. Rafter in her address stressed the responsibility of mothers in properly molding the characters of their children before they attain to school age.

Virginia Assembly Fights I. C. C. Ruling

Richmond, Va., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The general assembly of Virginia today adopted a house resolution condemning the Interstate Commerce Commission for its last decision in the Lake Cargo coal rate case and asking Virginia representatives in Congress to take "suitable action" to prevent recurrence of such a decree.

The resolution was introduced by Delegate Ashton Dovell, house floor leader, and set forth that the Constitution of the United States prohibits tariff of trade between States and that the Interstate Commerce Commission decision in this case is in fact a restrictive tariff on Virginia trade and has considerably damaged the coal industry of the State.

Saratoga, Largest Ship, Going Through Canal

Passage of the new aircraft carrier Saratoga through the Panama Canal probably tomorrow, will mark the transit of the largest warship from a standpoint of dimensions through the canal.

The Saratoga is larger both in length and beam, or width, than the British battle cruiser Hood, which holds the record so far for dimensions and tonnage. The Saratoga's beam at water line of 106 feet will allow of but 2 feet lock clearance on either side of the vessel, and its length of 888 feet is but 112 feet shorter than that of the locks. The Hood's length is 860 feet and its beam 105 feet.

VARE ELECTION RECOUNT WILL START ON MONDAY

Differences Between Subcommittee and Reed Investigators Are Smoothed Out.

CHECK WILL BE IN SECRET

(Associated Press.)

Differences between the Senate elections subcommittee and the special campaign funds committee over the recount in the contest of William B. Wilson against the election of William S. Vare in the 1926 Pennsylvania senatorial election were smoothed over yesterday and the recount will start Monday.

Senator Reed, of Missouri, chairman of the campaign funds committee, obtained an agreement from the elections subcommittee permitting him to examine any of the ballots or election paraphernalia in the contested counties at any time.

The subcommittee conducting the recount had decided to take the counties up alphabetically, bringing Allegheny County, which includes Pittsburgh, for first consideration.

This program will be followed, but under the arrangement decided upon yesterday after a series of conferences Senator Reed and his committee may go ahead and inquire into the Philadelphia ballots if it desires. It was contended by Reed that his committee had priority over the ballots from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Senator Waterman (Republican), Colorado, chairman of the elections subcommittee, announced that no daily announcements would be made during the recount.

"We do not propose," he said, "that the disputes between the representatives on either side in the recount room shall be aired. The recount and the sessions of the subcommittee are to be executive."

After Allegheny County the following will be recounted in order: Delaware, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Philadelphia and Schuylkill.

BOULDER DAM APPROVED BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

Report Will Be Delayed Until March 15 for State's Commission Action.

MODIFICATION EXPECTED

(Associated Press.)

With an unusual proviso that it shall not be reported formally to the House before March 15, the Swing-Johnson bill for construction of a huge Government dam in Boulder Canyon on the Colorado River was approved yesterday by the House irrigation committee. The vote was 13 to 4.

Similar in its main features to the measure passed last year by the House, only to meet death in the bitter filibuster that tied the Senate in a knot in the closing hours of the last session, the proposal, as approved by the committee, carried two amendments relating to its power features, and one covering the navigability of the river.

The proviso to delay formal report of the bill was offered by Representative Morrow, Democrat, New Mexico. It instructed Chairman Smith to communicate the desire of the committee to the Colorado River commissioners of the seven basin States that they resume negotiations in an attempt to adjust their differences.

Any agreement reached would be reported to the committee, and if a compact has not been effected by March 15 a report will be made of the differences upon which they have been unable to agree.

At the suggestion of Representative Arentz (Republican), Nevada, the committee agreed that such modifications as might be suggested by the Colorado River commissioners as a result of their conference would be attached to the measure as committee amendments.

Of the two amendments accepted by the committee, one by Representative Davenport (Republican), New York, would make it necessary for the Secretary of the Interior to be governed by the Federal Power Commission in dealing with the power phases of the project.

SHAMEFUL SCHOOL CONDITIONS.

Continued neglect by Congress has brought about a shameful condition of affairs in the elementary school system of the District of Columbia. Thousands of children are suffering irreparable wrong by being denied the opportunity to obtain schooling.

The law compels parents to send children to school. But Congress fails to provide the schools.

The five-year program for increase of school facilities has broken down. Congress has failed to make the appropriations provided for in the program. The program is $11,000,000 behind.

Although there are 67,899 children enrolled in the public schools, there are accommodations for only one-half that number. Some of these "accommodations" are represented by 75 portable buildings, with a stove in the middle of the room. The buildings have no lights, and the hygienic conditions are bad.

Principals and teachers are doing their best by teaching children half time and then sending them home to make room for other half-time pupils. The result is a denial of proper instruction in the elementary schools. Children are approaching the high school age with their primary instruction only half completed. The years they are losing can never be restored.

Although about $400,000 is in the hands of the District Commissioners for the purchase of school sites, Congress has made it impossible to buy land by providing that not more than 25 per cent above the assessed valuation shall be paid for land. Sites can not be condemned because the values fixed by juries are more than 25 per cent above assessed valuation. The Budget Bureau strikes out all estimates for additional school sites. In the estimates now pending before Congress there are no items for new school sites, although they are needed in many parts of the District.

In some of the schools on the borders of the District all children from Maryland and Virginia homes are excluded, because the accommodations are already overcrowded by District children.

No complaint is made that the high school accommodations are inadequate. There is room in the high schools because a heavy proportion of the primary school children have failed to obtain sufficient instruction to be ready for high school. These youths, robbed of their right to obtain public school education, and having reached the age where they are ashamed to remain in classes with little children, are going out into the world poorly equipped for their life work.

It is a shame and a disgrace that the school children of Washington can not obtain the schooling that is given in other cities throughout the United States. Congress is not proving as capable as the average city council in dealing with public schools.

FIELD MARSHAL HAIG.

In Westminster Abbey the funeral of Field Marshal Douglas Haig was held yesterday, and his body will rest in Scotland. The British Empire and its allies in the war were represented at the impressive ceremonies in the abbey. The nation wished to entomb Earl Haig in St. Paul's, but his own desire and that of his family was that he should be buried at his old home at Bemersyde.

The late field marshal won his way to supreme command in the stern competition that strikes down and elevates individuals with ruthless impartiality for the sake of national preservation. Earl Haig may not have been a sublime genius, but he was more dependable than a genius. He incarnated the never-say-die spirit of the Scot and the Briton. He was patient and persistent in organizing his army, always resourceful and sometimes brilliant in meeting emergencies, but preeminent in steadfastness. England knew that he would never falter or fail.

No commander in chief who holds his own on a long and desperately fought battle line can be lacking in great abilities. The British field marshal did not seek self-glorification, and even in the midst of unprecedented and now historic scenes, when his personality might have been dramatically exploited, he attended strictly to his duties and left his fame to the future. As time goes by his high place among world commanders will reveal itself, and his fame will have lost nothing because he was a modest gentleman.

A CREED FOR LAWYERS.

The legal profession has come to realize of late that in certain instances court procedure falls far short of perfection. Time and again justice, guided by lawyers whose motives may be of the best, appears to have gone astray. The law has come to be involved and subject to unnecessary delay. Emotionalism has supplanted cold logic. The law has followed a tortuous path away from justice, in many cases, and none are more free to admit it than lawyers themselves.

Various panaceas have been put forward. No less a personage than the Chief Justice of the United States himself called upon his brother lawyers some time ago to set about cleaning their house. Harvard University has undertaken to ascertain how the law and legal processes can be brought back to firmer ground. Various individuals have added their voices in appealing for reform. Among these stands Justice Joseph M. Proskauer, of New York. In an address delivered before the New York Bar Association recently, he called upon the profession to restore to the judge his power to function as a minister of justice and not as a mere presiding officer, criticized the overcontentiousness of the profession as evidenced in the number of appeals taken, and maintained that the system of jury trials in civil contract cases had been transformed from a useful process into a wasteful, outworn and ineffective fetish.

Law reform, he said further, can not be accomplished merely by specific change in statute and rule, but must rest largely upon a fundamental change in the group psychology of the legal profession toward its function, and the lay psychological attitude toward justice and its administration. Possibly, he suggests, if the legal profession would support by oath a creed, in much the same fashion as the physician now takes the hippocratic oath, these ends might be obtained. Justice Proskauer presents the following as a lawyers' credo:

> I will join with my adversary in waiving a jury trial wherever and whenever it can possibly be done without the sacrifice of a fundamental right. I will join with my adversary in supporting a trial justice in fair comment upon the evidence and reasonable direction to a jury on the facts. I will join with my adversary in fair concession of undisputed facts. I will not put an adversary to his proof in respect to facts whose existence my client admits. I will refrain from merely formal or technical objection to the admission of evidence. I will cooperate with the trial justice and my adversary to secure a speedy, prompt and complete presentation of the facts of the case. I will neither make nor oppose interlocutory motions unless they are of real and practical importance. I will take no appeal unless I am satisfied that substantial error has been committed and that a new trial should reasonably give a different result.

It would take many years, of course, for the effect of such reform to be noticeable, yet in such a credo may be concealed that which the legal profession long has stood in need. Would lawyers as a group be willing to take such an oath? Is the legal profession sufficiently high-minded to restrict itself to this extent?

THE FARM LOAN BOARD.

The vote of 60 to 13 by which Eugene Meyer and his colleagues of the Federal Farm Loan Board were confirmed by the Senate discloses the fact that opposition from farm organizations to these nominations failed to materialize. Indeed, many farm organizations joined in urging confirmation of Mr. Meyer. They had discovered that the management of joint stock land banks in some cases had been both incompetent and corrupt and had not been capably supervised by the officials of the old Farm Loan Board. The reorganization of this board led immediately to better management of localized banks and to an improvement in the credit of the bonds issued under the farm loan system.

Agriculture is now well served by the Federal land and intermediate credit banks. Credit is available at fixed and moderate rates of interest, and the credit of the banks themselves ranks high. No emergency short of a prostrating national calamity can now seriously disturb the credit system that is at the disposal of the farmers. This improvement in the situation is due to the vigilance and ability of Commissioner Meyer and his colleagues of the Farm Loan Board.

BRITISH LIBERALS' NEW EVANGEL.

Laissez faire in Britain has apparently breathed its last. It has followed the "economic man" and other fetishes of an earlier day into enforced retirement. In other words, the Liberal party, or that large and conquering wing of it that regards David Lloyd George as leader, has abandoned its old tenets and taken up such a position on industrial policy as will, if finally adopted by the nation, insure an increase of government control and regulation of the methods and profits of manufacture.

A report, long in preparation, has at last been published, under the title of "Britain's Industrial Future." One of its objects is to show that, if British Liberals have a well-thought-out program for agricultural reform, so also they are prepared, by intelligent thinking and constructive proposals, to suggest remedies for the industrial depression that prevails at present in Britain. The keynote is struck in the recommendation that the country should seek compensation for the decline of its export industries by developing its home resources, particularly housing, electrical supply, and agriculture. It is further urged that each step in this process should be accompanied by government control, with the creation, if required for that purpose, of several new governmental agencies. The combined industrial and agricultural scheme places the British Liberals well on the way to socialism, although the report itself takes care to repudiate any such idea. The facts, however, speak.

The report has been carefully made, and has the merit of embodying a number of constructive suggestions. It looks to the creation of a board of national investment for the systematizing and cheapening of the raising of capital by public authorities. It contemplates an economic general staff for the uniform working of the economic policy of the country. It provides also for the formation of a ministry of industry, with machinery for reviewing the status of the wage earners, for profit sharing, and for the transfer of workers from depressed to flourishing trades. It hopes to reduce unemployment, if not, indeed, to banish it entirely, by getting British capital invested in home development instead of in foreign loans. One of its most excellent suggestions is to raise the age of compulsory school attendance to sixteen or at least fifteen, and to provide vocational training for all unemployed who are under eighteen years of age.

This startling and, in a sense, revolutionary document is, of course, a bid for the confidence and support of the electorate, as a means toward the rehabilitation of the once great Liberal party. It is ably drawn and is well calculated to effect its purpose. It may be asked if it is still possible to effect that purpose, but the framers of the report evidently think it is. This report does not abandon free trade; but, sooner or later, all British parties must come to that.

SEAGRAVE'S CHALLENGE.

When the British automobile racer, Maj. H. O. D. Seagrave, established a record of 203 miles an hour at Daytona Beach last year his achievement immediately became a challenge to all to whom speed is of even passing interest. This month will witness several attempts to better the mark. Fearful and wonderful mechanical contrivances have been designed and constructed, classified as automobiles only for lack of a more fitting name, all of which in theory are capable of attaining speed upward of 210 miles an hour Material reward will come to the man who beats the Seagrave record. A British oil manufacturer has offered an income of $5,000 a year and a trophy worth $5,000 to whoever beats 203 miles an hour and holds the record up to 1930. Automobile racers of all nations are eligible to this prize. Add to it the return from syndicated articles and the recompense from manufacturers of materials and articles used in the venture and it is evident that driving an automobile at greater than 203 miles an hour is worth undertaking from the financial standpoint. But it is probable that the hope of financial reward is only a minor factor. Only for glory, for the satisfaction of claiming a "world record," would any man trust his life to a monstrous engine speeding along at close to four miles a minute.

WEST INDIAN AIRWAYS.

All who are familiar with the topography of the islands that barricade the waters of the Caribbean Sea against the Atlantic Ocean will approve the suggestion of Col. Lindbergh that air lines of communication between the islands would be both profitable and practical.

Col. Lindbergh in his journey from the shores of Venezuela to St. Thomas flew nearly twice as far as would have been necessary had his object been to take the shortest route. But he was out for observation, and his report shows that he was within sight of land most of the time. Should the reports of this pioneer result in the establishment of an air service over the Antilles such a service would serve to stimulate commerce and would bring the Virgin Islands into closer relations with continental America. Less than 2,000 miles of airway would serve for a passenger and mail line from Key West to Havana, Kingston, Port au Prince, Santo Domingo City, San Juan and St. Thomas. The service between Florida and Havana is already established and its extension is but a matter of time. Col. Lindbergh's "good-will journey" has shown that the project is not only feasible, but will soon be necessary for both commercial and strategic reasons.

TINKERING WITH FOOTBALL.

Almost a month earlier than usual the reorganized national football rules committee meets in Absecon, N. J., today for the purpose of revising the gridiron code for 1928. The result of its deliberations will not be made public until Monday.

Every year for more than a decade annual meetings have been held to tamper with football rules. In the earlier days of the game there was reason to amend the rules, but of late the game has exhibited a tendency to become more or less standardized, if only let alone. The continual tinkering with its code has served no good purpose. The height of absurdity was reached last year, with changes so complicated that the majority of the football coaches throughout the country were unable to understand them. The code adopted in 1927 has hardly been tried, yet there is talk of revising it.

Football should be let alone, for several years at least. Further changes serve only to confuse players and spectators alike. Fortunately, for the first time, this year the coaches of the country will be represented at the meetings by an advisory committee, and an advisory committee of officials also will sit with the rules makers. These groups can be depended upon to represent the public capably. They will undoubtedly resist every effort to tamper with the game that has become so truly national.

YOUNG MEN IN AIRCRAFT.

The standard of physical requirements set by the Department of Commerce for those who apply for licenses as air pilots is extremely high and it is, therefore, surprising that the aeronautics branch of the department is able to report that almost 93 per cent of the applicants passed satisfactory medical examinations.

Since the creation of the aeronautics branch examinations of 1,084 student applicants have been made, and of the total 955, or 85.4 per cent, were found qualified. To facilitate physical examinations there have been appointed thus far 240 medical examiners, in addition to five Public Health hospitals, in 146 cities.

There is a constantly growing desire on the part of young men in every section of the country to engage in air navigation. It is felt that the time is close at hand when opportunities will be presented for profitable employment in that field. Reports from the Postoffice Department indicate that everywhere communities are preparing for the day when air transportation will be general on this continent.

Old-timers knew, but didn't know why. They knew onions prevent disease, but didn't know it's because less kissing transmits fewer germs.

Detroit News: The first long-distance movie will be sent from Washington to Detroit in April. In place of the customary two-reel comedy, it is proposed to radio pictures of the Congress in action.

What's Needed.

Detroit News: What is needed most in this country, which has done so much otherwise in the field of labor and time-saving devices, short working hours, etc., is a few more eight-hour murder trials.

And That Is News.

Detroit News: Out where the handclasp's a little stronger, out where the smile dwells a little longer, and things generally are bigger and better, a man in Sewell, Kans., has one of the largest carbuncles on record.

Keep It in Mind.

Rochester Democrat and Chronicle: Those forehanded persons who fill their coal bins in the summer at a discount on the regular price have a double reason for rejoicing when the storms of winter are raging their worst.

They'll Both Do Plenty.

Cincinnati Enquirer: When the Republicans selected Kansas City for their hot season convention, the Democrats went them some better and picked Houston. Which party will sweat the most will depend on the weather man

Testing Whisky.

Philadelphia Inquirer: The London Bystander has a new test for American whisky. It explains that, by its method, a steel rod is inserted in the liquid. If it appears merely rusty when it is withdrawn, the whisky may be drunk; if it is bent in the middle, however, "the refreshment should be declined."

The Next War.

Brooklyn Eagle: Grewsome though the subject is, the decision of that Brussels conference that to save the lives of aged persons, women and children from wholesale destruction in the next war by the dropping of gas bombs, gas-tight cellars must be built, because masks that cost $4 apiece and are hard to adjust, are impracticable, is not without humor. That an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure is a proverb apropos and inspirational.

Paragraphs

By ROBERT QUILLEN

Modern version: "There's no place home-like."

The average failure who says he has always done his best should add the words "friends."

New alibi: "My dear, I flirted with the woman just to worry you and help you lose weight."

A hick town is one you are out of by the time you can get into high gear.

Modernism: Buying a beautifully designed radiator cap with some kind of car attached.

Americanism: Blaming all of the country's troubles on prohibition or equal suffrage or whatever you don't like.

Who cares a hoot about the f. o. b. price of a car? Why don't they tell us how much a month?

There's one great advantage in being President. A man learns where to get clothes that fit.

The chap who marries for money doesn't need much vocabulary; just "gimme" and "yes, ma'am."

It isn't stupidity that keeps the people from reading "high-brow" books. It is the fact that the high-brow writer hasn't the wit to avoid being dull.

It will help you to be a philosopher if you will try to remember what you were excited and indignant about at this time last year.

One thing that makes the reformer's job hard is the fact that people look him over and see no particular advantage in becoming like him.

JUVENILE CRIME.

Sensational reports of juvenile crime have been so loud and prolonged that the public has come to have a kind of blind belief in the increasing wickedness of the younger generation, observes the Newcastle Courier. Hence it is with a feeling of surprise that one reads government compiled statistics showing a drop in juvenile delinquency.

With blazing stories of 18-year-old bandits filling prominent positions in the news almost every day, it seems impossible that the official report can be accurate. Yet a survey carefully covering fourteen cities, scattered over the country, reveals a decrease in the delinquency rate in nine and an increase in only four. In the total, the number of actual commitments to institutions is smaller than in earlier investigations.

It is easy to prophesy ruin for all the youngsters because a few with inflamed imaginations and distorted notions of their relation to the world are spectacularly criminal. Often it has been observed that the young people whose parents are infected with the jazz spirit of the age are themselves a serious, quiet aggregation. Rather naturally the parents find themselves thinking of the children as more gay and naughty than their elders. But now the boys and girls have governmental evidence of improvement in their behavior.

Three-quarters of a century ago parents and grandparents were viewing with alarm "this moral debacle that threatens our children," and those children, now grown to adulthood, are viewing with alarm this moral debacle which never comes. Thus it has ever been.

THE "HOLY MOUNTAIN."

Mount Athos has been for centuries the "Holy Mountain" of the Orthodox Church, writes William Miller in Foreign Affairs. Pious, of at least penitent, Byzantine and Russian emperors and dignitaries founded twenty monasteries there in the dark centuries; more than one monarch sought refuge there from the intrigues of courts, and, to make the solitude safer, it has always been a rule that no female—except the inevitable female flea, which invades most eastern monasteries—should set foot upon Mount Athos.

When the Turks conquered the Balkan peninsula they allowed the monks of Mount Athos, which Xerxes had tried to sever by a canal from the mainland, to enjoy practical autonomy. The Balkan and European wars, by eliminating Turkey from Macedonia, surrounded Mount Athos with Greek territory. An annex to the treaty of Sevres of 1920 constituted the twenty monasteries of Mount Athos into a theocratic republic under the suzerainty of Greece, which undertook to respect the rights of all those ancient foundations.

"The unsettled conditions of Greek politics postponed for six years the elaboration of a charter for Mount Athos. But on September 10, 1926, a decree on the legal position of the 'Holy Mountain' was issued and was followed by two further decrees regulating the relations between the Greek and the monastic republics. While, politically, Mount Athos was declared to form a part of the Hellenic state, its administrative autonomy was recognized, and, spiritually, it was made a direct appendage of the Ecumenical Patriarchate. Thus, on the 'Holy Mountain' the Ecumenical Patriarch has obtained jurisdiction—which he had lost since the creation of independent Bulgarian, Serbian, Roumanian and Albanian Orthodox Churches—over Orthodox monks of non-Greek birth. But this new charter expressly lays down the principle that all monks who seek refuge from the world on Mount Athos ipso facto become Greek nationals, and that on the 'Holy Mountain,' as in heaven, there are no race distinctions: all are, at least juridically, one family.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Jones Ship Bill.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The passage of the Jones bill by the Senate suggests ignorance of fact by a large part of that body. It is conceded that what is desired universally is a privately owned American mercantile marine. The Jones bill instead of advancing that purpose fatally hinders it. The governmentally owned fleet pays no taxes on ships, docks, wharves, equipment, offices, furniture, supplies. Thus the States are deprived of just taxes, creating a deficiency which other businesses and properties must bear. Yet privately owned ships, docks, wharves and so on must pay taxes. The government has a less rate on its telegrams than private concerns. Yet private shipping lines must meet the Government's competition. That is, the Government is strangling the very thing that should live: a privately owned merchant marine. And the strangling is done at a woeful cost—about $75,000,000 a year, plus the taxes lost to the States. The annual reports of the Shipping Board are false in that the loss of taxes is not referred to and in that nothing is said of depreciation and interest on investment.

Do senators know that the Shipping Board is a dumping ground for inefficient pretenders?

It is suggested that those who have had business with the board (this includes the so-called Merchant Fleet Corporation) write senators telling of their experiences.

JAMES B. BLUE.

"Not Committed to War."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Just read in Congressional Record in extension of remarks by Senator Willis, of Ohio a reproduction of an editorial in your paper of January 24, "Not Committed to War," for which I thank you very much. You are exactly right, in my opinion, so I just wanted to extend to you my sincere appreciation and thanks for it, and I want to tell you I sincerely believe you express the honest convictions of millions of our true patriotic American citizens.

Mr. Editor, continue the good work and give us many editorials on this subject. The Nation needs them, because there are still those among us who yet want to drag our Nation into foreign alliances.

Sincere best wishes to you.

A Coonskin Deal.

Emporia Gazette: America's fastest talker is a tall, skinny sophomore at Amherst College. He talked his father out of a $500 coonskin coat recently featured in news photos. Other fathers have been talked out of other coonskin coats.

But the point is that the father of the fast-talking sophomore in question is one J. C. Coolidge, a Federal employe in Washington, D. C. Any one who can make J. C. Coolidge coon-coat conscious and break down his sales resistance to the extent of $500 greenbacks has a double-jointed, bevel-edged, diamond-pointed tongue—and don't you forget it!

And, God help you, young Johnnie Coolidge, if you lose that coat!

Unknown Authors.

New Orleans Times-Picayune: "French admirers of Rene Descartes, unable to secure his remains for preservation in the Paris Pantheon, have arranged to substitute o. of the philosopher's books." Which suggests the possible desirability of building a mausoleum to the "Unknown Author," that, like the Unknown Soldier memorials, may stand in honor of anonymity.

F Street and Eleventh — Main 3770

One of our staunch friends and old customers has recently shown us some furniture which was purchased from W. B. Moses & Sons by her family in the year 1865.

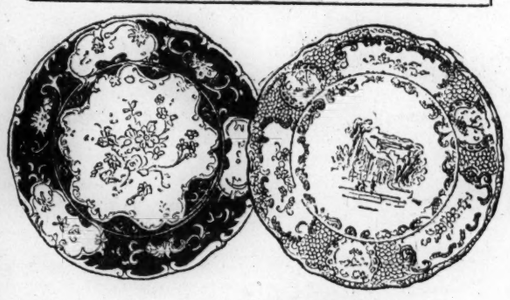

This and other similar incidents have led us to an endeavor to locate some of our first records for historical purposes and to take photographs of merchandise which we handled for the people of Washington in the day of Abraham Lincoln.

Will you not cooperate with us in this endeavor? Ask the older folks what they remember buying from Mr. W. B. Moses, the Founder of our Store, and thus help us to complete an interesting historical record woven in with the romance of Washington's Civil War period.

Thank you!

HEARINGS STARTED ON BILL TO PROTECT CITY ARCHITECTURE

Further Sessions Planned to Allow Arguments by Shipstead Opponents.

SWANSON SEES DANGER IN TOO MUCH AUTHORITY

Control Needed Because of Federal Building Program, Says Grant.

Hearings on the Shipstead bill to give the Commission of Fine Arts authority to pass on the design of any private building within 200 feet of a Federal building or reservation were begun yesterday by the Senate committee on public buildings and grounds.

After listening to proponents of the bill, the committee decided to hold further hearings so those opposed to the bill could present arguments. However, no date for the next hearing was set.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, officer in charge of public buildings and grounds, told the committee that with the $75,000,000 Federal building program under way, there was need of such legislation as is proposed in the Shipstead bill.

Regulations in Other Cities.

Senator Swanson (Democrat), Virginia, said that while he was in favor of giving the Fine Arts Commission authority over the design of private buildings near monumental public buildings and important parks, he felt it would be dangerous to give the commission authority over buildings near every Federal reservation in the city. Col. Grant told the commitee that changes had been made in the bill that would meet the objections of Senator Swanson. There is nothing extraordinary in the bill, he said, and he declared similar regulations had been promulgated in several cities including Philadelphia and Paris.

Edward Keating, editor of Labor, told the committee he was in favor of the bill. He said his company had been urged to provide an attractive exterior for its building near the Capitol, and he felt the owners of other buildings nearby should be treated in the same manner.

DALLINGER DENIES PLAZA LAND SUITS

Answers Wood's Objection to Razing Hotels for Government Women Workers.

Representative F. W. Dallinger, of Massachusetts, yesterday told the House that it was not true that there was any litigation pending in the purchase of the property between the Capitol and the Union Station.

Recently Dallinger objected to the appropriation for the Government hotels for women Government workers, which lie between the Capitol and Union Station. He said that the so-called "hotels" were a disgrace, and that the only way to abolish them was to stop the appropriation.

Representative Wood told Dallinger that the reason the Government didn't tear down the hotels and convert the area into a park was because several pieces of property in the area were still subject to suits in the court.

"Couldn't You Send This Room up Complete?"

Asked a visitor to the Seven Sample Rooms as soon as she saw one living room. She wanted not only the smart green furniture, but the same built-in book shelves, the fireplace, the lamps, the rug, the color of the walls. That's because these rooms have achieved so completely color harmony, comfort and fashion at moderate cost.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

DEAR MISS McDONALD: Replying to Happy Bride in yours of the 14th instant you are advised that I am a man of 45 and have been married twice.

My first wife and I were very happy together. In fact, I believe we lived a life of the truest happiness. We were such good "pals" that every one of our actions were as one. Just every pleasure or convenience she knew how to prepare for me kept me ever a real lover of her. Although she was not jealous I had no desires whatever to court other attention.

As her love and attention were ever so pronounced and outstanding that all others dwindled into insignificance.

As a housekeeper she was fully 100 per cent efficient and saving.

She was such a jollier and good mixer that we constantly attracted "real persons" of the highest type for our friends and in that way again we both profited to the mutual benefit of others. Everybody wanted to be our friends.

After four years of happiness she was very suddenly claimed by death, leaving me with our only child as a fond remembrance of our appreciated happiness. It has been my whole life's ambition to bring up and to properly educate this child she gave.

After I had somewhat recovered from the shock of losing my wife I married again—a widow.

She fully realized what my tastes were and tried to meet them just as my first wife. She made many explanations of this or that seeming shortcoming on her part, and without protest I have accepted all of her shortcomings, knowing she must accept mine.

After a fashion we live very happily, although there is not the chumminess there was with my first wife. We give in to each about 50-50.

We both have the very best habits and when I should happen to be on my high-horse she lets me ride, and when she needs anything she just gets it and tells me all about it.

We still enjoy our kisses and intend to, to the end. Now, Miss McDonald, could it be just luck that I should find myself twice married to fine, companionable, understanding women? I think it is just that people must realize that marriage entails intelligent consideration to be a success. Am I right?

HUSBAND

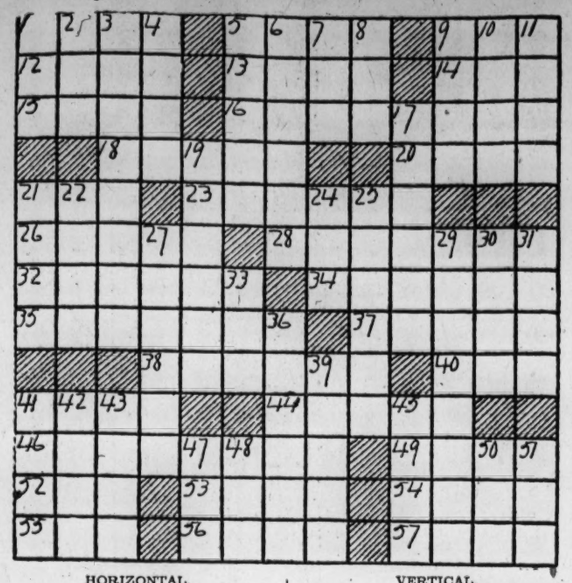

Absolutely right, Mr. Husband. Had your first wife married you and then tried to make you over into a fairly good imitation of some man she admired but who had failed to urge matrimony upon her, you would probably have been a typical fighting wild man at the end of six months.

And had you attempted to change her to some type she secretly despised, your memory of your four years together would hardly be the sacred thing it is today.

What we need in the world today is training for the youth in the art of marriage. We train them for every career but the one they must all follow in the end. And as fast as we marry them, we set them free—with a world of bitterness seething in their souls.

Happy marriages are not accidents—as your case proves.

SOLUTION OF PRECEDING PUZZLE

Mr. Work's Pointers
Contract Bridge

YESTERDAY I described a method of indicating a Spade-Heart two-suiter by an initial bid of two Diamonds, and a Diamond-Club two-suiter by a bid of two Clubs. In the first case, the response by partner would be two Spades or two Hearts to show a mere preference when weak in both suits; or three or more of either to show strength. In the latter case, two Diamonds would show Diamond preference; a pass, Club preference. Either would show that the hand lacked jumping strength, while a higher bid in either would be a jump in the suit named.

Using this scheme, two-suiters composed of one Major and one Minor would not be shown in this special manner; they would be shown more normally by an initial bid of one or possibly two of the Major and a subsequent showing of the Minor if an advantageous opportunity to do so appeared. With a Major-Minor two-suiter, two would be bid reluctantly and only with strength so great that bidding only one would invite the danger of stopping short of a game-going declaration. There are othe. schemes for conveying special information by utilizing the two-Minor bid; but none of them appears to be as satisfactory as the one above given.

The explanation of this system of bidding two suits has been given for the enlightenment of the reader; it is not endorsed by the author except as being effective, no other system seeming to produce such satisfactory results. But to any of these arbitrary conventional systems there are three serious objections: First, that they involve having a bid in one suit mean something in another; second, that purely being arbitrary they smack of private conventions; third, that their use may lead to other and less defensible conventions. But when considering possible objections upon ethical grounds, it must be conceded that if the above described system be unethical, then all doubles or bids which do not convey a plain and obvious meaning are similarly unethical; such a theory of ethics, carried to a logical conclusion, would bar fourth-best leads as well as the popular and useful informatory doubles.

Original three-bids in a Minor are generally understood to mean unusual length and strength in that Minor, and to ask for a jump without normal support for the Minor if the partner have side strength; that presumably being all that is needed to secure game with the Minor the trump. Minor three-bids are also supposed to urge the partner away from any other suit-bid unless he has extraordinary length and strength in the suit; and from a No Trump bid unless he has the other three suits thoroughly protected.

Next week, Contract articles will appear on Friday and Saturday.

The Homemaker

By NANCY CAREY

AS IS usually the case of a Saturday we must give our attention at once to the menus for the week-end and recipes which are to go toward their composition:

MENU FOR SATURDAY.
Beef Roll
Raw Fried Potatoes.
Vegetable Salad
Brown Betty
Tea

MENU FOR SUNDAY.
Potato Soup
Celery Pickled Peaches
Veal Pie
Parsnip Cakes
Creamed Spinach
Chilled Cheese Salad
Chocolate Custard
Nut Cakes Coffee

Our veal pie is so simple to construct that it will hardly require a real and tabulated recipe. Buy, if not too expensive, the cutlet, or next choice, a piece of round, and cut in small pieces. Braise the meat with a bit of butter in a hot pan, cover with water and simmer until meat is thoroughly tender. An onion may be added to the meat while simmering, and just before tender, about four or five minutes before, fresh mushrooms may be made ready, along with a piece of crust. Turn the meat and liquid into a casserole, add some cream, salt and pepper, some butter and the mushrooms and cover with the crust. Bake in a quick oven until the crust is cooked.

Parsnip Cakes.

Scrape parsnips clean and boil them until they are tender, with a little salt in the water. When they are tender drain them and mash them fine, removing any shreds that may be present. To a dozen good-sized parsnips add two well-beaten eggs, mix well together, add a little salt and pepper and sufficient flour to hold them together, but not more than just enough to handle. Shape into little round, flat cakes and fry in butter until both sides are a rich brown.

Chilled Cheese Salad.

3 small cream cheeses.
½ cupful chopped pecans.
2 chopped green peppers.
½ can pimentos, chopped.
½ cupful mayonnaise.
¼ cupful whipped cream.
1 tablespoonful olive oil.
1 tablespoonful salt.
Paprika.

Cream the cheese until it is smooth. Drain the juice from the pimentos and chop them. Stir them into the cheese. Add the other ingredients and fold in the cream lastly. Place in a mold and pack in the ice and salt for three hours. Slice and serve with mayonnaise on crisp lettuce leaves.

Nut Cake.

1 cupful melted butter.
2 cupfuls sugar.
½ cupful milk.
3 eggs.
3 cupfuls sifted flour.
1½ teaspoonfuls baking powder.
1 cupful walnuts broken in pieces.

To the butter add the sugar and cream to a smooth paste. Add the egg yolks first, well beaten, and the other ingredients in the usual manner—a little milk alternately with a little flour with which the baking powder has been sifted. When all are in, add the nuts sprinkled with a bit of flour and then fold in the egg whites. Bake in a moderate oven until the cake leaves the sides of the pan.

A St. Valentine Party for Children With Menus and Recipes.

BEAUTY AND YOU

REDUCING.

AND still the questions come in about how to reduce—thighs, hips, abdomen, bust, legs, ankles—these are always the troublesome too-fat spots. For reducing these particular spots there is nothing more effective than persistent and vigorous exercise. At the same time, of course, it is most essential that you eat sparingly of fattening foods, lest they add pounds that the exercise takes off. Here are the movements which are very beneficial, if followed faithfully. Cut them out and keep them for future use and for your worried friends.

Abdomen, Hips and Thighs.

1. Stand erect and grasp something solid, such as the foot-board of the bed or the back of a heavy chair, with the right hand. Swing the left foot slightly forward, at the same time flexing the opposite knee without breaking the movement, then bring the left foot up in a brisk kick. Repeat the exercise with the opposite leg.

2. Supporting yourself by resting one hand on something stationary, swing the opposite leg like a pendulum, forward and backward as high as possible. Turn and repeat with the opposite leg.

3. Sitting on the floor, spread the legs widely apart. Relax and roll the body forward from the hips, letting the outstretched hands extend straight in front along the floor. Let the head droop naturally while doing this.

4. Lying flat on the floor with the feet together, bring the feet up and try to touch them to the floor behind the head. Repeat with a rocking movement.

Bust.

1. Raise the right arm high above your head and swing it in a complete circle before you. Repeat with the left arm. Next, raise both arms, start the right arm to the right and the left arm to the left so that both arms are going in opposite directions simultaneously.

2. Raise the arms before you at shoulder level with the palms inward. Throw them vigorously as far to the back as possible. They must be kept at shoulder level.

3. Every morning, let cold water from an overhead shower or a bathtub spray run over the breasts for several minutes. Never massage this delicate part.

Legs and Ankles.

1. Standing erect, tense the muscles of the calves of the legs, then rise on tip toe. Hold a moment before slowly resuming first position.

2. Standing erect, turn the toes directly outward so that they form a straight line, and rest the hands lightly on some solid object for support. Bend the knees to a squatting position. Rise and repeat.

3. Squat down so that you are sitting on your heels. Extend first one foot forward as far as possible then the other, without losing your balance.

The exercises given above will answer S. S., Inez, and Peggy M. G.

Anxious: Follow the above exercises for improving your bust. A round full face is one of the signs of youth, so I would not do very much to change it, if I were you. Possibly your face may thin down just a bit if you lose the few pounds that you are overweight. Get plenty of exercise and eat wholesome but nonfattening foods, particularly avoiding sweets.

Dolores Marie: Your weight is just about right and I should advise you to keep it just where it is.

Bertha G.: The exercises given above for reducing the hips and thighs are also beneficial for reducing the buttocks. Rolling on the floor might help you, too.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertinent to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

MEDICAL SCHOOLS AND INDUSTRY

LET US hope that one or more university presidents will read this article. Lest they may be so fully occupied by studying the comic strips in order to explain them to their grandchildren, may we ask any professor whose attention strays this way to bring the following proposal to the notice of prexy.

The proposal is not mine, though I made a similar proposal to a medical faculty nearly ten years ago but without result. Perhaps present-day professors have more winning ways.

This proposal comes from Dr. W. A. Sawyer, of the Eastman company. It is that medical colleges affiliate great industrial establishments just as they now affiliate great hospitals. He would have each medical school establish a department of physiologic living. (I presume he would not object if this department was called the department of hygiene.) This department would teach by the clinical method. The clinical material would be supplied by the affiliated industrial establishments.

The department would have two great duties. One would be teaching. It would teach well men how to keep well. Dr. Sawyer says physicians know very little about good health habits, and, at that, they practice less than they preach. He would have every doctor trained in personal hygiene. Furthermore, he would have him begin as a teacher of his clients by setting them examples.

The second function of this department would be to take care of the health, in all of its phases, of the thousands of men and women working in the affiliated industry. Incidentally the truth or error of some of our rules of hygiene could be given trial in this great body of employes. The facts disclosed by this investigation would be passed on to the public just as the results of laboratory and clinical research in other fields are made available.

In such an institution the effects of ventilation, heating, lighting, fatigue, rest periods, eating habits, sleeping habits, drinking, smoking, and many other influences could be investigated and rules based upon controlled observation could be worked out. This could be done in such a way as not to interfere with production. In fact, it may even increase production.

Dr. Sawyer knows what he is taking about. He has been in his present work for years. He and his associates see the 10,000 employes on an average of 100,000 times a year, about ten contracts yearly for each employe.

HARDENING OF ARTERIES.

A. B. C. writes: 1. Will you kindly tell me the name for hardening of the arteries?

2. Is there a cure for it?

3. What are the first symptoms?

4. Is arthritis anything like it?

REPLY.

1. Arterio sclerosis and atheroma of the vessels and high blood pressure are terms that are more or less synonymous with hardening of the arteries. The meaning of the last two differs somewhat from that of hardening.

2. If by cure you mean, "Can arteries be made young again?" the answer is, "No."

3. Among the early symptoms is high blood pressure.

4. No. Arthritis is a disease of a joint.

WANTS BLONDE BABY.

Mother writes: My little girl, who is now 2 years and 9 months old, was born a perfect blonde. Her blue eyes turned darker and are now nearly brown. Her blonde curls, which are fine as silk, are gradually getting darker. My husband and I are both brunettes, although he had blonde curls until 5 years of age, when his hair turned dark. It is now black. Mine is dark brown. Is there anything I can do to retain the baby's gorgeous blonde hair? Some people have suggested rinsing her hair with lemon juice. Do you consider this good, and is it harmful? If not, how much should I use?

REPLY.

There is nothing you can do that you should do.

You are not justified in bleaching or dyeing a baby's hair.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

ANOTHER FAILURE IN LATIN.

Time was I studied Latin, but that was years ago.
I thought I knew my Caesar — my teachers told me so,
But now the nouns are missing, and all the verbs are dim.
Bud's lost in Aquitania and I can't rescue him!

I heard his call for succor; I heard his plea for aid—
"I'm stuck! I'm stuck!" he shouted.
A dash to him I made.
His eyes were sad and troubled, his plight was plain to see.
"O dad," he cried in anguish, "translate th' line for me!"

And I who studied Latin full thirty years ago
Sat down with him and pondered the stuff I ought to know;
But all in vain I struggled to set that youngster free,
For where the lad had stranded was much too deep for me.

Oh! Had I mastered Latin, as now I wish I had,
When came his call for succor, I could have helped the lad,
But being young, for Caesar I saw no use at all,
And so I had to leave him still floundering in Gaul.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

By ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.

The Parent Counselor

Dr. Dean will answer all signed letters pertaining to parents' problems with their boys and girls. Writers' names are never printed. Only questions of general interest answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Arthur Dean, in care of this paper.

Wet Wash.

TODAY we will take a look at some of the contents of the mail bag that seldom creep into this column.

A youth, signing his letter "Sixteen," desiring to indirectly take unwarranted slam at his father through this column, closes his communication with: "Be sure to sign it just 'Sixteen' so he won't know I sent it. He reads your column every night and this letter will have a good effect on him."

Another youth whose motive is all right but whose tactics are all wrong says: I can not get the old man to send me to college. Please write an article on the value of an education. He reads your column every day and usually winds it up with, 'Huh!' Give the old boy a scorcher that will make him wake up!

This letter is signed "Collegiate."

Grown persons, too, sometimes strive to take a wallop at a neighbor through this department by suggesting that I write about some situation next door that doesn't please them.

Human relationship is a proper subject for this department but we can not wash the soiled linen hanging on the boundary line between parents and children or between neighbors. It is not the province of this department. In the cases above I have written these correspondents without attempting to solve the particular problems they present, but rather with the thought of correcting their point of view.

Intertwined with another letter which is a bit out-of-bounds there is an excellent thought never before developed in this department, so let's consider that section of an otherwise "wet wash" letter. Here it is:

"If they (the neighbors) want to go out in the evening they simply put their children to bed and disappear until 11 or 12 o'clock. This happens time and again. They 'pooh-pooh' any suggestion that any emergency such as illness, fire or burglars might arise to menace the sleeping children."

Folks, there is a point that is well made. These possibilities are real. This thrust goes pretty close to home. Only the other afternoon I had my office floor painted with a quick-drying preparation. This done, I tied my dog Pry, to a filing cabinet where he would be out of reach of the paint. The papers used in the painting had been thrown into the fireplace in which there was apparently no fire. After opening the windows and locking the door, I went out on the street leaving the varnish to dry. Why I returned earlier than I expected, I do not know. Intuition, perhaps. The first thing that greeted my eye as I turned the corner was smoke pouring out of the windows of the building. I rushed in and saw two things—a fire raging over, under and around the mantel—and a tied, and, therefore, helpless dog.

I have a letter from another reader bearing on this question:

"The neighbors heard the dog bark furiously. At first they paid no attention. Then the reflection of a light against the wall brought them to the window. The house next door was afire! 'Where are their children?' I asked my husband, adding: 'I remember Mr. and Mrs. ——— say they were going out for the evening.' My husband rushed over while I telephoned the fire department . . . The children, a boy of 5 and a baby of 2, were saved. The house was destroyed."

Readers, there was a happy ending to what might have been a tragic story. Fathers and mothers need to go out together in the evenings. We all grant that. Every one needs some recreation. But parents, it should never be had at the risk of paying so terrible a price. Surely every one can find a neighbor or high school boy or girl—some one to stay with the children while the parents are away. They should never be left alone.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.

Problems of Youth.

Many girls and boys are writing to me about their emotional problems. And they are very welcome. To help others I have prepared some helplets which girls and boys may have if they underscore the one needed and include with the clipping a stamped, addressed envelope to Dr. Arthur Dean in care of this newspaper. Here are the titles: "The Kind of Boys Girls Admire," "The Kind of Girls Boys Admire," "Which Girl Boys Choose," "Which Boy Girls Choose," "Should a Young Girl Have a Beau," "The Kind of Girl Friends to Select."

When We Were Four.

When a fellow takes a girl to supper, is it correct for him to take the meat from the platter, put it on her plate and cut it up? RUTH.

Answer—You do not give your age, my young friend, but from your handwriting I should judge you were 14 and beyond the stage where either papa, or a gentleman friend, needs to cut up your meat. Either may very properly serve you from the platter.

Stone Upon Stone.

When a boy tries, don't you think he should be passed to a higher grade, regardless of his marks? MOTHER.

Answer—The scale in which your boy is weighed uses studies for balance. "Trying hard," called "application" is marked on one of these balancing weights. But there are necessarily other considerations. It would be an injustice to your boy and impose an impossible handicap upon him were his teacher to advance him to work more difficult than he has failed to master. You see, mother, grades are building stones through which youth builds a structure of knowledge. If one stone is weak the whole collapses.

© VOGUE

DEAR Claribel—I wonder if in New York belts are as important as they are here. Almost everything has a belt of some kind, and, if they are not fashioned of the same material as the frock, they are added as smart accessories. Often an entire costume owes its chic to the belt that is worn with it.

I have sketched for you several different kinds of smart belts that I have seen recently on various occasions.

The first one at the top of the page is made of diamond cut strass joined with silver wire and fastened with a strass buckle. The second belt, which is very like the first, is also of trass and may be used on the same type of afternoon frock. I have seen both belts worn with chiffon dresses and they are especially lovely when they are used with black.

The third belt is a charming and practical affair of gold and silver metal scales mounted on an elastic and fastened with a gold metal buckle. It is ideal for the new jersey overblouses that are so popular for sports wear and its elasticity makes it practical for all types of figures.

The fourth belt is of kid and is also suitable for sports clothes. It has that strictly tailored look which is so smart at present, and the buckle of gold rings and silver rectangles made Madame de Tourneville's simple two-piece jersey dress a thing of surpassing smartness.

The fifth and last belt is of beige suede edged with a nickel buckle. I noticed it the other day in one of the little shops in the rue St. Honore and liked it so well I sketched it for you.

Love, EVE.

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON

HOW POLITE ARE YOU?

A YOUNG girl rather shocks me by writing to know if she has to ask an old aunt and uncle to her marriage. She says they have always been very good to her and at one time she made her home with them, but that for the last few years she has been living with her married sister, who is giving her her wedding reception. The sister (very properly) thinks the aunt and uncle should be asked. The bride-to-be is evidently under the impression that he old relatives will not add to the festivity of the occasion.

Now, I've been young myself and I haven't quite forgotten what youth feels like. I know its a crude, snobbish, selfish time to a great many of us, alas! I dare say I might have said to my mother: "Oh, must we have such and such old relatives at the house? I do want to keep the reception small and gay." But I had the greatest affection for my aunts, and if I had lived under the roof of one of them for any time at all, I should have felt that I owed her almost a mother's place at my wedding. Even if I had lived with her reluctantly and not cared much for her, family pride and natural politeness would not have permitted me to leave her out.

How polite we are in our everyday treatment of such situations is a very good key to character. I make use of the subway or surface cars daily, and I constantly see girls pushing elderly women aside to get in or out of the cars. I grant them that a fat, slow, old woman with a bundle, or a thin old one with two heavy bags, is a great impediment to traffic. I've made exasperated faces behind their backs myself. But think how much more unpleasant we'd find it to be either a fat old woman with a bundle or a thin one with two bags. Don't let's push them, poor things. Don't let us keep them out of their seats, or out of any little bit of gayety—like a niece's wedding—that may come their way. Be polite from the heart out, if you can. But, anyhow, be polite.

Warm Water Trout Sought by Science

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The science of fish culture is extending a helpful hand to the sport of fishing.

Aquiculturists at Cornell University are seeking a warm-water brook trout. When and if they develop it the number of streams that can be populated with these cold-water game fish will be doubled.

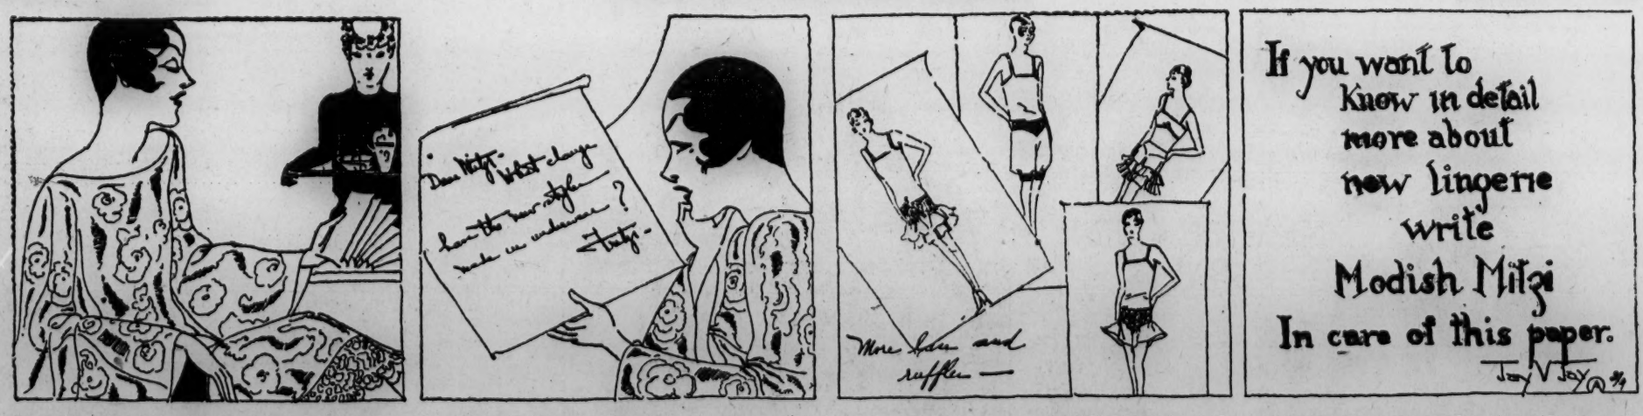

As every angler knows, the trout likes a chilly element, but the fish Cornell scientists are after would live in water at 85 degr Fahrenhtit, which is the approximate summer temperature of many streams. Experiments have shown that some trout can be kept for brief intervals in water as warm as 75 to 80 degrees. The aquiculturists hope that from such individuals they will be able to breed the fish they seek.

Long-Horn Cattle Join Buffalo in Preserve

Kerrville, Tex., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Eleven Longhorn cattle, remnants of the Texas herds which have long been vanishing before the Hereford breed, are now in L. A. Schreiner's game preserve, which also contains remnants of another vanishing herd—the buffaloes.

Schreiner, a banker, made a diligent search of Texas ranches to get Longhorn cattle of the purest strain. His preserve of 3,000 acres is stocked also with antelope, turkeys and pheasants.

MODISH MITZI — New Frocks Mean New Lingerie — By Jay V. Jay

Mitzi will have her mail with her breakfast. Dozens of letters. Dozens of people wanting to know about styles. Mitzi's negligee is a printed chiffon trimmed with a ruffle of metal lace around the hem, and Mitzi doesn't know which she is going to enjoy the most—wearing her new negligee, eating her breakfast or answering her voluminous correspondence.

Fritzi is writing to ask what changes the new styles have made in underwear. Fritzi is a clever girl and knows that when the silhouettes of frocks change the outlines of underwear do the same thing. There were a lot of inquiries about lingerie this morning and Mitzi thinks she'll write about that. It's an interesting subject just now.

New lingerie is so much frillier than it used to be. There's much more lace and there are uncounted numbers of ruffles and tucks and pleatings. There are new materials and new colors. These sketches show how underwear flares below the waist, following the new skirt line and how it is fitted trimly about the waist and hips. Lace and embroidery are usual.

In fact, there's so much to be said about underwear that Mitzi is going to write a whole letter about it. There isn't space here to tell you all the clever ideas the new season has brought. If you want to know what Mitzi has to say about lingerie write her in care of this paper, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and her letter will be sent to you at once. She'd love to have you!

LATE WAVE OF SELLING SENDS PRICES TOPPLING

All Groups of Stocks Show Losses in Highly Irregular Trading.

FEW SHARES HOLD GAINS

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Feb. 3.—Irregularity in stocks and higher money rates today followed the increase late yesterday in the New York Federal Reserve Bank's discount rate. The call money rate held at 4¼ per cent, but time money was up ⅛ to ¼, bankers' acceptances and commercial paper conforming to the higher level of discounts.

Stocks generally moved lower in an active market in which the day's turnover was slightly under 2,700,000 shares. Losses on the day extended to 8 points, recessions occurring in all divisions. A number of individual stocks moved strongly against the trend at times, and 32 new high price levels for the year or more were recorded. Only a few, however, held their gains to the close.

The opening was irregular and weak. After the first selling orders had been absorbed, however, there was a smart pick-up among the active leaders to a point just below yesterday's closing levels. At this point selling again made its appearance, but this likewise was well taken. In midafternoon the volume of dealings fell off materially, the rank and file of traders apparently deciding to take a rest until a definite trend had been established. Just before the close another strong selling wave hit the market and drove prices in many cases to their lowest levels of the day.

The raising of the Federal Reserve discount rate came as a shock to many traders, although previous events had indicated that such a move would be made very soon. In the opinion of conservative bankers the reserve banks are putting the country on a normal credit basis.

Much extra credit was injected into the market last summer and fall, partly as a measure designed to stimulate declining domestic trade and partly as an aid to the international situation. Money rates thus were kept low at a season when, without Federal reserve action, they normally would have risen considerably. At the present time there is no need for the extra credit, and, if withdrawn now, it will be available next year. Much of it, of course, was used for stock-market purposes, and logically the stock market may be expected to return something.

Nothing has happened to threaten the stability of investments, for money is plentiful and the industrial situation is sound. But, on the other hand, a rise in the discount rate scarcely is a bullish development in so far as speculative stocks are concerned. In some quarters it was held today that last wek's rise of $27,000,000 in brokers loans, coming in face of apparent efforts of the Reserve Bank to discourage further absorption of credit in speculative activities, hastened the rate rise here. The weekly trade reports were cheerful as to the general industrial situation, and especially regarding the steel industry.

United States Steel common resisted selling pressure in the early trading and even gained some ground, but gave way in the final hour and quit with a net loss of 3⅜. Several of the independent steels also stood up well until the final hour, when they yielded in a small way. Vanadium moved firmly against the general trend in active trading, opening at 75½, moving to a new high, at 82¾, then selling off to close at 79¼ up 2⅜ net.

General Motors opened off at 133¾, advanced 2 points, floundered around for a time and closed at 133⅞, down 1⅞ net. Mack Trucks lost 2¼ on the day; Hudson, 4½; Hupp, 1¼; Packard, 1⅝; Chrysler, 1; White, 1¾; Nash, 1¼, and others fractionally.

Many of the rails resisted selling pressure, some of them closing at or slightly above yesterday's last prices, but the main body of the carriers lost on the day, net recessions extending to 4¾ points.

Among the utilities, Montana Power was the weakest, losing 8 points net, while losses by other members of the group usually were under 2 points. Detroit Edison established a new high and gained 4 points net.

Outstanding losers on the day included Greene Copper, 5 points; American Smelting, 2¼; Commercial Solvents, 3½; Christie Brown, 4⅞; Beechnut Packing, 3¾; American Hide preferred, 3½; Du Pont, 3¼; Freeport Texas, 5¾; Gold Dust, 3⅞; Goodrich, 2⅜; Houston Oil, 4; International Harvester, 5; International Match preferred, 4½; International Nickel, 2⅞; Midland Steel Products preferred, 5⅞; Union Tank Car, 5; Warren Brothers, 5; National Biscuit, 7, and others. Adams Express gained 15 points net on a small turnover.

As a consequence of the bank rate advance here, sterling declined ⅛; Dutch exchange was adjusted by a 4 point drop, and declines occurred also in Belgian, French, Italian and German rates. Scandinavians were slightly lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Better export call for corn, with the export trading basis stronger and no pressure of offerings, gave an evident upward trend to corn values today. On the other hand wheat was easier, Argentine shipments increasing.

Corn closed firm ⅛ to ½c net higher, wheat unchanged to ¼@⅜c off, oats a shade to ¼c up, and provisions 7 to 17 cents down.

Hesitancy which the corn market showed at the start gave way in quick order to a display of buying power and to indications that corn export business today would at least be upward of 200,000 bushels. Meanwhile, it was current talk that other export purchasing had been done, either at the Gulf of Mexico or the Atlantic seaboard. Furthermore, country offerings and consignments were small, despite auspicious weather and notwithstanding that this is the time for the peak of the winter movement of the domestic crop.

Particular notice was taken today of assertions by trade experts that the movement of corn from farmers' hands is now decreasing rapidly in Illinois, where a large part of Chicago arrivals of corn have come from of late. It was also pointed out that Europe this season is short of corn until the new Argentine crop is available.

A good deal of attention was likewise given to renewed assertions that the official report on domestic corn yield is a decided overestimate and that commercial demand at present for corn is the best since the war. Profit taking sales increased, however, on all the bulges, and kept advances in check.

In the wheat market persistent weakness of Liverpool quotations together with larger shipments from Argentine than either last week or a year ago outweighed the influence both of continued dry weather in winter wheat sections, Southwest, and of winter killing in the central West. Besides, no export business in wheat from North America was heard of today. Oats were responsive to improved cash demand.

Scattered selling pulled provisions lower.

OIL QUOTATIONS.

Oil City, Pa., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Credit balance, $2.65; runs, 61,884; average runs, 43,055; shipments, 56,788; average shipments, 47,514.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Early advances of $1 to $1.50 a bale where partially lost in the cotton market today. May contracts selling off from 17.45 to 17.17 and closing at 17.30. The general market closed barely steady at net advances of 15 to 22 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 23 to 30 points, active months selling about 25 to 35 points above yesterday's closing quotations on brisk covering, coupled with trade buying and commission house support. Buying appeared to be inspired by unexpectedly firm Liverpool cables, with bullish comment on reports that a prominent Eastern belt firm had made a survey pointing to a comparatively small increase in acreage.

March sold up to 17.25 and October to 17.30 on this early advance, but demand was supplied by renewed liquidation, and the market later eased off under pressure, supplemented by Southern and local selling reports of better prospects for rain in parts of west Texas may have accounted for some of the selling, while opinion was expressed in some quarters that there was further cotton to be liquidated in the South.

March broke to 17.00 and October to 17.05 during midafternoon, which took prices back within 3 to 8 points of the early low level, but there was another spurt of covering toward the close, last prices showing rallies of 12 or 14 points from the lowest.

Private cables attributed the relatively firm showing of Liverpool to trade calling, covering and continental buying, with less selling pressure in that market. Some local traders took the view that the firmness abroad might foreshadow a favorable turn in the Lancashire labor situation, but there were rumors during the afternoon that the conference between spinners and employes had adjourned without reaching any agreement. Reports of some additional mill curtailment in New England may have contributed to the midday reaction. Cable advices said cloth business with India in Manchester was restricted, buyers holding off pending more stable prices and yarns pressed for sale.

Exports today, 55,388, making 4,732,244 so far this season. Port receipts, 24,272; U. S. port stocks, 2,291,762.

American Radiator Co.

For many years the American Radiator Co. has occupied a commanding position in its field of operations, being considered the largest manufacturer of radiators, boilers and other heating apparatus and appliances. The company has plants in Canada and seven European countries, including England, which supplement the operating units in the United States. European sales in 1926 were estimated as equal to about 40 per cent of the American tonnage.

BONDS REACT SLIGHTLY IN BROADENED TRADING

Treasury 3¾s Regain Part of Early Losses—Traction Issues Advance.

OTHER UTILITIES EASIER

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Slightly lower bond prices today followed the advance of the Federal Reserve rediscount rate from 3½ to 4 per cent. The selling movement embraced a long list of issues, and the volume of business was somewhat larger than the daily average. Time money rates were unchanged, but banker's acceptances were a trifle higher.

Government bonds, regarded as a good index of the market as a whole, showed easing tendencies, although losses were limited to small fractions. Treasury 3¾s, which lost more than than ¼ point in the early dealings, made up all but 1/32 of the decline. Sales of Government issues aggregated more than $500,000.

New York traction mortgages continued to move forward under the stimulus of the movement for increased fares, but other public utilities were easy. Further seeking out of ordinarily inactive issues was in progress, resulting in advances of a point or so in American Beet Sugar 6s, Dery Dry Goods 7s, North American Cement 6½s and a few others. Hoe & Co. 6½s, however, lost all their 2-point gain of yesterday.

Railroad liens followed a mixed trend. Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s were bought in rather large amounts, but material recessions were recorded by Seaboard 5s and 4s, Denver & Rio Grande Wester 4s, Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s and a few others.

Some of the Argentine securities responded to prompt oversubscription of the new $20,000,000 issue, but irregularity characterized the foreign group as a whole. Trading covered a long list of bonds, but the aggregate volume of business was not unusually large.

STOCK EXCHANGE TRADING IS MOST ACTIVE IN WEEK

Several Issues, Including Sanitary Grocery, Reach New High Levels.

BANKS' CLEARINGS HIGH

By F. W. PATTERSON.

Trading on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday was more active than in previous sessions of the week, with several issues advancing to new high levels.

Capital Traction continued to be the most active of the street railway stocks but failed to maintain the peak reached on Thursday, and 100 shares sold in three lots at 114⅞, just ⅛ below the closing price of the day before. Washington Railway & Electric preferred, which sold up to 103¼ the preceding day, sold in a single odd lot at 103, while Potomac Electric Power 5½s perferred changed hands at 108¼.

Sanitary Grocery preferred stepped up to a new high, advancing from 105¾ on opening sale to 106 on a turnover of 40 shares. Another stock going to a new peak was Washington Loan & Trust Co., and coming out for the first time in the new year started at 506, 5 points better than close of 1927, while final sale was recorded at 507. Still another listing going into new high ground for 1928 was National Mortgage & Investment preferred, with 50 shares changing hands at 5¾.

Columbia Sand & Gravel preferred was in greater demand than for several weeks and accomplished a ¼-point advance to 104¼ on sales of 85 shares made in nine lots. Washington Gas Light maintained its 1928 high with a small lot selling at 86⅛. American Security & Trust was firm at 450. Barber & Ross, Inc., common sold unchanged at 34, while a small lot of Lanston Monotype moved at 108¼.

Trading on the bond side of the market was limited to sales in Washington Railway & Electric 4s at 92¼; Wardman Park Hotel 5½s at 96½, and Washington Gas Light 6s, series "A," which sold at 106.

Bank Clearings Break Record

Bank clearings in 127 cities for January, broke all records for the month, and were, in fact, second only to those of December, 1927. Very much the same showing is made by bank debits for the elapsed weeks of the year, which taken in conjunction with the fact that January stock market dealings were the second largest on record, is fairly good evidence that both clearings and debits in January, as in the greater part of 1927, were reflective of active speculative or financial transactions, rather than of activity in trade or industry, for which neither the month nor year were especially notable.

The total clearings for January were $50,777,418,000, which marked a decrease of 1.9 per cent from December, but were 14.2 per cent in advance of those in January a year ago and 8.2 per cent in excess of those of January, 1926, a compilation by Bradstreet's shows. Most of the total gain shown over January one or two years ago was recorded at New York, where the clearings totaled $31,043,000,000, which marked a decrease of 2.7 per cent from those of December, but were 21.4 per cent larger than in January, 1927, and 14.5 per cent in excess of January, 1926. On the other hand, the clearings at 126 cities outside of New York were $19,733,938,000, a decrease of seven-tenths of 1 per cent from December, 1927, while only 4.4 per cent above January, 1928.

Five out of seven groups of cities show gains in clearings over January last year, the two exceptions being the Southern and Southwestern cities, which in 1927 showed decreases, in the one case, in eleven out of twelve months, and, in the other, in six out of twelve of these periods.

Randall, who has had many years experinece in the surety bond and insurance business, is president of the agency, and associated with him as manager will be Llewellyn Jordan, former chief of the surety bond section of the Treasury Department.

Roberts Named Partner.

Harris, Mooney & Co., investment bankers, of Baltimore and Washington, announced yesterday the admission of Arthur S. Roberts to general partnership.

Good Realty Future Seen.

That the future of Washington in the real estate field is full of promise and that whatever checks have hampered recent development have been removed through the passing of the period of careless speculation, is the belief of Edmund D. Rheem, vice president of Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey, one of the oldest mortgage banking houses in Washington.

"The period of careless speculation is over," said Rheem, "and in its place is business which is sound, based on sound security and a safe, optimistic future. From present indications, this year will be one of good business, carefully planned, expertly executed and perfectly managed."

$2,750,000 in Western Power.

Offering of $2,750,000 Western Power Light & Telephone Co., first lien collateral 20-year 6 per cent gold bonds, series "A," is expected early next week through A. B. Leach & Co., Inc., and Porter Fox & Co., Inc. The company owns and operates through subsidiaries a group of public utility properties in Kansas and Oklahoma and is now acquiring additional subsidiaries with properties in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Present subsidiaries and those to be acquired supply 83 communities with one or more classes of utility service. Electric light and power are furnished in 24, water in 1, and telephone service in 62 communities. Electric power is also supplied wholesale to five communities.

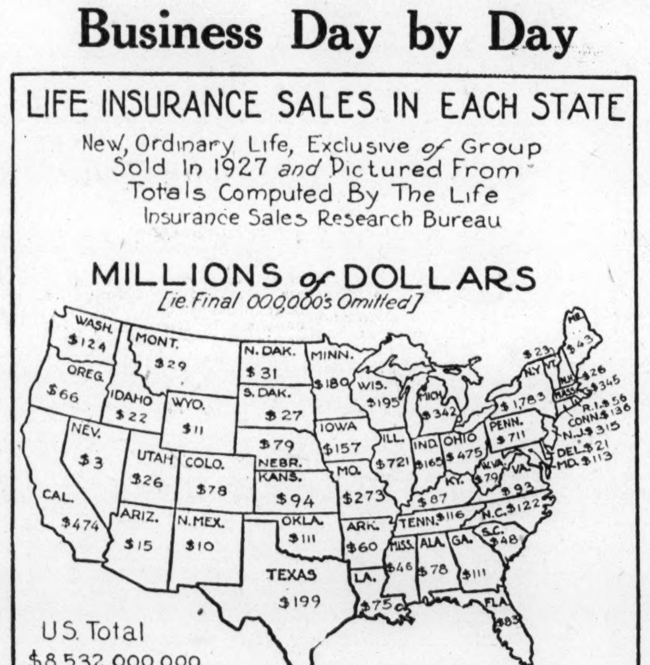

Decision on Estates.

In a decision of great importance to executors and administrators throughout the country, Judge Thatcher, Federal district judge for the Southern District of New York, has held that the gain or loss on the sale of property of an estate by an executor or an administrator should be determined by using as a basis the value of the property at the date of the decedent's death.

Although the case involved a tax of only $26.40, it is estimated the decision will affect payments of taxes aggregating millions of dollars.

The suit which led to the decision was instituted by Bankers Trust Co. of New York City, as executor of the estate of one of its clients. The purpose of the suit was to establish the correct method of determining gain or loss on the sale of property of an estate by the executor or administrator. Prior to April 6, 1927, the regulations of the Treasury Department provided that in determining gain or loss upon the sale of property forming part of the decedent's estate, the value of the property at the death of the decedent should be used as a basis. On that date the regulations applicable to the present income tax law and to the income tax laws of 1924, 1921 and 1918 were changed and the cost to the decedent was prescribed as the basis for determining gain or loss on such sales. The Treasury Department has not yet indicated whether the decision will be appealed.

Business Day by Day

Sales of ordinary life insurance, exclusive of group insurance, in the United States in 1927 totaled approximately $8,532,000,000, according to reports to the Life Insurance Sales Research Bureau from companies which, on January 1, held 90 per cent of the insurance in force in the entire country. This was an increase of 1 per cent by comparison with the total sales for the preceding year.

Sales of life insurance measure the financial condition of the great mass of residents of the United States, insurance men explain.

Increases in sales in 1927 by comparison with 1926, were recorded in 29 States. In the remaining nineteen States, the 1927 sales were below those for 1926.

New York bought $1,783,000,000 worth of new insurance in 1927, or more than any other State. Illinois ranks second with purchases totaling $720,000,000, while Pennsylvania is third with a total of $711,000,000.

California is fourth with a total purchase of $474,000,000. Purchases of some other States were as follows: Massachusetts, $345,000,000; New Jersey, $315,000,000; Ohio, $475,000,000; Indiana, $165,000,000; Michigan, $342,000,000; Wisconsin, $195,000,000; Minnesota, $180,000,000; Iowa, $157,000,000.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Rumors of a possible merger of International Business Machines Corporation with other concerns brought from Thomas J. Watson, president, the statement that there was nothing of that sort under consideration. "Our company has all that we need," he asserted.

Officials of the Seaboard Air Line Railway report that passenger business to Florida and the Carolinas is unusually heavy, with indications of a large tourist trade the rest of the season. The outlook for a heavy movement of citrus fruits, vegetables and other products is considered favorable.

Chicago dispatches to Wall street say the expected split up of National Tea Co. common stock from present indications will not materialize for some time, possibly not for another year.

The preliminary report of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic for 1927 shows a deficit of $269,736, against a deficit of $428,290 in 1926.

Jerome J. Hanauer, partner in the banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who has been occupied for several years with the reorganization of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Co., will sail tomorrow on the Olympic with Mrs Hanauer. Approval of the road's reorganization by the Interstate Commerce Commission gave Mr. Hanauer an opportunity for his first real holiday in a long time.

G. M. Williams, president of Marmon Motor Car Co., reports January output of 1,850 cars, with February scheduled for 2,900.

Earnings of Amalgamated Leather Co. for 1927 are expected to be smaller than the year before, when net was $800,689, or $16.01 a share on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred, on which no dividends have been paid since October, 1920. The street hears it is possible the company may reorganize its capital structure before the end of the year, eliminating arrears on the preferred.

Reports of the financial district that preferred stock of the Radio Corporation, of which there are 395,597 shares, $50 par, may be retired is considered unlikely by those conversant with the company's affairs. The company has a large volume of orders on hand and is keeping a comfortable inventory situation. The annual report is expected to show about $6 a share on 1,155,400 shares.

Raw silk in storage on February 1 amounted to 47,528 bales, against 33,540 on January 1, the Silk Association of America reports. Imports in January were 46,403 bales, the total amount available during the month reaching 99,948 bales. Approximate deliveries to American mills during January were 52,420 bales.

The Chesapeake & Ohio stockholders' protective committee, headed by George S. Kemp, of Richmond, Va., today issued a statement criticizing the management for its investment of $22,538,391 in stock of the Erie Railroad. The committee contends that this sum invested in improvements would have resulted in savings of approximately $1,000,000, which could have been added to the road's 1927 net income.

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The curb market followed the "big board" over the bumps today, opening weak with an accumulation of selling orders, rallying a bit and then closing off under liquidation influenced by the increase in the Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate. While a few industrial specialties resisted selling sufficiently to hold their ground, or under the inspiration of buying encouraged by favorable trade developments moved up a bit, the general trend of the industrials as well as other groups, was downward at the close.

The decline was marked in the utilities, where a continued advance over the past two weeks was checked by a selling movement that carried American Light & Traction down 7 points net, Electric Bond & Share and Middle Western Utilities down nearly 4 points each and forced Northern Ohio Power, Northern States Power, Lehigh Power Securities and other leaders to lower ground. National Public Service A was the exception, rising a point on the day to a new high at 27½.

American Rolling Mills, Bancitaly, General Baking, Lehigh Coal, and other favorites closed lower. Melville Shoe dropped 5 points, Niles Bement Pond was down 3 and Tubize Art Silk lost 13 in the selling movement following the rally which had carried them to higher levels. Their strength apparently was transferred to such issues as Shawinigan, which remained at a high of 95¾ for a net gain of more than 10 points. Celanese and Deere & Co., up 3 points each, and Safeway Stores, which gained about 5 ponts.

Vacuum Oil led the oils and pipe lines downward in the slump from which few recovered, although losses with the exception of Vacuum's 2¾-point drop, were within narrow limits. The mines similarly were off, following the lead of New Mont, down about 5 on the day.

JUSTICE F. WINS $50,000 STAKE IN STRETCH DUEL

Roanoke Easy For Hilltop Quintet

Varsity Shares Honors With Substitutes in 62-21 Victory.

Virginia Team Trails at Half, 25-8; Rutherford Stars.

By ORREL MITCHELL.

FUNCTIONIING with machinelike precision and rapidity, the Georgetown University Basketball Team buried the Roanoke College Quintet, of Roanoke, Va., under a 62-21 score in their game last night at the Arcadia.

Only in the early stages, while the Hilltoppers were getting started, did last night's exhibition resemble a contest in any way. As the game progressed the opposition drew weaker and weaker under the relentless scoring drive of the Georgetown Five, which virtually scored at will.

Given an opportunity to display their ability for the first time, the Hilltop second-stringers offered the tired visiting players little respite, and the monotonous scoring grind continued until the final gun ended the rampage, incidentally waking up many of the spectators who had drowsed into a quiet slumber during the game.

In their overwhelming victory, the short-passing attack of the Hilltoppers was very much in evidence. Combining a criss-cross passing game with fast dribbling, the Georgetown players worked the ball right into the net for easy baskets. Dutton, Mesmer, Dunne and Meenan were prominent figures in the rampage.

Starting off with a rush, the Hilltoppers counted 12 points before Rutherford put the Roanoke Team in the scoring column, and thus throughout the entire game, except for occasional interruptions, when a substitute was sent in or Roanoke made a basket, Georgetown's score clicked with clock-like motion.

At half-time the score was 25 to 8. Rutherford, under the circumstaces, played a fine game for the Roanoke Team, breaking through the Hilltop defense for 4 field goals.

FRIENDS LAY JENNINGS TO REST

Final Homage Is Paid to Famous Figure of Baseball.

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Hughey Jennings, for nearly forty years a colorful figure in baseball was borne to his last resting place today in the bleakness of the snow-covered Pocono Mountains, in the country which he had learned to love so well during the last two years of his life.

The famous "e-e-yah," who was an outstanding character in the National game from 1891 until a nervous breakdown forced him into retirement at the end of the 1925 season, was buried this morning in St. Catherine's Cemetery, Moscow, while those who knew him intimately as neighbor and citizen and those who knew him as the fiery baseball leader, stood around the graveside paying him final homage.

At St. Peter's Cathedral solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by the Rev. C. A. McHugh, pastor of St. Mary of the Mount Catholic Church at Mount Pocono, who had ben Hughey's counsellor and consoler during the two years of retirement there.

Men high in baseball, those who had played with and under Hughey, were in attendance. The town of Moosic, where he was born, and where he got his start on the sandlots, sent its citizens to the services, and Lehighton, the little town where Jennings first played semiprofessional ball in 1890, had its delegation on hand.

Mike McNally, former Yankee star, and, like Hughey, a product of the Lackawanna Valley, was one of those who represented baseball on the list of honorary pallbearers.

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Out of respect to the memory of Hughey Jennings, the National League magnates adjourned their business meeting here today earlier than usual. Many of the baseball men were visibly affected in discusisng the passing of their former comrade.

Terris and McLarnin Must Post $2,500

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The New York State Athletic Commission today ordered Sid Terris, New York lightweight contender, and Jimmy McLarnin, Los Angeles star, to post $2,500 appearance forfeits for their bout at Madison Square Garden February 24.

The checks must be posted with the commission ten days before the fight, which will determine the logical contender for Sammy Mandell's crown. The forfeits also are demanded to insure both fighters weighing in at 135 pounds, the class limit, on the day of the fight.

The commission announced that $2,500 forfeits had been posted by Benny Bass, Philadelphia, and Tony Canzoneri, New York, for their featherweight title match at the Garden February 10.

Lomski Beats McTigue in 10 Rounds

Veteran, Target From Start, Saves Self From Knockout.

Coast Contender Rains Barrage of Punches at Ex-Champion.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The comeback cruise of Michael McTigue, perennial challenger and sometimes champion in the light-heavyweight division, was halted tonight by the youthful Leo Lomski, iron-fisted blond slugger from Aberdeen, Wash.

For ten rounds, the tireless punching youngster threw everything he had at McTigue in an effort to bring the ancient of the prize ring down. The veteran wobbled, skidded, danced and parried, and although blood streamed from gashes above his eyes and his legs were stiff as stilts, Mike was still on his feet and fighting gamely at the final gong.

It was a battle of youth, confident, and old age, easily tired and bereft of almost everything but the canny fighting brain that made Mike McTigue famous. And although Lomski slashed both of Mike's eyes open in the fifth round, he could not floor him, and Lomski himself ran into one stiff left hook that ripped his right eyebrow.

From the start, the corn-haired Westerner threw himself into the fray recklessly, fists pouring in a steady stream at McTigue's head and body. Mike blocked and retreated, fended and ducked and saved the right hand that bowled over a dozen opponents until the fifth round.

Then as the storm became unbearable, Mike threw away his caution and loosed his full punching power on the flailing youngster. One vicious chop cut Lomski's eye in the fifth, but both McTigue's eyes were gashed in the exchange and Leo refused to retreat.

From that point on each round added to the venerable one's discomfort. Carrying an added burden of nearly 40 years, Mike was punch dreamy at the close of the seventh and eighth sessions, staggering when the ninth was over and barely navigating, although still struggling through the motions when the match ended.

McTigue had a slight advantage in the weights, scaling 173½ pounds, to 170½ for Lomski.

Miss Orcutt Beaten In Bermuda Tourney

Hamilton, Bermuda, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Maureen Orcutt, New York metropolitan champion, was eliminated by Helen Payson, of Portland, Me., 7 and 6, in the semifinals of the annual women's Bermuda golf championship here today.

Miss Payson will face Ada MacKenzie, of Toronto, in the final round tomorrow. Miss MacKenzie advanced today by defeating Ailden Pattisson, of Bermuda, 2 and 1.

Little Generals Find Devitt Tossers Easy

Devitt Prep's basketball team was no match for the heavy and more experienced Washington and Lee Freshman Five yesterday, losing by a one-sided score of 75 to 15.

In outclassing their opponents, the Yearlings produced a trio of high-geared scorers in Williams, Hanna and Cox, who between them amassed 62 of the 75 points garnered by their team. Williams led with 12 baskets and one free toss, followed closely by Hanna, who contributed 10 double-deckers and one from the foul line. Freeman came next in the scoring orgy with a quartet of two-pointers.

Devitt was far from the game from the opening whistle and the team played listlessly throughout. Eight points were accumulated during the first half against the Yearlings' 48, while but seven more markers were garnered in the later quarters.

U. S. Davis Cup Team Plays Mexico First

Paris, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Mexico will be the first obstacle to be hurdled by tennis stars of the United States in their campaign to recover the Davis Cup, wrested from America by France last year.

The draw in the American zone, made at Elysee Palace by President Doumergue today, puts the United States against Mexico and Japan against Cuba in the first round.

Drawing a bye in the initial round, China will face the winner of the Mexico-United States matches, while Canada, also drawing a bye, engages the survivor of the other first round encounter.

On the basis of their 1927 form, Japan and the United States are regarded as virtual certainties to clash in the final of the zone competition.

The main strength in the European zone is in the upper half where the luck of the draw brings together two of the strongest challengers in the first round—Australia and Italy. The tennis stars from "down under" are returning to Davis Cup competition after two years' absence, with a promise of giving the other zone contenders considerable opposition.

The draw:

EUROPEAN ZONE, FIRST ROUND—Upper half, byes, India and Switzerland; Australia vs. Italy; Roumania vs. Belgium; Germany vs. Greece; Chile vs. Spain; Jugoslavia vs. Finland; Argentina vs. Great Britain.

Lower half, Hungary vs. Norway; Ireland vs. Holland; Poland vs. Denmark; Philippines vs. Austria; South Africa vs. Sweden; byes, Portugal, New Zealand, Czechoslovakia.

AMERICAN ZONE, FIRST ROUND—Upper half, bye, China; United States vs. Mexico.

Lower half, Cuba vs. Japan; bye, Canada.

MARYLAND U. PLAYS NAVY TODAY

Old Liners' Attack Being Built Around Julie Radice.

CONFIDENT of its ability to hand the Midshipmen their first defeat by a Maryland University Basketball Team in several years, the Old Liners' court squad, accompanied by a large student body, will invade Annapolis this afternoon for its annual battle with the Naval Academy Quintet.

In the practices during the week, the Maryland players have impressed Coach Shipley with their general play, and seem to be in fine shape for the Navy game. The contest with the Middies is one of the most important on the Old Liners' schedule, and it is a known fact that Maryland would rather win today's game than any other of the season.

Unless Coach Shipley decides upon a last minutes change in the line-up, it is most likely that the Old Liners will enter the fray with Navy without Adams and Dean, two regular players, who have not been out for practice during the week.

Adams is recovering from an operation on an infected ear, while Dean has been bothered with a heavy cold. However, with such capable reserve players as Madigan, Evans and Heagy, the Old Liners will not be weakened to any serious extent by the absence of Dean and Adams.

Maryland will center its attack around Julie Radice, high-scoring guard, and should Radice play his usually brilliant game, the Old Liners will have more than an even chance with the Naval Academy Basketers.

Capt. Linkous and Madigan or Evans, forwards; Hetzel, center; Radice and Heagy, guards, will be the probable starting line-up against the Middies.

Glenna Collett Sees Course From Plane

Pinehurst, N. C., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Because she wanted to see how the course looked from the air, Miss Glenna Collett, who has advanced to the final in the Mid South women's open golf championship here, flew over the Pine Needles course early this morning before beginning the match today.

"It was a great sight," she declared, "you can see every hole perfectly."

Miss Collett made the flight in the silver Fairchild monoplae with Lloyd O. Yost, one of the winners of the Ford reliability tour of 1925, as the pilot. With her also were Miss Jae Burritt, of Washington, D. C., and John Yale, of New York.

Miss Glenna Collett and Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, will meet in the final round tomorrow as a result of victories in the semifinal round today. Miss Collett defeated Mrs. Emmett French, of Southern Pines, seven and six, and Miss Van Wie eliminated Miss Louise Patterson, of Plainfield, N. J., five and four.

Navy-Tigers In 3-Year Grid Pact

Princeton to Replace Army November 24 at Philadelphia.

Way Is Left Open for Possible Future Service Games.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 3.—All speculation over the prospect of an Army-Navy football game next fall was set at rest today when Rear Admiral Louis M. Nulton, superintendent of the Naval Academy, announced that Navy will meet Princeton on November 24, the date originally set apart for the Army battle. More than that, Navy has entered into a three-year contract with the Tigers, Admiral Nulton stated, for games during the 1929 and 1930 seasons.

Admiral Nulton's statement says:

"Princeton has accepted the invitation of the United States Naval Academy, and has entered into an agreement for a series of three football games to be played in 1928, 1929 and 1930. The 1928 game will be played in Philadelphia on November 24. The games in 1929 and 1930 will be played at Princeton on dates falling in October of each year. Close relations in sport have existed for many years between the Naval Academy and Princeton."

Further than this, neither Admiral Nulton nor Commander Jonas H. Ingram, director of athletics at the Naval Academy, would not make any comment concerning the controversy between the rival service schools over eligibility rules, the rock upon which they split. Navy insisted upon a three-year clause to bar transfer students, while Army consistently opposed any such move.

While Philadelphia is announced as the site for the 1928 struggle, Navy athletic authorities would not announce the playing field, but it is generally understood here that Franklin Field, the stadium of the University of Pennsylvania, will be the scene of conflict, this in view of the fact that Navy has an option on that arena for this year and was ready to name it for the Army-Navy contest until the eligibility unpleasantness developed.

The exact dates of the games with Princeton in 1929 and 1930 will be determined later on, but, as stated, they will be played on dates falling in October, mutually agreeable to both institutions. In this connection, of course, a great deal would be dependent upon other bookings by each team for those seasons.

Announcement that Navy would take on Princeton for its "big" game of next season was not a surprise to gridiron followers here, for it was known that extensive negotiations had been in progress for some time, but not a hint had been dropped that a three-year agreement had been entered into.

The fact that the Navy-Princeton clashes in 1929 and 1930 will be booked for October indicates the possibility of officials of the rival service institutions reopening negotiations with the possibility of coming to terms on the subject of eligibility rules after the close of the 1928 season.

West Point Not Yet Ready To Announce Nov. 24 Game

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Negotiations for a football game between the Army and Nebraska, to fill West Point's vacant date on this year's slate, have been in progress for some time, but it was said authoritatively today that they have not yet been completed. If arranged the game is expected to be played in the East.

Mrs. Mallory Gains Finals in Tournament

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, former national champion, advanced to the final round of the Heights Casino invitation tennis tournament today by defeating Mrs. Lillian Scharman Hester, of New York, in the semifinals in straight sets, 6—4, 6—3.

Miss Eleanor Goss, of New York, won the right to face Mrs. Mallory in the finals by eliminating Miss Alice Francis, of East Orange, N. J., in the other semifinals match, 6—2, 6—1.

Hahn, Connolly Race In Devitt Track Meet

Washington field and track enthusiasts have a treat in store for them at the Georgetown University track on April 20 and 21 when Devitt Prep will stage its interscholastic games, as Lloyd Hahn, one of America's best distance men will meet Jimmy Connolly, former Georgetown and Olympic star, in a special one-mile race.

Hahn, who rates in the class with Paavo Nurmi as one of the world's greatest middle distance runners and who holds several U. S. titles, is one of the biggest attractions in the game at this time and getting his promise to come to the Capital for this meet is quite a feather in the cap of L. Leighton "Count" Cornwell, who, with John F. Byerly, is in charge of the coming meet.

2,240 TEAMS ENTERED.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—A record-breaking list of 2,240 five-man teams will compete in the American Bowling Congress here March 3 to April 2. Entries closed last night, with 40 more teams entered than were at Buffalo in 1925, the previous banner year.

Tunney Takes Right to Jaw, Scares Foe, 11, Out of Ring

Crowd Yells for Youngster to Finish Champion in Movie Workout; Drills Against Jack Britton for a Round.

By JACK FARRELL.
Special to The Washington Post.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 3.—Elliott Thompson, 11-year-old son of a Louisville newspaper man, tonight is one of the happiest juveniles in the world and should be the envy of Young America. Elliott was picked out of a crowd of popeyed youngsters today by Gene Tunney, world's heavyweight champion, to put on the gloves for a brief movie bout before the champion started his daily workout at the Roney Plaza Casino, and most of the movie and still cameras this side of the Mason-Dixon line made pictorial records of the event.

The youngster got the kick of his young life when Tunney permitted him to belt him on his million-dollar jaw with a right hook and the champion feigned momentary grogginess.

"Go on, kid, now you got him!" urged one of the cameramen as Gene went down on one knee. "Throw another one in there and you'll be heavyweight champion of the world."

Young Thompson wound up his right very much on the order of Jack Bentley getting set to throw over a third strike. Gene rolled his head to one side and the blow went wild and caught the highly excited youngster on the knee cap on the recoil.

Tunney got up and crouched low. The boy rushed in with eyes closed and swinging both mitts blindly while the crowd went into hysterics.

Elliott was a brave boy, indeed until Gene "recovered." Then the champion made a lot of ugly faces and worked his arms in feinting fashion until the boy became frightened and ran out of the ring, gloves and all.

Tunney was in a rare playful mood.

Later he put on the gloves for the first time since he took them off that September evening in 1927 in Chicago, when he beat Dempsey so badly that Jack will never fight again. He went one 2-minute round with Jack Britton, former world's welterweight champion, at a speedy gait. Britton tapped the champion with several left jabs to the face, but Gene took the punches good naturedly and countered with rights to Jack's ribs.

The champion worked for a full hour on the light and heavy bags. His timing of punches indicated he will have no trouble perfecting his judgment of distance once he settles down to the daily grind.

After the workout Tunney stated he had no intention of doing any heavy training until he got back to New York after March 15.

"Then," he said, "I intend to hit for camp at Speculator, N. Y., and get in at least two months' work for my fight in June."

Tex Rickard intends to get back home about February 22, to take a hand in final arrangements for the fifteen-round battle between Jack Delaney and Tom Heeney at the Garden on March 1.

Magee, Once Philly Star, Named Umpire

New York, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Sherwood Magee, aggressive and slugging outfielder of 20 years ago, returns to the major leagues next summer—as an umpire.

John Heydler, president of the National League, announced Magee's appointment at the league's annual midwinter meeting here today.

Born at Clarendon, Pa., in 1884, Magee played his first professional baseball at Allentown, Pa., in 1903. A year later he joined the Philadelphia Nationals, beginning a major league career that did not terminate until 1919. He led the league in batting in 1910, and was runner-up the following year.

Magee left the Phils in 1915, played two years with the Boston Braves and two more with the Cincinnati Reds, finally dropping out of the major league picture in 1919. Then followed five years of minor league play—with Columbus, Milwaukee and Minneapolis in the American Association and Baltimore, of the International League.

Watrous 6 Under Par On Texas Open Course

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Setting a scorching pace against the golfers who will compete in the Texas open tomorrow, Al Watrous, Grand Rapids, Mich., professional, paired with Lamar Seeligson, of San Antonio, today won an amateur-pro best ball match with a brilliant 65, six under par.

Watrous bore most of the burden in annexing the laurels, although Seeligson, comparatively an unknown, won three holes to aid in the team play against a big field. The most sparkling bit of golf of the day came on the final hole when Watrous holed a 150-yard approach to clinch first place and nose out the almost certain winners, Larry Nabholtz, of Cleveland, and Dupre Dance, of San Antonio.

Watrous did not play out the holes won by Seeligson, but would have shot a 68, tying the course record, had he sunk all of the putts which he picked up after his partner had holed out.

Jock Second To Handicap Favorite

English-Bred Colt Is Best of Field of 16 at New Orleans.

Stalls Off Challenge in Final Running; Sea Rocket Third.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 3.—Justice F., the English-bred colt of William Daniel, of Chicago, rewarded the favoritism conferred upon him when he won the $50,000 New Orleans Handicap this afternoon at the Fair Grounds and thrilled the great majority of a crowd of 20,000, which turned out to help make the most brilliant day in the history of winter racing.

Perfect weather conditions—bright sunshine and high temperature attended and contributed toward the perfect day.

Carrying 123 pounds, Justice F. beat the highly rated colt, Jock, owned by the McLean Stable, to the wire by a length and a half in a great horse race which, fortunately was not marred in spite of the participation of several hopeless ones which swelled the field to sixteen starters.

Jock gallantly shouldered 126 pounds into second place and had Justice F. ridden out to beat him, while in third place, more than two lengths behind Jock, thundered Sea Rocket, owned by C. A. Coyle, of New Orleans—the horse which beat Justice F. in the Christmas Handicap.

Johnson N. Camden's mare, Oh Susanna, was fourth, and behind the first four finished the Greentree Stable's Saxon, H. P. Headley's Helen's Babe, Coventry Stable's Boon Companion, the Rosedale Stable's Dangerous, the McLean Stable's War Eagle (Jock's stable mate), Peter Peter, Percentage, Marconi, Ruane, McTinkle, Laddie and Nor'easter.

It was a grand horse race, truly run and well won. Some of those back in the field had a little bad luck, but good luck for them hardly would have changed the result.

And Justice F.'s victory was wildly acclaimed as he romped down the long Fair Grounds stretch to the victory which earned for his owner, William Daniel, of Chicago, a check for $50,000 and the magnificent solid gold cup, valued at $2,500.

The presentation of the check and the cup was made by Mayor William Hale Thompson, of Chicago, especially invited guest for the occasion. Jockey Pascuma also was showered with presents, among them being a beautiful bouquet of flowers, which he promptly sent out to adorn the grave of Black Gold, the popular little colt whose recent death here threw the racing colony into gloom.

Justice F. was the best horse. He was backed as if best, too, paying $4.88 for $2—a heavy favorite over his classy field where more than $100,000 was wagered on the race.

Laddie, War Eagle and several others delayed the start a few minutes, but Starter Hamilton finally got the field away to what wsa an xecellent send-off under the conditions.

War Eagle, Laddie, Oh Susanna and Justice F. went to the first turn closely bunched. Oh Susanna and Laddie followed by Justice F., making the first turn in front. War Eagle bore out and his stable mate, Jock, moved in behind Justice F. Saxon, McTinkle, Boom Companion and Helen's Babe were bunched behind Jock, while the others were strung out, with Sea Rocket far in the rear as a result of having been slightly impeded by the barrier.

Oh Susanna, hard beset by Laddie, showed the way into the backstretch, by which time Justice F. had moved into third place and Jockey Ambrose, on Jock, had that young son of Colin in fourth position.

Before reaching the half-mile post, Oh Susanna shook off Laddie, which dropped entirely out of it. Then, suddenly, Pasuma called on Justice F. and Oh Susanna hardly had passed the half-mile when Justice F. headed her and took command. Jock began to move up rapidly, too, and before they reached the turn into the stretch he was on even terms with Oh Susana.

Straightened out in the drive for home, Jock, responding to his rider's call, set sail for Justice F. and so rapily closed in that the thousands in the stands began to yell for Pascuma to come on with Justice F.

Pascuma plied his whip a couple of times and the game son of Abbott's Trace, responding instantly, jumped away from Jock and, sticking to his knitting, held Jock off at arm's length through the last sixteenth.

Sea Rocket, coming into the stretch in sixth place, swung wide into the straightaway and rapidly overhauled those ahead of him, but although he caught Oh Susanna he still had a wide space to cover before he could have reached Jock. Oh Susanna held on gamely to outstay Saxon for fourth place. Saxon showed a game effort, too.

Owner Daniel was so excited before today's race was run that he forgot to bet on his horse. He announced tonight that Justice F. would be given a short let up in training here and shipped to Tia Juana for the Coffroth some time within the next couple of weeks. Should Justice F. triumph in that race it will likely make him the biggest money winner of the year in America.

Peltzer Asks Extension of Time To Meet Hahn in Race at Mile

By ALAN J. GOULD.
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Having tasted the fruits of victory in his first American indoor race, Dr. Otto Peltzer told the Associated Press today he looked forward to gaining an extension of time permitting him to race outdoors at Los Angeles and also to meet Lloyd Hahn, the American ace, in a 1-mile test at Madison Square Garden in the Knights of Columbus meet February 20.

The German star's next competitive appearance is scheduled in a 1,000-meter race in the Illinois A. C. meet at Chicago February 10. It will be his last race unless German athletic authorities grant him an extension of time, but Dr. Peltzer today indicated he expected to get this permission.

If and when he does, however, he may face further debate with the American Amateur Athletic Union before rearranging his program. The Illinois A. C. race is the only one now having A. A. U. approval.

Dr Peltzer has asked for a substantial extension beyond the original fourteen-day limit put upon his competitive activities in the United States. If it is limited to the usual 21 days specified by international regulations he plans to go from Chicago to Los Angeles and run there February 22. If a longer period is allowed, the doctor will shift his schedule so as to run in the K. of C. games here February 29, and go to Los Angeles for a race on March 7. He may also enter the National A. A. U. indoor championship here February 25.

The only chance of a race between Peltzer and Hahn rests in the possibility of their meeting in the K. of C games here. Hahn has announced he intends to try to lower the world's indoor mile record of 4 minutes 12 seconds in that meet. The American ace won this event last year in 4:12 1-5, defeating the Swedish school master, Edvin Wide. He demonstrated last night in capturing the Rodman Wanamaker mile at the Millrose games in 4:18 3-5 that he is in great condition and ripe for a record-busting race.

"I would like very much to race Hahn before I return," Dr. Peltzer said. "He is a fine runner."

Dr. Peltzer had little comment to make on the jostling and buffeting he encountered in the field of ten runners in the Millrose track race last night.

"Under the conditions it was unavoidable," he said. "So big a field on so narrow track made it difficult, but that is part of racing luck. I was fortunate to beat Dodge by as much as I did. I doubt if I could do better against him outdoors, although the time would have been better if we had had better pacing."

The Yankees purchased Lazzeri from Salt Lake at close of the 1925 season, paying $65,000 and players Frank Zoeller and Mack Hillis.

Lazzeri was a shortstop in the milotter before signing with Salt Lake in 1922. He was farmed to Peoria and Lincoln for part of next two seasons, then remained with Salt Lake through 1925, hitting 60 home runs, a world's record until equaled by Babe Ruth last season.

Lazzerio was a shortstop in the minors, but experienced no difficulty in shifting over to second base upon reporting to New York.

30 of America's Best Skiers Ask A. A. U. Permission to Turn Pro

RED WING, Minn., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Honoring an ultimatum from 30 leading riders, the National Ski Association, meeting here today, preliminary to the annual ski tournament, voted to ask the American Amateur Athletic Union if sanctioning of professionalism within the organization would cost the sport its amateur standing.

A wire to this effect was sent to the A. A. U. and requested an immediate reply. Tiring of risking their good health to entertain ski fans for silverware, crockery and other such gifts permissible under the existing rules, the riders demanded that they be permitted to accept cash prizes.

The ultimatum was backed with the threat that if the recommendation was rejected the riders would secede from the national group and set up an organization of their own.

While the riders and officers of 24 widely scattered clubs discussed professionalism and other pertinent subjects indoors, balmy weather all but ruined skiing conditions outdoors.

Charlson Hill, where the national events will be held Sunday, was dripping wet as a warm February sun, bearing down from a clear sky, converted snow and ice into slush. Tournament officials insisted tonight that reserve supplies of snow were ample to insure near perfect riding Sunday even though the moderate weather continues. However, they admitted that lower temperatures would vastly improve conditions.

Joe Dundee's Trial Off Until March 16

Los Angeles, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The trial of Joe Dundee, welterweight boxing champion, and his manager, Max Waxman, charged with false advertising as a result of the Dundee-Hudkins fight fiasco, was held over until March 13 in Municipal Court today. Both defendants are in the East.

Dundee refused to enter the ring because his guarantee had not been met.

WHIPLESS RACES BY APPRENTICES GAINING IN FAVOR

Best Jockeys Spurn Use Of "Gats"

Edict at Fair Grounds Proves Whipping Is Unnecessary.

Shaw, Murphy, Sande Cited as Brilliant "Hand" Riders.

By CHARLES A. WATSON.

CRITICISM of Col. E. R. Bradley's order that apprentice jockeys riding horses at the Fair Grounds, New Orleans, carry no whips, has waned to insignificance.

Horsemen quartered at the Fair Grounds have come to the conclusion that the master mind of the Idle Hour Stock Farm and owner of the New Orleans race track, is not so revolutionary after all and are now heartily agreeing with the colonel that the whip is not necessary. Col. Bradley's action brings to mind that there have been a great number of really great riders who have never used a whip.

Willie Shaw, who rode more than a score of years ago for "Pittsburgh Phil," was a notable example. He was rated as one of the best hand riders in the history of the American turf and as a judge of pace he was in a class by himself.

Shaw could make a horse step off in front, furlong after furlong, in a shade more than twelve seconds and still have enough left to stall off any belated rush or challenge from his rivals. In a mile race or more the fractional times for the eight furlongs would not vary two-fifths of a second. Shaw seldom carried a whip.

Isaac Murphy, who the old timers say was the greatest rider the turf ever produced, seldom used a whip, relying like Shaw upon his hands and his judgment of pace to bring his mount home victor.

Earl Sande, though he occupies a position high in the racing world, is an example of a poor whip rider. Sande has admitted many a time that he only draws the whip when absolutely necessary and when his mount is not able to respond to hand riding.

Lance Cheyne, the great steeplechase jockey, who has been the premier fence rider for the past two years, is a firm believer that the whip is an unnecessary evil in the hands of many riders. Seldom does a rider need a whip, Cheyne declares, if he knows the art of handling his horse properly. He says sluggish beginners should be taught to get away from the barrier without the use of a whip and asserts Col. Bradley has marked a step forward in racing when he denies the apprentice the whip as a part of his equipment.

New Orleans sportsman, to the man, are with the officials of the Fair Grounds and believe that it equalizes the boys chances on the various mounts. In racing, like any other sport, there are some capable jockeys who know when his horse needs a little urging but they are few and far betwen.

The boys, as a rule, feel that the whip in the hand must be used and they take advantage of it far to often when it is not needed, only to kill the chances of a tiring thoroughbred in the stretch run.

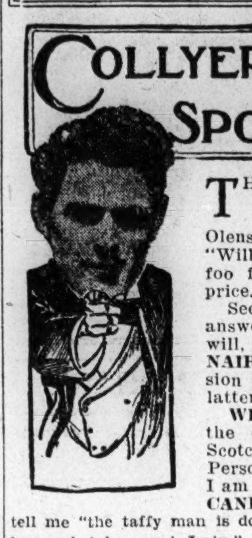

It is the opinion of a good many trainers that some horses will not run without being punished and made to run, but Col. Bradley's successful experiment at New Orleans has dispelled these views.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT E. COLLYER

THE wopsey tiger today is none other than BLUE DARTER, which is named to sport silks in the opening spasm down at Noo Olens this afternoon. Lamp the gab appended: "Will have the glad rags on an' all dusted up with foo foo powder, tell the boys to take any old price."

Seems like winning chatter to me—you have the answer in your sweet little duke. SCAMPAWAY, will, in all probability, furnish the contention with NAIRBEC right bang up. There was a commission placed here—over night—three ways on the latter.

WITCHMOUNT is the clocker's XXX special and the comment appended would almost make a Scotchman go hock the family plate—"almost." Personally, I like this one extra well, even though I am assured NAVIGATOR will show improvement. CANDY PIG has been working well and they do tell me "the taffy man is down, hook, line and sinker—so is Irvin." You guess 'em kid.

SANFORD on that last effort is given a close shade over GENIAL HOST, which, by the way is a bit better than ordinarily rated—probably one of the most improved racers at this track. Anything is liable to be third—you guess 'em.

The McLean entry of WAR EAGLE and ALGOL has a five-point call in the fourth—either one can win. That last effort of ALGOL'S was even better than cold dope would indicate. UNDER COVER'S last goes for Mr. Sweeney, the gent who manicures the morgue—forget it.

KENTUCKY CARDINAL is finer than split silk and in his present form has a chance to beat anybody's horse.

The fifth is a bit tougher than it looks on paper. Personally, I favor GALAHAD. He improves with every race and is a rare good one. True, WILLIAM PENN has justified our previous comment, while BOOKIE did not seem to try an inch last time. That's my story and I'm going to stick to it or, as Sophie Glotz said, "Let the hips fly where they may."

Just this moment received word from "Doc" David out at Tia Juana that he intends killing a flock of geese with DUKEDOM. Let your conscience be your guide.

The lads at Tia Juana slip me FRANK G. MENKIN in the fourth spasm. This is a real good colt and this is the day they will celebrate.

Sunday School Fives In 3 Games Tonight

Three interesting games of basketball are scheduled for this evening at 7:15 o'clock, in the Sunday School Basketball League at the Central Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

The first game brings together the Columbia Heights Christian Church and the Calvary Reds. This game will be followed by the Hamline and the Petworth M A. game, the last game bringing together the Mount Vernon M. E. Basketers and the team representing the United Bretheran.

League Soccer Games Doubtful Tomorrow

Officials of the Capital City Soccer League were undecided last night whether the weekly schedule would be resumed or not. All fields are at least partly covered with snow and unless conditions are greatly improved by this afternoon the matches will be postponed.

The games scheduled are: Arcadians vs. Rockville, British Uniteds vs. Rosedale, and Germania vs. Army Medicos. The Capital City League is the only one operating at present as the others completed their schedule several weeks ago.

ST. JOHN FIVE SURPRISES WESTERN

Hickey, Sherman Star as High Basketers Bow, 39-30.

INSTILLED by its surprise victory over Tech High Thursday, the St. John tossers showed that their success was no flash in the pan by treating the Western High Quintet in the same manner yesterday to ring up a 39-to-30 victory.

In handing the Western Quintet its reverse, the St. John's tossers played with a determination that will not be denied. Trailing on the short end of a 10-to-2 count at the end of the first quarter, the Cadets, with Sherman and Hickey leading the way, spurted to gain a 17-to-14 advantage at the half.

Using a wealth of second-string performers possibly cost Western the verdict, for even after the regulars were pressed into service again after the third quarter, the score was beyond reach of winning. Garber and Wilson did about everything to bring Western to even terms, but their good work was nullified only because of St. John's brilliant and determined game.

In starring for St. John's, Hickey proved a bulwark on offense, five baskets and a like number of foul tosses being his share in the victory. Sherman also took occasion to help his team, 11 points being accumulated by him, including five baskets and one free throw.

South Atlantic Tournament To Draw Record Entry List

THE South Atlantic tournament, to be staged in March under the auspices of The Washington Post in cooperation with A. A. U. officials, is the greatest basketball project ever undertaken in Washington, it has developed as a result of the record number of applications for entry blanks.

Thus far 60 teams have signified their intentions of entering the tournament to decide the amateur basketball champions of Washington and this district's representatives in the South Atlantic finals against the champions of Baltimore. Teams in five classes, the unlimited, 145-pound, 130-pound, 115-pound and 100-pound divisions, have flocked and are flocking to the tournament ranks daily, and before the entries close it is expected that every team of note in this section will be entered.

The tournament already is of larger proportions than that staged last year, when 50 teams competed for the South Atlantic titles and the A. A. U. gold medals.

Two of the Washington teams won South Atlantic titles last year, the Bond's Whirlwinds beating the Baltimore Y. M. H. A. in the unlimited finals and the Arrows defeating the Jewish Educational Alliance Team, of Baltimore, in the 145-pound class.

All other Washington champions were beaten by Baltimore teams last year, but the tournament this season is expected to bring out a better brand of contenders. Especially in the lighter classes the teams will offer stubborn opposition, it is indicated.

The tournament will provide teams here with an opportunity to meet their Washington rivals on an equal footing and teams which were off to bad starts earlier in the season are priming for the chance to meet their conquerors in the tournament, where the results may be reversed in regulation gymnasiums under the direction of certified Central Board officials and the A. A. U.

Mangum, Cut Adrift by Nats, Seen as Regular With Giants

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

EXPERIMENTS are most costly in the major leagues and baseball history is full of cases where a player, practically given away by one club, suddenly blossoms out as a star on another. Such is the prediction made for Pitcher Leo Mangum, who joins the Giants this season. Mangum, it will be remembered, came to the Nationals last winter, along with Hollis Turston, in the deal which sent Roger Peckenpaugh to the White Sox.

At the Tampa training camp Mangum did not show much ability at anything except complaining about conditions, in general, and the fact that he was not getting a square deal from Manager Harris, in particular. He showed so little pitching ability that he was sold for a song to the Buffalo Club and he immediately proceeded to "burn up" the International League, his great work being largely responsible for the Bisons winning the pennant. On these performances he was purchased at a fancy price by Manager John McGraw.

Struggling to get to the top in baseball has been no primrose path for Leo, but the outlook is that he has a fine chance of making good in this third big league trial. Mangum, a right-hander, 27 years old, 6 feet tall, and weighing 180 pounds, appears to have finally hit his stride.

He broke into the professional game most auspiciously, pitching a no-hit game his first time out. Toeing the slab for Albany he made the 1920 Eastern League champions, Pittsfield, look like a bunch of rookies. Although crude, he had everything except control and this was just off enough to worry opposing hitters and to keep them from swinging in their usual confident manner.

Mangum slowly climbed the minor league ladder and got his big chance while with Minneapolis, of the American Association, in 1924, when he and Catcher Grabowski, now with the Yankees, were purchased by the White Sox for $50,000. But Leo failed to carry on in the majors and finished that season in Reading. In 1925 the Chisox had him on option with the Portland Pacific Coast League Club, bringing him back to put him in the deal with the Washington Club after that season ended. With Portland he was just a fair pitcher.

While naturally disappointed at being returned to the "bushes" by the Nationals, Mangum kept on plugging and suddenly began a streak of real pitching. His record of 21 triumphs against 7 setbacks for a percentage of .750 stamped him as the ace of the International League and practically gave Buffalo its pennant.

Now Leo is up again and the umpires who worked behind the plate in games he pitched insist that in Mangum the Giants have a prospect who will make the grade next season. The arbiters are unanimous in the opinion that the former National has all of the requisites of a big leaguer. He has acquired control, throws a dandy fast one, has a nice change of pace and wrinkles that are deceptive, according to the International League "guessers," who predict that, under McGraw's handling, he will be a winner.

Riggs Five Noses Out American Security

The Riggs National Bank Team scored a 21-20 victory over American Security & Trust in a hard fought game at Central High School last night in the Bankers League. Emory Shanks, who, with Benny Mensh, were the stars of the game, scored the winning points on a free throw just before the final whistle.

The Riggs Bank, who were trailing at half time, 10-4, fought an uphill battle to win.

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY and American University will share the spotlight in tonight's two college court attractions

Fresh from its brilliant victory over the Roanoke College Five on Thursday night, the Colonials will face another sturdy foe in the Wake Forest College Quintet at 8:30 o'clock in the H street gymnasium, while American University engages the Blue Ridge college team in its home court, also at 8:30 o'clock.

After several weeks of mediocre play the George Washington Team seems to have reached its form at last. In the Roanoke game the Colonials combined speed with a fine passing attack, which, if continued, should bring them plenty of victories before the season is over.

Rangely and Allshouse are waging a merry battle for the forward post, vacated by Sapp, who has left college, and the showing of these players in tonight's game undoubtedly will influence Coach Crum's final decision.

The American University Team has benefited greatly by the drubbing at the hands of Catholic University earlier in the week, and it will be a more experienced quintet which takes the floor against the Blue Ridge team.

Coach Baillie Springston, who has been drilling different combinations in the practices this week, intimated that there may be a shake-up in the team, but has not definitely decided upon any changes.

Woodward Five Bows To Friends School

Trailing on the short end of a 11 to 10 score at the half, the Friends School basketers spurted to nose out the Woodward Five yesterday, 24 to 20, in a game in the latter club's gymnasium. Phillips headed the scorers for the winners, while Despard played the best game for the Woodward.

G. U. Prep Tossers Trounce St. Alban's

Georgetown Prep got back into the winning column yesterday by easily defeating the St. Alban's Quintet, 41 to 17, in a game in the Georgetown Prep gymnasium.

Displaying a whirlwind passing attack, the winners coasted along throughout the entire contest, holding a 28 to 7 advantage at the half. During the third quarter Georgetown Prep used a second combination and it performed in capable fashion. The St. Alban tossers played well, but were unable to match the superior work of their rivals.

McNamara was the leading scorer of the day, accounting for five baskets, to star for Georgetown Prep. Rehkopf followed closely on the heels of his teammate by slipping four doubledeckers and one free throw to aid materially. Sabin, a guard, and Poole, center, were the only consistent marker makers for St. Alban's, ringing up seven and five points, respectively.

Pipe Smokers:

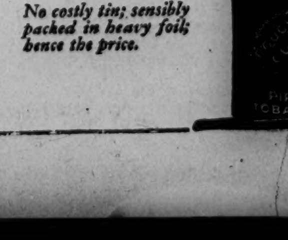

Old Col. Wellman certainly did know tobacco!

HIS secret method—now ours exclusively—puts Granger right at the top for taste. It mellows and "mildens" tobacco as nothing else can.

And that's not all, for Granger is cut to burn slower, too; it's Rough Cut. Any dyed-in-the-wool smoker knows what that means—cooler smoking!

All the quality where it counts—inside the package; not a penny wasted for show. It's a product we can stand squarely back of—and we do!

GRANGER ROUGH CUT

GALLAUDET QUINTET DEFEATS BLUE RIDGE, 33-26

Kendall Five Tied in Last Period

Cosgrove, Dyer Are Leaders in Winning Rally Near End.

Virginians Hampered by Frequent Penalties in Rough Game.

THE fast Gallaudet Basketball Team triumphed over Blue Ridge College, 33-26, at the Kendall Green gymnasium last night in a hard-fought and roughly played game.

The general play of the Blue Ridge seemed to indicate that in the past the team has not been accustomed to strict officiating. Consequently, the team was frequently penalized, which not only proved disastrous to any thought of victory it may have entertained, but served in addition to agitate several of the players.

Gallaudet enjoyed a 16-16 advantage at the half, but the determination of the visitors to overtake Gallaudet proved successful in a measure, as half way in the final period they tied the score at 20-all.

Blue Ridge had a chance until the final two or three minutes of play. Trailing at that juncture, 26-22, the visitors shot from every angle of the floor in a vain effort to overhaul Gallaudet.

It remained, however, for Dyer, speedy left forward of the Gallaudet Team, to dispel all thoughts as to the ultimate outcome. The Gallaudet Team got possession of the ball and started passing the oval about on the back court, and when it had finally sucked the Blue Ridge defense out of position, Dyer made a break for the basket and with a flash of brilliant dribbling darted between two opponents to sink a short basket.

With the Blue Ridge Team fighting against time, Gallaudet's 6-point lead loomed large, but the Kendall Green Team was not content to let matters rest as they were and Cosgrove and Dyer each followed with two baskets and the latter with a free throw, while the only offensive gesture made by Blue Ridge was a basket and a free throw, both by P. Engle, just before the final whistle.

Three Close Contests In Boys' Club League

Play last night in the Boys Club League was featured by three tight games in the senior B division, the Standards defeating the De Luxe Five, 25-23; the Centennials downing the Roses, 17-16, with the Celtics bowing to the Optimists, 32-28.

Tortorice and Ferguson were the stars in the victory over the De Luxe Team, scoring 9 and 7 points respectively. Fisher led for the losers with 10 points.

The Centennials ran up a 10-4 lead on the Roses in the first half, but the Roses made a gallant stand in the last two periods to fail to overhaul their opponents by a lone point.

McCartee led the Optimists to victory in the third game with 11 points.

G. U. Yearlings Beat Eastern High Five

Displaying a brilliant scoring attack, the Georgetown University Freshmen Basketball Team defeated the Eastern High School Quintet, 60 to 38, last night in the preliminary attraction to the Varsity-Roanoke contest.

Bozek, Dillon and Flood were the leaders in the Frosh scoring spree. Cappelli scintillated for the scholastic team.

Fishburne Cadet Five Easy for Emerson

Special to The Washington Post.

Waynesborough, Va., Feb. 3.—The Emerson Institute Basketball Team, of Washington, scored a 45-14 victory over the Fishburne Military Academy Team here this afternoon.

The brilliant playing of Jinkins and Buscher who led with 14 and 12 points respectively, were dominant factors in the victory by the Washington team.

Emerson will meet the Woodberry Forest Team today before returning home.

D. C. Soccer Referees Join National Body

The District Soccer Referees Association was accepted in the United States referees' body, it was announced last night by John Malloch, sr., secretary of the local organization. When notifying the Washington officials of the favorable action on their application Secretary Addison, of national headquarters, indicated that he would be present at the banquet to be held by referees here next month.

The active members of the Washington association are Edward Kruse, Bill Castle, Louis Bullicek, John Malloch, sr., Arthur Devlin, Jack Caldwell, Jess Burton and Richard S. Tennyson. The associate members are William G. Burch, John MacBeth, Gus Heller and Robert Bruce.

The affiliation of the Washington officials with the national heads will mean that a proviso will have to be made in order that the District games may be officiated free of charge as in the past, as one of the rules of the national body is that a fee must be charged for all services unless special exceptions are made. The local referees realize that clubs here can not pay officials at this time and will make arrangements accordingly.

SMITH TOSSERS WIN.

F. H. Smith tossers routed the Potomac Boat Club Five by a score of 37 to 16. Pearce, with six baskets, starred for the winners, while Reithmeyer was best for the losers.

EAGLES BEAT WONDERS, 34-25

Anacostia Team Leads 15-13 at Halftime; Fouls Decide.

THE Anacostia Eagles, who seem destined to forge ahead to the championship of the District for the second consecutive year, downed the Wonder Five last night at Congress Heights gymnasium, 34 to 25.

The play was so hotly contested that Referee Simpson was forced to eject Thompson, of the Eagles, and Hanback, of the Wonder Five, from the game, after the two had started fighting over the ball.

The game was not played under intercollegiate rules and as the players were not forced from the game on four fouls, the contest was exceedingly rough, but nevertheless fast throughout.

The team battled on even terms the first half, with the Eagles enjoying only a 15 to 13 advantage. The ability of the Eagle players to make good on the many foul chances accorded them in the latter stages of the game cost the Wonder Five the game.

Faber, Sweeney, Thompson and Streeks each tossed four points from the foul line, while Clark and Bennie each scored a free toss during the entire game.

Pete Nee and Earl Moser, both former Central High School stars, played best for the Wonders. Nee led his team mates with 7 points.

Southeastern League May Take Over Tampa

Rock Island, Ill., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—The Southeastern League came into the controversy over the Tampa (Fla.) baseball franchise today, and if that circuit takes over the Tampa Club, President Mike Sexton, of the minor leagues, said one of the most troublesome problems of the minor leagues this winter may be solved amicably.

Against the Tampa franchise a claim of $1,530 rests for various sums due on player sales and other transactions. This sum was assessed against Charles B. Griner, president of the Jacksonville Club when he took over the Tampa franchise.

The Dallas convention of the minor leagues in December passed judgment upon Griner for this sum, but when the minor league board reassembled in Chicago in January, Griner asked the board to reopen the case. He said he had not been heard in his own defense the first time, and he had statements and data he wished to present in his defense. The assessment was held up and the case reopened, but no decision has been announced, pending the action of the Southeastern League.

The Company F Basketball Team proved easy for the Eagles, senior division champions of the Washington Recreation League, last night. The Company F combination is an intermediate division team but played splendidly against the champions, losing, 36 to 9.

With Alys Ewers, Eagle forward, sending shots through the basket from every position on the floor, the winners easily outscored the younger team but they were forced to play their best game. With more experience in competition and more practice in goal throwing, the Hyattsville players will be considered formidable among the strongest teams of the city.

Miss Lillian England, star forward and captain of the Company F players, played her final match with her team last night as she is being married today and will make her home in Delaware.

Junior Team players were undefeated in the series and the Seniors won second place with three victories and one defeat.

They All Look Alike To Quigley

By AL DAMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants.)

Umpire Ernest Quigley has two sons, Mike and Heinie, who play on the St. Mary's (Kans.) High School football eleven.

In a game in which Quigley was officiating he called a penalty of fifteen yards on Mike for holding.

"You're not going to penalize your own son, are you?" demanded Mike.

"Listen, son," said Quigley, "when I'm officiating, you're just a player."

In basketball, Quigley has a habit of tapping a player who has committed a foul and saying "You can't do that." In a pro game once, a smart player framed on Quigley, and when he made a foul he ducked away from Quigley. Quigley, however, held up the game until he could complete his regular gesture.

AUBURN SETS FAST PACE IN SOUTH

Maryland Also Shows Promise as Tourney Contender.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—With the Southern conference basketball tournament less than a month away, Auburn, North Carolina, Mississippi A & M., Maryland and Virginia Poly are setting a pace which promises to bring them here more or less favorites for the championship crown.

The Plainsmen of Auburn have literally been running wild, leading the Nation's collegiate fives in scoring and winning twelve straight games, including victories over Georgia Tech, Clemson, Florida, Tulane, Tennessee and Vanderbilt, the latter conference champions.

Next to Auburn, North Carolina has been showing greatest consistency. The Tarheels have taken on worthy foes on successive nights without showing strain, a sign taken by basketball observers as one showing tournament grind caliber.

The Chapel Hill Team recently won from Georgia, runner-up in the tournament a year ago.

Mississippi A. & M. has shown strong scoring power, but its foes have not been as representative as those of Auburn and North Carolina. Maryland, in addition to victories over teams in its own territory, defeated Kentucky, a strong team, decisively. Virginia Poly, while meeting few opponents so far, has flashed considerable strength.

The championship tournament starts here February 28 and continues through March 1.

South Carolina, Louisiana State, Alabama, Tulane, Kentucky, Vanderbilt, Virginia Military Institute and the University of Mississippi are others of the 22 conference members that have shown strength at times during the season.

Company F Quintet Nears League Title

The Company F, Hyattsville Guard Basketball Team, virtually clinched the Washington City League title last night when it defeated the strong Woltz A. C., 29 to 23, in a thrilling battle in the Wilson Normal gymnasium.

The Woltz Quintet set the pace during the early stages and was leading at half-time, but succumbed to a brilliant rally of the Guardsmen in the final stages. Vincent and Reely led the attack for the winners.

Seth's Hope Defeats Favorite at Havana

Havana, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Ideal weather conditions prevailed today and the track was lightning fast. The feature number today was the third event, in which Gun Royal was held at 3 to 5. Seth's Hope won it by a length and a half from Mary Helen with Gun Royal another length and a half back. The time was 1:11 4-5 for the 6 furlongs.

Stand By won the fourth at prohibitive odds of 2 to 5. Oncora was second and Mary S. third. Jockey A. Robertson was suspended for ten days for foul riding in the second race, and Jockey Craigmile was given the same suspension for the same offense in the first race on February 2, to take effect tomorrow.

York Defeats Tech Five in Extra Period

Special to The Washington Post.

York, Pa., Feb. 3.—York High overcame Washington Tech's ten-point lead gained in the first quarter, with a brilliant offense in the second quarter and continued its fine play in the third period to win, 40 to 38 here tonight. Tech, after being forced to surrender the lead late in the third period, did not wilt out of the picture, but fought back gamely and, like two of its sister high school teams of the Capital City, forced York into another overtime tilt before admitting defeat.

York has beaten Central and Business, of Washington, in extra period battles, but has bowed to Eastern. Tomorrow night the local school boys will end their series with Washington high schools, being scheduled to oppose Western here. York lead tonight at the end of the third period, 33 to 32—Berger, who had played a spectacular game in the first half, caging six baskets.

SINGLE POINT VICTORY FOR CENTRAL

Baltimore Poly Tech Swimmers Beaten, 35-34; King Stars.

THE Central High School Swimming Team defeated the Baltimore Poly Team yesterday afternoon at Central High School by a count [illegible] margin, 35 to 34. It was a thrilling point-for-point battle throughout, Central coming from behind after trailing [illegible] to 29, to win the 300-yard medley, the final event, which gave it its margin of victory.

William King, the youthful and diminutive Central High School [illegible] was the hero of the meet. He not only placed second in the 50-yard free style event and swam a great race in the [illegible] yard relay, which Central won, but in the final event, which meant either victory or defeat, whittled down a slight advantage which Thompson, of Baltimore, held, and beat him to the tape by a yard or more in a grueling race.

Central won the 200-yard relay, the opening event, but Thompson, star of the Baltimore team, flashed across the mark first in the 100-yard free style, which was next to the last event, and put Baltimore in the lead, 34 to 29. This necessitated that Central win the final event.

200-YARD RELAY — Won by Central (Galther, Hickey, Bates, King); Baltimore team (Wright, Jackson, Thompson, Hughes). Time, [illegible].

50-YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Thompson (P); second, King (C); third, Galther. Time, 0:27 4-5.

Baltimore Poly Five Beaten by Md. Frosh

Flashing a passing attack that overshadowed its opponents' style of game, which was excellent, the Maryland Freshmen Five nosed out the Baltimore Poly Quintet yesterday, 36 to 32, in an exciting game in the former's gymnasium.

Led by Rabbitt and aided by Gaylor and Pitzer, the winners swept through the Baltimoreans' defense in the late stages of the game. Rabbitt's total for the afternoon was 10, while Gaylor mounted 9 and Pitzer 8 in their shares in the victory. Satisky was best for the losers, leading his team with six double-deckers and one foul toss for 13 points.

Kelley Cue Winner Over Rogers, 100-91

George Kelley defeated Walker Rogers, 100-91, in the pocket billiard tournament last night at the Mayfair parlors.

Kelley had a high run of 28 and at one time was out front by a wide margin, but forfeited fifteen balls by scratching three times.

Monday night in the next match, Fred Reynolds is slated to meet Robert Foutz.

Noel Senior Tossers Land Double-Header

The Noel Seniors scored a double victory last night on the Noel House Gymnasium floor, downing the Dixie A. C., 30-16, and Washington Brethren Church Five, 30-19.

The winners are seeking games with senior and unlimited teams. Call Lincoln 2901 after 6 o'clock.

Undefeated Duke Five Faces Test in N. C.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Feb. 3.—North Carolina's basketball epic of 1928 will be enacted here Saturday night. The "Flying Phantoms" of the University of North Carolina will be defending their home floor against the invasions of a Duke University Five that has built up a brilliant record in early-season games.

The game will be called at 8:30 o'clock and will be preceded by games between the freshmen teams of the two institutions.

Duke presents an undefeated record, and the "Phantoms" show only one loss on their slate. That was in a preseason engagement with Tulane at New Orleans and was dropped by a 20-to-19 count, the Tarheels winning two other games with Tulane. Since that time the Tarheel opponents have not threatened seriously. The closest battles have been with Georgia and North Carolina State, and Carolina won those contests handily.

With these records behind them, this classic battle in the Tin Can may be safely predicted to loosen a great tangle in the "big five" championship race. Since early season it has been conceded by most cage experts that the North Carolina crown for 1928 lay between the Tarheels and Blue Devils. Saturday will see it tilt slightly in one direction or the other.

WHIRLWINDS VS. CLOVERS.

Bond's Whirlwinds and Clovers are scheduled to meet tonight at 7 o'clock in the American University Gym in a preliminary to the Methodists' game against the Blue Ridge College Five.

PRESS CLUB DEDICATION WILL BE ON AIR TONIGHT

President Will Be Speaker at Exercises Broadcast Over Red Network.

SYMPHONY TO BE HEARD

The new home of the National Press Club will be formally dedicated tonight at 10 o'clock, and the exercises will be broadcast through WRC and the red network. President Coolidge, who laid the corner stone of the club on April 18, 1926, will deliver the principal address.

There will be a brief speech by J. Fred Essary, president of the club, who will introduce President Coolidge as a member of the newspaper men's organization, in which capacity the Chief Executive will speak. Following the President's address, Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press, will speak.

The program will be broadcast direct from the auditorium of the new Press Club. This auditorium is located on the thirteenth floor of the new club building and is a permanent "pick-up" point for the National Broadcasting Co. in Washington. Studios of the National Broadcasting Co. are on the twelfth floor of the same building.

During the short mid-winter tour of Walter Damrosch with the New York Symphony Orchestra, Mr. Damrosch has arranged a vocal program by well-known soloists, accompanied by an orchestra conducted by Richard Hageman, for the R. C. A. Hour, which will be broadcast at 8 o'clock through WRC.

The singers who will be heard in this program are Gilla Ernstinn, soprano; Viola Vilva, contralto; Lomelino Silva, tenor, and Hans Kramer and Frederic Baer, baritones.

The opening number in this program will be a selection from Beethoven's "Fidelio," sung by the mixed quartet. This will be followed by a baritone duet, "The Lord is a Man of War," from Handel's "Israel in Egypt." Lomelino Silva and Gilla Ernstinn will be heard in a duet from Bizet's "Carmen," and all the singers will be heard in the quintet from act 3 of Wagner's "Die Meistersinger." The orchestra will play Schubert's "Moment Musicale" and Berlioz's "Dance of the Sylphs."

"The Merry Widow," a light opera in three acts, with Jessica Dragonette, soprano, in the leading role, will be broadcast as the Philco Hour feature through WRC at 9 o'clock.

The music of "The Merry Widow" is by Franz Lehar, and the English lyrics are by Adrian Ross. It was produced in Vienna in 1906 and in New York, at the New Amsterdam Theater, in 1907.

The foreign policy luncheon will be broadcast through WRC at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon. R. W. Schrum, a chaplain of the United States Navy, will present the weekly Bible talk at 7 o'clock.

The abbreviated presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's opera, "The Mikado," will be sung by the Estelle Wentworth Opera Company, from Station WMAL, at 9:10 o'clock. The cast of characters includes Elliott Dutton, Woodruff Youngs, Jesse Veitch, Ira Meyer, Melville Veitch, Gladys George, Mildred Sherman, Vesta Pollock, Helen Tucker and a chorus of 30 voices.

Good Health Keeps a Woman Young!

Gartee's Studio.

Paris, Texas—"I was suffering with feminine trouble and after trying several different remedies without receiving any benefit to speak of, I decided to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I was told that it was the best and so it proved to be. I had taken only a few bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' before I was perfectly well and I have never had any trouble of the kind since.

"I also took two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery after an attack of the 'flu' and it built me up in health and strength wonderfully."—Mrs. Gertie Nation, 161 Graham, St.

Dr. Pierce's famous family remedies are sold at all drug stores in tablets or liquid. Write Dr. Pierce, President Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

HICKMAN PLANS COURT "FIT;" YOUTH INSANE, SAY ALIENISTS

alienist followed another to the witness box and told why he thought Hickman sane or insane.

Dr. A. L. Skoog, of Kansas City, defense alienist, said that he had examined Hickman six times between January 25 and February 1, and "believed him to be insane."

Lists Mental Defects.

The witness listed what he considered the outstanding characteristics of the confessed killer's mental condition, delusions of grandeur, assertion of divine guidance and ideas of superiority.

Prosecutor Keyes introduced a photostatic copy of a letter written by Hickman to a fellow prisoner in the county jail after the sanity trial was well under way.

The letter was addressed to "Dale Budlong," and voiced Hickman's fear that the depositions to be submitted as the bulwark of his defense would prove inadequate. The note was given to Dr. Skoogs to read, whereupon he was asked if it gave him "any light as to the sanity or insanity" of the defendant. He declared it did not.

Hickman wrote to "Dale" that he believed he could trust him and wanted his advice. The note read:

"I intend to throw a fit in court. All these depositions won't save me. I will ask the judge to let me talk without my attorney butting in. Then I'll throw a crazy, raving, diving fit.

"I will take a crack at Keyes, too, before the thing's over. For God's sake tear this up or it will ruin me."

It was signed:

"William E. Hickman, alias the Fox. Ha! Ha! Ha!"

Defense Rests Case.

It was here that Walsh arose to announce that the defense rested. A few moments later Keyes, taking the initiative, began the State's drive to break down the insanity contentions. After Sellers had testified, Keyes called Dr. Cecil Reynolds, Los Angeles brain surgeon and mental disease expert. The physician said he had examined Hickman four times since his return from Oregon, where he was captured. Without hesitation the witness replied "sane" when the chief prosecutor asked him for his opinion on the youth's mentality. "Extremely tough," was his description of the mental structure of the defendant.

A decided sense of humor, Dr. Reynolds said, and the absence of any trace of delusions proved to him that Hickman was mentally normal.

Walsh's vigorous cross-examination was interrupted by adjournment.

While defense were permitted to relate conversations they had held with the defendant, the State succeeded in preventing the introduction in the sanity trial of a statement written by Hickman in which he declared himself to be an instrument of providence, devoid of emotion.

Victim of Delusions.

Judge J. J. Trabucco ruled out the document when District Attorney Asa Keyes objected to bringing in "tommyrot written after the prisoner had confessed the crime and had been incarcerated in jail for several weeks."

Dr. Shelton said he had found Hickman's judgment "extremely bad" and that the youth was a victim of "insane delusions and faulty emotion."

Hickman had told him, the witness said that he was "the only person in the world entirely free of emotion," that he killed the Parker girl at the direction of Providence to "bring the attention of the world to me" and that he would have killed his own mother if she had stood in his way.

Dr Shelton said the defendant laughed in discussing the delusion of providential guidance but nevertheless was serious about it.

Amused glances were exchanged by the jurors when the alienist wavered and stammered once under the State's attack on his testimony concerning the length of time it took for insanity to develop in Hickman.

The State attacked the witness' declaration that Hickman's insanity was "an early and not a tail end case." Keyes asked him if he had not testified that the disease began when Hickman was about 12 years of age. The witness stammeringly admitted he had.

"Don't Know; Can't Say."

"That's eight years of development of the disease, isn't it?"

"Well, I don't know; well, I can't say how fast it had developed," the witness testified.

"But eight years couldn't be called an early case?"

"Well, I couldn't say."

Dr. Skoog, staff member of several hospitals in Kansas City, Mo., the next defense alienist, testified to examining the defendant six times between January 25 and February 1 and that on his diagnosis he "believed him to be insane."

Dr. J. M. Fettus, of Los Angeles, another expert called by the defense, said Hickman was undersized and had low blood pressure. Dr. Fettus also declared the defendant suffered from "serous meningitis," or inflammation of the brain covering.

Defense Attorney Jerome Walsh interrupted the session at one point to protest against the "reprehensible conduct" of "some persons in the courtroom." He declared they continued to "smirk and laugh." Judge Trabucco sharply warned that any such practice would result in the persons being removed.

Will Rogers Says Towns Now Boast of Murder Cases

Special to The Washington Post.

Beverly Hills, Calif., Feb. 3.—I want to die claiming only one distinction: the only writer to refuse newspaper offers to cover the Hickman trial.

Instead of being ashamed of it, it looks like every town tries to make their murder the biggest one of the year.

Alienists always furnish humor, if not facts, to a case. Here was one's testimony yesterday: "I find Hickman to have two gold teeth, and sore adenoids."

So the moral is keep away from gold teeth, and watch your adenoids.

VIRGINIA RACE BILL REPORTED FAVORABLY TO STATE SENATE

zens the right of loca option. Former Senator Julian Gunn, of Richmond, also favored the measure.

The antiracing speakers charged it was not a local matter but a Statewide affair and that "it was an insult to the intelligence as well as to the morals of the State."

The Rev. E. Y. Mullins, of Louisville, Ky., of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary there, told the committee that Kentucky's best people were against racing, even though racing advocates did elect a governor by an unprecedented majority in an election in which the machines, were the only issue.

"I think I am right," he said, "when I say that those votes represented dollars, not the people's sentiments." He said that horse racing had "demoralized Kentucky and Maryland and has given rise to a sinister political machine, the shadows of which fall athwart the Kentucky capital." Political corruption and riffraff, he said, followed in the wake of the horses.

The committee, after a short executive session reported the bill favorably, and it was said that a motion to pass it by indefinitely, the equivalent of killing it, elicited only two votes.

The bill now goes to the Senate, where Senator George W. Layman, author of the State's dry law, says he will fight it to a finish. Senator Layman today failed in attempt to have consideration of the bill diverted to the committee on social and moral welfare of which he is chairman.

Another Senate committee killed a bill proposing equal rights for men and women after a hearing at which all of Virginia's women's organizations opposed the measure on the ground that it would take from them the right to force their husbands to support them. The measure was one fostered by the National Woman's Party.

The Vaughan plan for distributing 1,500 miles of road which are to be added to the State highway system this year, to the 100 counties according to area was reported favorably by a Senate committee, which added an amendment making eight miles the mileage for any county. House Delegate George Bowles introduced his plan calling for distribution in proportion to area, population and present mileage.

Under the Vaughan plan, Arlington County is helped more than any other in the State, for with the eight-mile minimum it gets eight miles, while the mileage, if based on area, alone would be 1.15.

In all, 73 counties will be benefited by the Vaughan bill, which provides for the erection of a "feeder" system of roads, all to be connected with arterial highways. He believes his is the best plan for the development of the back counties and that such development would increase taxable values in the hinterlands.

Bills were passed in the senate raising the salaries of supreme court judges by $600 of circuit court judges by $900 and the pay for jury service from $1.50 a day to $2 a day.

Under the new bills circuit court judges will be raised from $3,600 to $4,500.

Senator Henry T. Wickham led a heated attack upon Senator W. Worth Smith's bill increasing the pay for jurors, declaring there was no demand for the increase, and that such an increase would throw the governor budget out of alignment. It passed, however, with only nine dissenting votes.

Coal Decision Attacked.

Action of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the recent lakes cargo rate decision was denounced in a resolution drafted by Delegate Ashton Dovell and passed by both houses. The resolution said the commission was seeking "not to regulate trade, but to control it."

The resolution calls upon the Virginia delegation to "do their utmost to effect changes in Federal laws in order that there may not be a recurrence of the "apparent discrimination."

Rates were fixed on coal cargoes that, according to the resolution, worked a great hardship upon Virginia, and it is the sense of the resolution to ask Congress to do something to curb the power of the commission.

Creation of a business men's commission with power to intervene on behalf of the State in matters pertaining to freight rates was proposed in a bill introduced in the house by Delegate Ashton Dovell.

The commission is one suggested by Gov. Byrd to work for better freight rates by land and water. It will, under the bill, be composed of eleven members, who will serve without compensation. The governor will name one from each congressional district and one from the State at large.

Other Bills Introduced.

This commission will be empowered to intervene for the State at any freight rate hearing, either before the Interstate Commerce Commission or the State Corporation Commission.

Mr. Dovell also introduced a bill providing for another commission to cooperate with other bodies to arrange a fitting celebration of the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, to be held in October, 1931, the 150th anniversary of the British surrender.

A bill to increase the State gasoline tax for roads from 4½ cents a gallon to 5 cents, was introduced by Senator W. H. Jeffrys, jr., of Mecklenburg.

The increase is in line with a proposal made by Gov. Byrd. It should not, the governor says, cause an increase in the price of gasoline, inasmuch as dealers now are charging an extra half cent to the gallon to make their prices "even money."

The bill also would make it an offense, punishable by a fine of $1,000, for a gasoline dealer to refuse to give information and records of sales to the State.

Lynching Attacked in Bill.

Lynching would be made a specific crime against the State, to be prosecuted by the attorney general, under provisions of a bill introduced by Senators Barron and Connor.

The bill also would force any community in which a lynching takes place to pay the dependents of the victim $2,500. This bill carries out another of Gov. Byrd's recommendations, made in an effort to stamp out lynching.

Mrs. Walter C. Fain, delegate from Norfolk, introduced a bill to abolish capital punishment, and fixing the maximum penalty for any offense at life imprisonment.

A bill to abolish a special $1 tax on pistols was passed by the house. The house rejected another measure designed to give the commissioner of labor the right to exercise full power in ordering protection of industrial machinery. The vote was 40 to 42.

Both houses adjourned today until Monday, but members were warned that night sessions would begin next week, and that no more Saturdays off will be had before the end of the session, March 10.

THE SPOTLIGHT

By JOHN J. DALY

When Ruth Gordon finishes the regulation run in "Saturday's Children," the Maxwell Anderson comedy, she is to have a new play, to be produced by Jed Harris, the man who made "Broadway" famous.

One of the sergeants in our own intelligence department, ears cocked always for good news about plays and players, flashes the information that Mr. Jed Harris—inconsiderate of telephone tolls since he made his millions—called the fair young Ruth Gordon over long-distance one morning this week and read to her the play, "Man's Estate." It took, the informant states, all of three hours and a half for a reading of the mss.

Though the name of the author remains a mystery, Miss Gordon herself is quoted as saying of the new work: "It's a tragedy—but it comes out all right!" Hence, it may be inferred that she likes the play and will do well in it. The hope is that the opening takes place in Washington.

Tomorrow night on Broadway a stock company gets under way, its players directed by Clifford Brooke, who helped shape the destinies of the National Theater Players here.

"I want to tell you," writes Sam Stratton, from his West Fifty-fourth street sanctum, "of the Chamberlain Brown Artists. You might be interested in knowing that these players will inaugurate their repertory season at popular prices with a presentation of Henry Arthur Jones' play, "Mrs. Dane's Defense," with Helen Menken in the role of Mrs. Dane, and with such well known artists as Vivian Martin, Robert Warwick, Julia Hoyt, Alison Skipworth, Horace Braham, Stanley Logan, Conway Wingfield, J. H. Brewer, Roy Hargrave, George Alison, Valerie Valaire, Robert Linden and Edgar Henning.

"Two dollars will be the price of the best seats in the house. All tickets on sale at the box office.

"'Mrs. Dane's Defense' will run two weeks, succeeded by 'Sherlock Holmes' for a similar run.

"Mabel Brownell, long a director of repertory theaters throughout the country, will have personal supervision of production.

"The $2 top marks a radical departure from the usual Broadway scale and is particularly interesting in view of the fact that such well known stars have been engaged to participate."

Indeed, this is interesting news to Washington, long sold on the repertory idea. The question is, how will Clifford Brooke direct two companies, one on the Hudson and another down here on the Potomac?

Romaine Callender is the last of the National Theater Players to keep the fires burning on Broadway. He sends in the information that Kathryn Givney has said her last line in "The Night-Stick," the police melodrama that got its start here under the title, "One of the Finest." New York just can not see a policeman as leading character in a play. However, Romaine, as the hard-boiled district attorney in "The Racket," another play that premiered in Washington, still continues to wear his red necktie and brown overcoat. He hopes to cling on until Easter Monday brings the egg-rolling contests to the White Lot. Then the National Theater Players open their season and there will be loud calls for Mr. Callender in this parish.

Mr. Lionel Stoddard Taylor, the ever-busy manager of the Belasco, is anxious to let a waiting public know that he has booked Katherine Cornell in "The Letter," a play by Somerset Maughn Last seen here, Miss Cornell starred in Michael Arlen's drama, "The Green Hat," which leads Nelson Bell, the demon movie reviewer, to recall a little pleasantry that passed not so long ago in Los Angeles, home of the cinema.

It seems that Michael Arlen went out there to have a hand in the filming of his celebrated story. Feted and dined everywhere, just one of the struggling girl geniuses of the movies failed to fall in love with him; didn't like Michael, in fact. One of her sisters berated the girl: "Why, that's the celebrated Michael Arlen, from Armenia—'The Green Hat,' you know."

"Well," said the little cynic, "he might be a green hat in Armenia, but he's only a brown derby over here."

Unless Edward Dyer, the big insurance man and policy polisher from Hartford, Conn., is spoofing, the man who wrote "Broadway" came originally from the Nutmeg State. Philip Dunning is the boy—and he now has the satisfaction of knowing that most of the wiseacres on Broadway turned down his play till it came to Jed Harris.

As Phil Dunning relates the story to Ed Dyer, who, in turn, relays it here, an author has his troubles.

Here is a paragraph from the letter: "I wrote 'Broadway' about three years ago when I was stage manager for the Shuberts. They turned it down. I sold it to William A. Brady. He gave me $500 in advance, but when it came to production, he couldn't or wouldn't go through with it. He called in a lot of people and asked them what they thought about it. He, personally, thought it was a good bet; but the other fellows must have discouraged him, for I got it back.

"Then I sent it the rounds. A funny thing happened to me the other day. I was walking along the street and a manager came up to me. He said: 'Why didn't I get a crack at that play of yours? Are you sore at me for something?' I didn't know what to say to him, because the play had been in his office for about three months and the play reader hadn't even shown it to him. Just sent it back to me—'not interested.'"

* * * *

This may or may not be funny. At any rate, it comes from one of America's funny men—De Wolf Hopper. Having read in The Washington Post about some of his earlier days in Chicago, when Hobart Brooks—our own Hobart—was press agent for Leslie Carter in "The Heart of Maryland," and the late John McKinney paraded press stuff across country, Mr. Hopper writes:

"In the production of 'Panjandrum,' in, I think, the season of '94, Mr. McKinney, spoken of in the Brooks story, was still my advance agent and he had elaborated with much fervor on the glories of the production in the various cities visited. He dwelt with particular force on the fact that we had two imported mules for this production; how expensive and how beautiful they were, &c. They really were exceptional animals of the technically called 'spotted type' or 'calico' like the proverbial circus horse. They were 14 hands high and perfectly matched. In Memphis, Tenn., McKinney was accosted by a representative of one of the local papers—a very pleasant young man just out of college and apparently very green in newspaper work. So McKinney cut loose on him, elaborating in even greater detail on the glories of the production. He dwelt with much fervor on the mules, saying they were imported from Andelusia at enormous expense; how they had been imported when 'mere puppies' and broken in by me during their adolescent stage; that it had taken me many, many months to do this, but that my ultimate success had been superlative. When McKinney was all through, this very sweet and receptive young man assured Mr. McKinney that he had been duly impressed with the wonders of the forthcoming production and that Memphis should indeed be happy at so wondrous an engagement and added very naively that in return for the time Mr. McKinney had given him he would like to have him just outside the city limits and show him just where the mules had been bought and many others of like persuasion which could still be obtained. McKinney recovered from the swoon ultimately and all turned out well.

"If this is any good, Mr. Daly, do with it as you see fit.

"Sincerely yours,
"DE WOLF HOPPER."

It sounds good to me.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

Recently this prophetic palladium intimated that there was a strong probability that John J. McGuirk would step down from the presidency of the Stanley Company, of America, at the annual stockholders' meeting next July.

I hasten to report that that was wholly erroneous.

Mr. McGuirk resigned from the presidency of the Stanley Company, of America, at the meeting of the board of directors, held in Philadelphia last Friday and was succeeded by Irving D. Rossheim, formerly treasurer of the company, according to authentic advices.

Mr. McGuirk's life during his incumbency of the post left vacant by the untimely death of the late Jules Mastbaum was dedicated to expansion. Under his direction the Stanley Co. expanded so rapidly that it split several seams and popped off more than one button—and those buttons and seams are of national, as well as local, concern since the Stanley Co. of America and its affiliated interests comprise one of the most far-reaching exhibitors' organizations in the country.

By glancing over my shoulder I am enabled to observe that Mr. Daly, my esteemed confrere and office mate, is aglow with satisfaction that the sponsors of the starring vehicle for Esther Ralston, to be seen at the Rialto theater beginning today, should have seen fit to name their opus after his department in the Daly issues of The Post, "The Spotlight."

Disquieting reports come from the West Coast to the effect that when their current picture is completed, Jack Mulhall and Dorothy Mackaill will no longer be teamed by First National. Mr. Mulhall, it is announced, will be individually starred in the title role of "The Butter and Egg Man" and Miss Mackaill's contract, according to present rumor, will not be renewed.

I fear this signalizes a recrudescence of those unpleasantnesses which had their inception at the time Miss Mackaill went West under the impression that she was to be cast opposite Richard Barthelmess in "The Patent Leather Kid," only to find that Molly O'Day had been chosen for the coveted role. The former "Follies" coryphee indulged in a protracted period of sulks during which she was off the company's payroll. It was generally supposed that all these differences had been overcome to the complete satisfaction of those concerned.

Perhaps they had, and these are all new mads.

It has come to these ears, and I am afraid reliably, that Jack Connolly, the well-known globe trotter and diplomat of the celluloids, is about to embark upon another European expedition in the interest of the Fox Movietone News.

When a valued emissary of the Will H. Hays organization, with nominal and highly theoretical headquarters in the Capital, Mr. Connolly diverted himself wearing a path to and from California, much after the manner of Mr Brisbane whose record, if our mind for figures is as bad as usual, is eleven round trips to the coast since yesterday morning.

If Jack has been successful in convincing William Fox and Winfield Sheehan that the Atlantic Ocean needs a lot of traveling, he is even a more finished master of the science—or is it an art—of hypnosis than we have heretofore suspected.

The flambouyant treatise occupying the screen at the Strand Theater under the title of "The Red Kimono" will be held over one extra day, through tomorrow, February 5, with a special afternoon performance for women and the night exclusively for men. The picture was sponsored by Mrs. Wallace Reid, according to announcement, and is interpreted by a cast in which Priscilla Bonner and Tyrone Power are prominent.

"Seeing America in Song" is the title selected by J. Virgil Huffman, organist at the Palace, for his recital to be given tomorrow afternoon preceding the regular screen and stage program Mr Huffman has compiled a medley of hits characteristic of various parts of the country, and has arranged them in groups easily identified with the respective geographical locations represented, such as "Songs of the South," "Songs of the Cities," &c.

But what we are especially interested in learning is that one the fellow bought the house and lot for.

Nellie Revell, who spent four years flat on her back in a New York Hospital, and by sheer power of indomitable will achieved a miraculous recovery after every one else had given up hope has resigned as publicist for the United Artists' theaters in Chicago and Detroit, due, it is said, to a savage and sudden antipathy toward the methods of Lou Anger, U. A. representative. It is not inconceivable that Miss Revell should have rebelled when Mr. Anger offered her half salary for her work in Chicago after she had "stolen" the Chicago press for her theater and attraction.

From Los Angeles comes a similar report that James Cruze has walked out on Pathe after a stormy session with Elmer Pearson, executive vice president and general manager of that distributing organization, owing to differences concerning the handling of Mr. Cruze's productions. While Miss Revell has seemingly sound reasons for her defection, I can not imagine any one's storming out of the presence of Mr. Pearson one of the most genial souls in the picture business and a square shooter always ready to give the other fellow a break.

I'll have to string along with Elmer in this squabble, even if Jimmie Cruze did make "The Covered Wagon" and "Old Ironsides."

I note that Milton Davis, recently resigned from the leadership of Meyer Davis' Le Paradis Band, and Nell Paxton, who as an avocation conducts a canary bird farm out at 3800 Fourteenth street, have exchanged organ shifts at the Earle Theater. Mrs. Paxton now presides at the console during the morning and supper shows and Mr. Davis during the regular afternoon and evening sessions when Dan Breeskin's orchestra is recessing.

And don't ask me, "what of it?"

Last week's niftiest subtitle was spoken by James Hall to Madge Bellamy in "Silk Legs," at the Fox: "Let me know some time when you feel like walking and I'll take you out for a ride."

Watch this column for important announcemnt next Tuesday and buy tomorrow's big Sunday Post—5 cents a slice at all newsdealers—for all there is to know about the movies—approximately.

Hollywood Stars

Lubitsch Will Direct John Barrymore in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney."

Special to The Washington Post.

Hollywood, Calif., Feb. 3.—United Artists are going to experiment with Ernst Lubitsch as a director for John Barrymore in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," which has been announced as John's next work, once "The Tempest" is satisfactorily completed.

To get Lubitsch, United Artists is paying a stiff sum to Paramount, which holds the German director's contract. Camilla Horn, it is said, may get the role opposite Barrymore, which Ina Claire played on the stage.

Joseph M. Schenck, president of United Artists, originally intended "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" to star his sister-in-law, Constance Talmadge, but that plan was discarded and the screen version is being reshaped to make the man's role dominant. It is a 100-to-1 bet that the play will never be released under the same name as the stage version, if Barrymore converts it into a man's vehicle.

To turn Jim Tully's story, "Beggars of Life," into a screen play, the Famous Players-Paramount Corporation has bought from Tully the rights both to his novel, and to his play "Outside Looking In," which was based on the novel. The corporation also gave Tully a contract to assist in an advisory capacity in the screening of the story.

William Wellman will direct and Richard Arlen and Louise Brooks have been tentatively selected to head the cast. Ben Glazer is adapting the story.

James O'Shea, assistant director to Ricard Wallace, formerly was in the undertaking business in Chicago, and has probably the strangest ambition in Hollywood. O'Shea's idea is to get plenty of money out of his motion picture career, and then buy himself a morgue and funeral parlor, where he can follow out the profession at which he started and, as he says, "enjoy life comfortably."

Stone Tent Pole Set As Circus Memorial

Wahpeton, N. Dak., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—A stone replica of the center pole of a circus tent rises from the prairie near here. On June 10, 1897, lightning ripped through the center pole of Ringling Brothers main tent and as the big canvas structure billowed to the ground, three circus workers were killed.

Ringling Brothers erected the replica as a permanent memorial. It stands ten feet high, and on it are shown pulleys and chains just as they appeared on the original pole.

When circus troupers come into this neighborhood they march in solemn procession for memorial services at the unique monument.

League Fails to Link Cancer and Races

Geneva, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Whether certain races are more susceptible than others to cancer can not definitely be determined, the health section of the League of Nations has concluded after long and minute investigation. The term "race" is too vague and too ill-defined, in the opinion of the international experts, to afford any solid basis for establishing distinctions as to cancer susceptibilities.

On the other hand, certain facts were brought out about the efficacy of early operation for cancer and the relatively greater liability to cancer of unmarried or barrenwomen and of mothers who do not nurse their own children.

Adventists Planning Expansion in China

San Francisco, Calif., Feb. 3 (A.P.).—An attempt will be made by the Seventh Day Adventist Church to carry on an expanded program in China instead of curtailing missionary work because of unsettled conditions there.

The Rev. William A. Spicer, president of the church, made the announcement as he departed for Shanghai to attend a conference of missionaries of the Far East. He was accompanied by the Rev. John L. Shaw, treasurer of the church.

The two churchmen will return in April to prepare for a world conference of Seventh Day Adventists here in late May and early June.

WOMEN THANK POST FOR COOKING SCHOOL BY VOTE AT ARCADIA

Housewives Applaud as One of Audience Praises Mrs. Northcross.

PAPER HOST TO 3,000 AT CLOSING SESSION

Delegate, in Speech, Asks That Instruction Be Given Again.

With an estimated attendance of more than 3,000 at the last demonstration, or 1,000 more than when the school began four days ago, The Washington Post cooking school, held at the Arcade Auditorium, closed yesterday, by unanimous agreement a complete success.

In fact, it was generally regarded that it was just as great a success as it was possible to make a cooking school under the circumstances.

Mrs. Frances T. Northcross, cooking expert conducting the school, was lauded warmly by the housewives who attended the demonstrations.

They gave a rising vote of thanks to Mrs. Northcross and to The Washington Post, under whose auspices she appeared.

At the close of the final demonstration yesterday Miss Anne Marie Howard, of the Driscoll Hotel, went on the platform at the request of women present and made a short talk, praising Mrs. Northcross and The Post.

She expressed the hope that The Post would have the cooking school next year and that Mrs. Northcross and no other would be selected to conduct it. The crowd concurred in her sentiments with vigorous applause.

Talks of Budgets.

Mrs. Northcross in the last lecture talked on "Budgeting." She warned the women to watch for wastefulness. The excellence of a cook, she said, is measured on the scale of how much she wastes, because the really good cook can make delicious dishes of what an inferior cook would throw away.

She suggested ways of forming budgets and living up to them, based on different salaries. She told the housewives, however, that they would first have to set a standard of living for themselves, and that their budget was largely dependent on themselves and their circumstances.

She demonstrated yesterday recipes for making planked fish in gelatine, chicken croquettes, one-egg cake, chocolate cookies, porcupine pudding and cream puffs.

The Hot Point range yesterday went to Mrs. J. Clarke, 3422 Garfield place northwest; the Eureke vacuum cleaner to Mrs. E. F. Callahan, 1349 Kenyon street northwest; the Johnson floor polishing machine to Mrs. R. A. Voshall, 3427 Quebec place northwest, and credits on the General Electric refrigerator each to Mrs. Raymond Bowen, 1725 Seventeenth street northwest; Mrs. W. H. Gerow, 3774 Thirty-third street, Mount Rainier, and Mrs. Edna M. Graeves, Silver Spring, Md.

Many Receive Food.

Mrs. H. L. Burks, 406 East Howell avenue, Alexandria, Va., received the planked fish; Mrs. A. J. Brosseau, 2801 Adams Mill road, the croquettes; Mrs. K. Waters, 1869 Mintwood place northwest, the salad of lettuce; Mrs. A. K. Jones, 1814 G street northwest, a cake; Mrs. L. M. Wickbein, 4728 Eighth street northwest, the ginger ale salad; Mrs. Alva Baynes, 404 the McReynolds, six cans of selected vegetables; Mrs. Mary J. Beale, 4225 Fourth street northwest, the purcupine pudding; Mrs. Edith Allan Crump, 3402 Sixteenth street northwest, a pie; Mrs. S. Isenberg, 1651 Eleventh street northwest, a can of Crisco; Mrs. E. S. Handiboe, 1823 Kilbourne street northwest, a large can of Calumet baking powder; Mrs. C. A. Rapee, 1340 Harvard street northwest, all flowers, and the following baskets: Mrs. Thomas Rogers, 3435 Fourteenth street northwest; Mrs. Helen M. Galbraith, 3203 Tenth street northeast; Mrs. Walter H. Gerow, 3724 Thirty-third street, Mount Rainier, Md.; Mrs. Herbert Ridgeway, 2222 R street southeast, and Mrs. Josephine McDonald, 3104 Mount Pleasant street northwest.

Police Informer Pleads Not Guilty

Walter Smith, colored, a police informer, yesterday pleaded not guilty to charges of perjury and waived a preliminary hearing before Judge Robert Mattingly in Police Court. He was held in $1,000 bond for action of the grand jury.

Smith was charged by police of the Tenth precinct with having given false information which led to raids for liquor and gambling by police of the Tenth precinct.

Damages Paid to Couple.

Mrs. Louella M. Harrell, 2526 Seventeenth street northwest, was awarded $300 damages and her husband, Walter M. Harrell was awarded $100 damages yesterday by a Circuit Court jury against Maurice G. Long, trading as the Pioneer Laundry, for alleged personal injuries to Mrs. Harrell. Through Attorney R. E. Welford, the plaintiffs charged that on May 20, 1926, a truck belonging to the defendant struck a lamp post at Sixteenth and Fuller streets northwest, causing the glass and the lamp frame to fall on Mrs. Harrell, who was on the sidewalk.

Mrs. Keyser Seeks Maintenance.

Nonsupport is charged against Earl Keyser, foreman employed by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co., in a petition for maintenance filed yesterday in Equity Court by Mrs. Cleo Keyser, 31 Seventh street northeast. They were married March 6, 1923, and have two children. Attorney James A. Burns appeared for Mrs. Keyser.

COGSWELL APPOINTMENT IS FAVORABLY REPORTED

Senator King Fails to Press Objection to Man Named Registrar of Wills.

DIPLOMA-MILL BILL OUT

The Senate District committee yesterday made favorable reports on the nomination of Theodore E. Cogswell to be Registrar of Wills of the District of Columbia and on the bill to stamp out so-called "diploma mills" here.

Cogswell was nominated to be Registrar of Wills by President Coolidge at the beginning of the Seventieth Congress. Senator King (Democrat), of Utah, however, held the nomination up. He said he had received a complaint against Cogswell, alleging, among other things, that Cogswell had a "swelled head."

When the Senate District committee decided yesterday to make a favorable report on Cogswell's nomination, Senator King was not present. Evidently he did not want to be present, as there had been plenty of notification given that the meeting was to be held.

The antidiploma mill bill, which the committee reported favorably to the Senate, empowers the Board of Education to pass judgment on all degree-conferring institutions in Washington.

Representatives of correspondence schools attempted to have the committee insert a clause in the bill to legalize the awarding of degrees by correspondence schools where it was signified on the sheep skin that the degree was awarded as the result of a correspondence course. The committee, however, refused to insert such a clause in the bill.

At hearings conducted by the committee, it was testified that hundreds of "diploma mills" were in operation here, and were sending out degrees to all parts of the United States and Europe.

Mrs. Noble Newport Potts was toastmistress.

As a result of changes made by the Senate appropriations committee, the bill will be thrashed out in a conference between members of the House and Senate before final vote is taken.

The appropriation is for $2,300,000 for the Arlington Memorial Bridge for carrying along the work on that great span. It is not expected the bridge will be completed until spring of 1931.

Plans were completed yesterday for the midwinter dinner of the Board of Trade to be held at 6:45 o'clock this evening at the Willard Hotel. Seven hundred and fifty members and guests will attend the affair.

At a meeting of the rivers and harbors committee yesterday afternoon Frank P. Leetch, chairman, cited efforts of the group to get the study and survey of the United States Army Engineers for the development of the water front before Congress. The report showed that 1,600,000 shore tons of freight were brought into the harbor last year, an increase in tonnage of 600,000 tons since 1922. A subcommittee will be named to enlist the aid of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce in having the Washington harbor dredged to a depth of 24 feet, with a channel 300 feet in width, in order to accommodate ocean-going vessels.

Bullet-Spitting Car Stops Liquor Chase

Amid a hail of bullets fired from a supposed liquor car, Motorcycle Policeman Thomas F. Heide, of the Twelfth Precinct, was forced to abandon the pursuit of the vehicle on the Bladensburg road early yesterday morning, although he returned a volley of shots in an effort to halt the speeding car. None of the bullets found their mark, he said.

A short time later another car, supposed to be a part of the convoy, was halted and five persons arrested charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. They are Augustine P. Reed, 34 years old; Howard Simms, 39; William E. Delaney, 25; Loretta Bright, 33, and Pearl V. Webb, 31, all colored.

DANCE CHANGE LOST BY MRS. VAN WINKLE

Commissioners Reject Her Plan for Drastic Revision of Hall Regulations.

The proposal of Lieut. Mina C. Van Winkle, commander of the Woman's Bureau of the Police Department, for drastic changes in the regulations governing dance halls and night clubs in the Capital was disapproved yesterday at a board meeting of the District Commissioners.

The opinion of Corporation Counsel William W. Bride that there was no urgent necessity to modify the regulations nor the need of further legislation to govern the halls and clubs was upheld by the Commissioners. The Commissioners also agreed with Mr. Bride in the matter of permits for public dances and issued an order that whenever applications are made for permissions for such dances, the Police Department must investigate the character of the applicant before issuance of the permit. Heretofore permits were issued by the superintendent of licenses without investigation.

Lieut. Van Winkle's proposals would force the halls and clubs to have women supervisors, responsible to the Woman's Bureau; bright lights burning in the places at all times; no closed rooms or compartments; patrons under 18 years of age accompanied by a legal guardian; no pass out or return checks; midnight closing on week days and closing all of Sunday, and revocation of license or fine for violation of the regulations.

Justice, Enriching Self, Denounced

The speeding and reckless motorist and the "fining squire," who place the dollar above justice in the trial of alleged law-breaking motorists, were denounced in an address by Mayor Harry W. Buse, of Ridley Park, Pa., yesterday at the luncheon meeting of the Caravan Club of Almas Temple in the Raleigh Hotel.

The squire or justice, who uses his office to enrich himself, was termed a disgrace to justice by Mayor Buse. The surest way to rid the Nation of speed demons and reckless drivers, he said, was to educate them of the need to observe the rights of pedestrians and to drive at a moderate speed at all times. Mayor Buse cited figures showing that 21,000 persons were killed and 700,000 were injured by automobiles in 1927 and that more than $4,000,000 was paid in fines by motorists during the year.

Employment Bureau Decision Is Delayed

Judge John P. McMahon took under advisement yesterday a motion to quash the information charging John D. Kendall, manager of the Washington Business Bureau, with violation of the act of Congress regulating employment agencies. Samuel A. Syme, attorney for the defendant, attacked section 8 of the statute which regulates the fees which lawfully can be charged, as unconstitutional in that it was unwarranted interference in the pursuit of a business conducted as an inherent right and not by a grant of privilege.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Thomas held that the District of Columbia is not included in the scope of the fourteenth amendment and that Congress has a right to regulate any business in the District. Kendall was charged specifically with accepting a fee of $2 for registering George Garbough, 413 U street northwest, on his list of applicants. The law allows a fee of $1.

HINES URGES CHILDREN'S EDUCATION AGAINST REDS

Tells Eight and Forty Society Soviet Is Teaching Youth to Spread Communism.

MANY OTHERS SPEAKERS

Education of children of veterans in principles of Americanism to combat Soviet designs upon future generations was urged upon the Eight and Forty Society last night by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the United States Veterans Bureau, at a dinner at the Washington Hotel in honor of their national officers.

Gen. Hines declared that Russia and its communistic teachings offers no immediate challenge. The Soviet, he said, is drilling its principles into its children with a view to converting future generations to its doctrine. Emphasizing the importance of adequate provision for veterans of the late war, he declared "no nation that has failed to honor its soldiers has long endured."

Col. J. Miller Kenyon, department commander of the American Legion, welcomed the guests, and a response was offered by Mrs. Lowell P. Hobart, past national president of the Legion Auxiliary. There were brief addresses by Mrs. Ida M. Walbridge, national president of the Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. Edna Davol, Le Chapeau National of the Eight and Forty, and Pelham St. George Bissell, Chef de Chemin de Fer of the Forty and Eight.

Other speakers were Senator J. H. Metcalf, of Rhode Island; Miss Lela Angleberger, Mrs. Lois McRae, Miss Janet McRae, Mrs. Emma I. TAXI DRIVER ROBBED BY BANDIT "COUPLE"

Female Impersonator, Who Entered Cab, Leaves Wearing Trousers.

A female impersonator, one of a pair of bandits engaging the taxicab of Walter F. Spittle, emerged from the cab dressed in trousers when the pair held up the driver a few miles south of Frederick, Md., early yesterday morning. They took $11, 86 of which they had already paid the driver as advanced fare.

Spittle told the police that the pair, one clad in the garb of a woman, engaged his cab at Eighteenth street and Columbia road northwest about 3 a. m., and gave Rockville as their destination. Arriving there, he was told to drive to Frederick, Md., and paid the money when he demurred. Nearing Frederick, one of the passengers thrust a gun against Spittle's back and he was commanded to stop and turn over his money.

He was surprised to see two men leave the machine, one of them carrying a suitcase. After disabling his cab by removing ignition wires to delay his start, the bandits made off down the road, threatening to "blow his brains out" if he reported the affair. The driver, after securing a loan of money from a resident near Buckeystown for a supply of gasoline, returned to this city.

CRIME WAVE DENIED BY RABBI SCHWEFEL

Blames Publicity for Impression Wrong-Doing Increases; Advocates Reforms.

Denying that there is now more crime than in the past, the Rev. Dr. Louis J. Schwefel, rabbi of the Sixth Street Synagogue, last night declared at the young people's service that the impression of a crime wave is created by the enormous amount of publicity given to crime by the newspapers.

To the contrary, the rabbi said, statistics for the last thirteen years show that there has been a decrease in practically every form of crime. There is less serious crime among Jews, he said, than any other race of men.

Dr. Schwefel attacked capital punishment and term jail sentences, and declared that criminals should be treated as sick people in need of education and wholesome environment. Term jail sentences do not reform criminals, protect society only temporarily and do not deter others from crime, he asserted. He advocated a probationary system of handling criminals, and insisted that a large percentage would be reformed under such a system.

AUTO-BUYING MOOD INDICATED AT SHOW, OFFICIAL DECLARES

12,000 Expected to View Display on Closing Day of Exposition.

ATTENDANCE MAY EXCEED RECORD OF LAST YEAR

Exhibition Held Success, Despite Traffic Tie-Up on the Opening Night by Storm.

Washington motor lovers to the number of 12,000 are expected to throng the Washington Auditorium between the hours of 2:30 and 10:30 p. m. today for a last panoramic view of the 160 shimmering and colorful motor cars assembled in the National Capital's eighth annual automobile show, already the most successful in the history of the Washington Automotive Trade Association.

Before the curtain drops finally tonight on the exposition of passenger cars and automotive accessories the show committee is confident that the attendance record of last year, when 80,000 visitors passed through the doors, will have been shattered.

Representing the widest array of passenger cars ever exhibited in Washington, given the most colorful and elaborate decorative scheme ever created as a background for such a display, the show overcame the greatest weather handicap ever imposed upon an exhibition of this type here, according to Rudolph Jose, director.

Interest of City Keen.

The result, he declares, has been emphatic and indisputable proof that the city's interest in automotive products never has been so keen. It has demonstrated that unless there is some untoward and unforeseen change in the situation, Washington will contribute more than its share to the greatest year of automotive buying in the history of the industry, Mr. Jose and other exhibitors are convinced.

"A critical sense of values born of years of car ownership has impelled the average show visitor of this year to evaluate the 1928 car with the utmost accuracy," the show director declares. "This fact, together with the sense the public has of a tremendously keen competitive struggle has been outstandingly obvious throughout the exposition. Perhaps the estimate of 5,000,000 car sales is too high for 1928, but it seems inevitable that the record of 4,480,000 units sold during 1926 will be equaled or exceeded.

"Certainly the temper of the Washingtonian at the eighth automobile show could not be judged otherwise than as an indication of a buying mood."

Many Come Often.

"Repeat attendance," that which involves more than one show visit, has been impressively larger this year, according to estimates of exhibitors. This is construed as indicating a disposition on the part of the motorist to make his study of the individual cars much more thorough than a mere visual view of the more obvious design features.

Yesterday's crowd was the largest of the week, and last night was marked by an attendance exceeding anything of the past. Thus has each day been marked by constantly greater attendance since the opening last Saturday night when the traffic tie-up, due to the heaviest snow in six years, reduced the crowd many thousands over the estimates of show officials.
